FLOCK TO ALBANY FOR HEARING TODAY ON TRANSIT BILL

Delegations From 59 Cities of State Will Be on Hand to Hear Arguments.

HYLAN ALREADY ON FIELD

O'Brien Will Seek to Rouse Opposition at Meeting of Mayors' Conference in Morning.

HECKLING BEE PLANNED

Brass Band Will Lead Senator Johnson's March on Assembly When He Arrives Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—Every city in the State will have a delegation at the Capitol tomorrow for the hearing of the Governor's transit bill. From some of the municipalities rival delegations will be on hand, one to support, the other to oppose the passage of the measure.

The hearing is to be held in the Assembly chamber, but there is every reason to believe that this large auditorium will not begin to hold all those who want to see what is looked forward to as a battle royal between United States Senator Johnson of California and prominent advocates of the bill. At other hearings, where the New York City traction situation has been involved, Mayor Hylan, who arrived here this evening, has occupied the centre of the stage, but on this occasion Senator Johnson easily will crowd the Mayor out of the spotlight. Interest here was intensified tonight when a report was received that Senator Johnson, when he marches up Capitol Hill, would be preceded by a brass band.

Mayor Hylan Arrives.

It was after 9 o'clock when Mayor Hylan arrived. He was accompanied by David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, and John P. O'Brien, Corporation Counsel. The Mayor announced that Senator Johnson would follow on the Empire State Express tomorrow.

"I came up tonight," said the Mayor, "to attend the Mayors' conference."

"Any comment to make on the bill or on the transit situation?" he was asked.

"No, I cannot say that I have, he replied. "I am sorry that I haven't got a brilliant thought to give you on that subject."

Then he went to his room.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien will report to the Mayors' conference on proceedings at the meeting here of Corporation Counsels and City Attorneys last Thursday. Mr. O'Brien, it is expected, will lead a move at the meeting to have the conference adopt a resolution condemning the Governor's bill.

Legislative leaders asserted today, with a great deal of firmness, that while they had neither the power nor the intention of interfering with circus parade tactics in the public streets, the brass band would have to remain behind when the Californian entered the Capitol Building. There was in this ultimatum a note of ominous portent, on which only one interpretation can be put. Members of the Hylan-Hearst delegation, due to arrive here early tomorrow to make a demonstration rather than argument, will find themselves held down sternly to sober, matter-of-fact discussion of the Transit bill itself and proposed amendments, with any attempt at gallery play or giving a political twist to their speeches severely frowned on.

Heckling of Hylan Expected.

There is every reason to believe that Mayor Hylan, should he speak as expected, will come in for a good deal of heckling by members of the Senate Public Service and Assembly Judiciary Committees, before which bodies the public hearing will be held. Through long years of service on these committees many members have become expert in public utiliteis legislation and collateral questions.

As for Senator Johnson, while the lawmakers who are conversant with his gift for ready reply might be more hesitant in "going after" the Californian, one legislator tonight said he was determined to edge in a few pertient questions with a view to ascertaining the truth regarding the circumstances under which the man from California was retained by the New York City Administration to take up the cudgels for the Mayor and his transit policy.

Senator Lusk, President pro tem. of the Senate, made reference from the floor today to the coming of Hiram Johnson in debate on a local measure affecting Buffalo in which the question of home rule arose.

"I am glad," said Senator Lusk, "to have this opportunity to make clear my own views on home rule before that great burlesque performer Hiram arrives here to tell us all about it."

Simultaneously it is likely that the Mayor of practically every city in the State will attend the hearing, for the midwinter meeting of the New York State Conference of Mayors has been called for tomorrow. Some of the city executives are beginning to arrive tonight. Most of the Mayors are not committing themselves in advance of tomorrow's meeting, when, it is expected, some action will be taken before the public hearing is held to place the Mayors' Conference on record either in favor of or against the bill. A majority of the Corporation Counsels and City Attorneys, representing twenty-five out of the fifty-nine cities in the State, who

Wants One Cabinet Member For War, Navy and Aviation

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Creation of a Federal "Department of National Defense," in which the army and navy and a third division having to do with aviation would be combined under one Cabinet member, has been recommended to President-elect Harding by Senator New of Indiana, generally regarded as one of the President-elect's most trusted advisers.

Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Committee said that he had never discussed the question of consolidating the army and navy with either Mr. Harding or former Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, who is to be Secretary of War.

CARUSO UNDER KNIFE FOR THIRD TIME

SINGER IS RESTING EASILY

Oxygen Tanks Are Taken to His Apartment in Readiness for a Relapse.

Caruso underwent a third operation yesterday morning for a small abscess in the pleural cavity and was reported by his physicians to be resting comfortably last night. They said that this new complication did not assume the seriousness of a relapse.

Seeking for the cause that kept the tenor's fever hovering around 100 degrees ever since he fought off his relapse two weeks ago, the consulting physicians decided that infection had attacked some other part of the pleural cavity that had previously been safe from the ravages of his two months' spell of pleurisy.

This opinion that a small abscess had formed at a spot below the region of the previous suppuration was confirmed when Caruso tossed and tumbled all of Monday night, with high fever and was unable to snatch any sleep. He complained of the pain, and opiates were used to give him relief.

With Caruso's pain becoming acute, a call was sent out from the singer's suite on the eighteenth floor of the Hotel Vanderbilt for the consulting physicians more than two hours in advance of the time for their regular morning consultation. They decided that an operation should be performed immediately to relieve the pain and to locate the abscess that was causing the high fever by permitting the obsorption of the poison into his system.

"Are You Ready?" Asks Caruso.

"Are you all ready?" Caruso was reported to have said when the physicians communicated their decision to him.

"Yes," was the reply.

"So am I," he replied with a smile. "When do you start?"

Gas was administered to the patient so that he would not feel the pain of the probing knife, and in about five minutes the important part of the surgical task was finished and Caruso was beginning to regain consciousness.

"Well, is it all over?" he is reported to have asked as he came out of the gas, and when he was informed that the surgeons had finished their work he turned on his side and dozed off under the influence of slight opiates.

Convinced that they had found the cause for Caruso's continued fever, the physicians then issued this bulletin shortly before noon:

"Mr. Caruso has had a second slight re-collection of pus in the flank, which has been successfully evacuated. He is resting comfortably.

"Dr. JOHN F. ERDMANN,
"Dr. SAMUEL W. LAMBERT,
"Dr. EVAN M. EVANS,
"Dr. ANTONIO STELLA,
"Dr. FRANCIS J. MURRAY."

It was explained that the "flank" was the lower part of the pleural cavity, adjacent to the region affected in the early stages of Caruso's illness with pleurisy. The impression was given by the physicians that they were not alarmed and that this latest complica-

INDICT 40 OFFICERS AND 74 COMPANIES IN CEMENT 'TRUST'

Bills Against $600,000,000 Combination Returned by Federal Grand Jury Here.

OPERATIONS NATION-WIDE

RESULT OF SECRET INQUIRY

Evidence Obtained by Prosecutors Appointed by Attorney General Following Lockwood Disclosures.

Seventy-four big cement corporations, composing what Government officials describe as the "Portland Cement Trust," and forty individuals, officers of the corporations, were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury here yesterday for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

The indictment was the result of an exhaustive secret investigation conducted by Special United States District Attorneys William Rand and Isidor Kresel, who were appointed by Attorney General Palmer, following the Lockwood committee's disclosures, to prosecute violators of the Federal laws in the building trades. The cement case is the first one resulting from the inquiry of the special prosecutors.

Notification of the Grand Jury's action was sent to all the indicted corporations and individuals. The date for their arraignment will be decided upon at a conference between the special prosecutors and counsel for the indicted men and corporations.

There are two counts in the indictment—one alleging restraint of trade and the other monopolies and attempts to monopolize. The Government contends that the combination, which is nation-wide, was brought about through the activities of six dominant cement companies in the country, whose financial strength is so great, whose plants are so strategically situated, and whose influence in the trade is so strong as to make it an easy task to either persuade or coerce the other cement companies to follow their lead.

Absolute Control Charged.

It is charged that the alleged combination, representing $600,000,000, has so effectually maintained uniformity of price, divided territories, limited output, and has so regulated the class and character of customers who might buy cement and the purpose to which cement might be applied, as in effect to exclude cement from the ordinary channels of trade and commerce. In fact, the Government alleges, cement, as the term is used under ordinary competitive conditions, is no longer an item of barter and sale, sold freely in the market, but instead is controlled by the manufacturers up to the moment it is actually employed in construction work.

The Government officials in charge of the inquiry said after the indictment was returned that cement followed only iron and lumber in its extent of use in construction work. "It can be reasonably expected," one official asserted, "that a successful prosecution of the cement combination will materially contribute to bringing about a wholesome condition in the construction industry."

The six dominant concerns in the industry, the Government charges, are the Alpha Portland Cement Company, the Atlas Portland Cement Company, the Lehigh Portland Cement Company, the Cement Securities Company, the Giant Portland Cement Company and the Universal Portland Cement Company. The Lehigh Portland Cement Company is described as a concern of millions of dollars capital, and having some fifteen mills, extending from coast to coast. The Cement Securities Company, a Western corporation, monopolizes the Rocky Mountain States, the Government alleges, and dominates the mills in California, in the Northwest and Texas. It has just effected a merger with the Portland Cement Company, one of the great Eastern concerns.

The companies named in the indictment, which, it is charged, control the

President Bids Good-bye to His Cabinet; Reviews Crowded Years at Last Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Wilson said farewell to his Cabinet today at their last meeting. There was little formality about the proceedings, the session being devoted mainly to reminiscences of the eight years of President Wilson's Administration. All the members of the Cabinet were present, and the session lasted three and a half hours.

A good part of the time was taken up with a review by the President of the accomplishments of the Administration. What he said was described as impressive. He contended that it was necessary for the United States to enter the World War.

Members of the Cabinet joined in discussing phases of the President's policies, with the conclusion reached that the Administration had made a record to be proud of.

As a mark of affection the members of the Cabinet gave to the President the chair he had occupied at the Cabinet table during his two terms. This they bought from the Government.

In return the President gave to each member of his official family an autographed photograph of the Cabinet taken last week with the President at the head of the table.

After the meeting the President shook hands with the Cabinet officers and said to each a personal word of appreciation and farewell. At times the President's voice trembled as he extended his thanks for past services and good wishes for the future.

When the Cabinet members were gone the President remained behind for a few minutes to receive a delegation of the Valley Forge Historical Society, who presented to him a certificate as "Honorary Perpetual Benefactor" and the insignia of the organization, as a "teacher, writer and maker of history."

Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint, stepped into the room to wish the President farewell. "Take good care of the Mints," the President enjoined him as he shook his hand.

Rear Admiral Grayson, the President's physician, stopped long enough to wave a greeting, which the President acknowledged with a cheerful nod.

A few minutes later the President, leaning on his cane and limping slightly, passed slowly out of the executive offices where for more than six years before he was taken ill he thrashed out with his Cabinet momentous questions which faced the nation. It was probably his last visit to the offices and the leave-taking plainly affected him. He descended the steps, and as he started down the walk made a movement as if to return, but apparently reconsidering the impulse, went straight forward and passed out of sight around the corner of the building.

Havana Gets Report That Wood Will Be Envoy

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, March 1.—Major Gen. Wood will accept appointment as special representative of the United States in Cuba, according to a dispatch tonight to La Noche.

There have been rumors for a week that either General Wood or General Goethals would be assigned to special work in Cuba by the incoming Administration.

The dispatch to La Noche, published under a St. Augustine date line, with a full-page heading, says that General Wood preferred to come to Cuba rather than accept the position of Governor General of the Philippines.

H. P. ZIEGLER KILLED BY RICH DIVORCEE

Chicago Rubber Company Official Shot Dead in Apartment of Mrs. Orthwein.

HAD QUARRELED AT RESORT

Woman Says She Shot When He Had Broken Down Door—Had Planned to Leave Her.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Mrs. Isabella Cora Orthwein, a former St. Louis society woman and the divorced wife of a wealthy oil operator, shot and killed Herbert P. Ziegler, district manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, in her apartment in Surf Street this morning.

When the police broke into the apartment they found Mrs. Orthwein sobbing over the body of the man. A revolver with two cartridges discharged lay near the body. There were some half empty bottles in the room and, lying on a table, with the lines heavily underscored, was a book of poems open at this passage:

> From Love's close kiss to hell's abyss is one sheer flight, I trow;
> And wedding ring and bridal veils are will-o-wisps of woe,
> And 'tis not wise to love too well—and this all women know.

An attempt by Ziegler to break off a relationship of which he had grown weary seemed to be the real prelude to the murder. Friends of Mrs. Ziegler, from whom he had been separated for some time, say a reconciliation had been effected and he had pledged his wife he would sever all relations with Mrs. Orthwein. His wife and Elaine, their sixteen-year-old daughter, had just returned from California and occupied the family residence. Ziegler had been living at the Congress Hotel. On Monday evening the reconciliation was completed, it is said. Ziegler promised to cease all attentions to Mrs. Orthwein and Mrs. Ziegler promised to withhold divorce proceedings.

The police say that Ziegler then went about the task of telling Mrs. Orthwein that he was done with her. This, it seems, necessitated a trip to a prominent North Shore resort, where Ziegler is said to have drunk more than was good for him. He was attentive to two girls he found there and a quarrel resulted, and Ziegler and Mrs. Orthwein threw liquor in each other's face. She called a friend and asked him to take her home, which he did.

She says that shortly thereafter Ziegler called her on the telephone and asked permission to come to her apartment, but she refused to see him. She says he came, nevertheless, considerably under the influence of liquor. It appears he had a key to the apartment, but she had locked her bedroom door against him. She says he burst the door open and began beating her, when she shot him. The police found the outer doors open, and the bedroom door showed that it had been broken down by force.

Mrs. Orthwein is the divorced wife of Ralph Orthwein of St. Louis and former President of the American League baseball club of that city. He is said to have settled a cash sum of $350,000 upon her at the time of the divorce. She was born in Columbus, Ohio, and her maiden name was Isabella Landrum. She was famous for her beauty in Kentucky. In 1907 she was divorced from Jack O'Connor, manager of the St. Louis Browns, and shortly afterward she was married to Orthwein. She was prominent in St. Louis and famous for her beauty and horsemanship.

The Zieglers were married eighteen years ago, but trouble arose. They were reconciled later and Ziegler sent his wife and daughter to California. He was very fond of his daughter and this led to the reconciliation of Monday.

The inquest, begun this afternoon, was continued for one week at the request of Mrs. Ziegler, wife of the dead man, and his father, Peter H. Ziegler, a police officer. The elder Ziegler told Coroner Hoffman they wanted time to produce additional witnesses, who, it was declared, would tell a different story from that of the accused woman.

As the defendant was led from the courtroom by Mrs. Mary Shea, matron of Detention Home No. 1, where she is a prisoner, she was crying.

"There's no witness who can swear truthfully I threatened him," she sobbed. "God knows I did not want to kill Herbert Ziegler. Why do they want to continue the inquest? There is nothing they can gain.

"I gave him all I had—his wife had done the same before me, even before I knew him. Still he was not satisfied. He trifled with her and he deceived me. When he turned to another woman I was through. I told him so, and that was what made him a maniac. He was not satisfied to let me go, but wanted me and the other woman, too."

SENATE VOTES CALL FOR ARMS PARLEY OF THREE POWERS

Unanimous for Asking President to Summon Britain and Japan to Confer.

BORAH PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

Edge Offers It as Amendment in Long Fight Over Naval Bill.

JAPAN DEBATED IN SECRET

Executive Session Held for Discussion of Situation in the Pacific.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Senate tonight by a vote of 58 to 0 adopted an amendment to the Naval Appropriation bill proposed by Senator Edge of New Jersey modifying Senator Borah's naval disarmament proposal.

The Edge amendment changes the Borah amendment in that, instead of directing the President to invite Great Britain and Japan to a disarmament conference, it provides that the President may issue the invitations "if not incompatible with the public interests." The Borah plan was further amended through the insertion of the word "proposed" so as to make it read the "proposed understanding" on the subject of disarmament. As amended, the Borah proposal provides that the President, if not incompatible with the public interests, shall invite the Governments of Great Britain and Japan to consider a reduction of the naval building plans for a period of five years.

By a vote of 30 to 28 the Senate defeated an amendment offered by Senator Walsh of Montana to authorize the President to invite the Governments of the leading nations to send delegates to meet in the United States or elsewhere to consider the question of disarmament. This was opposed on the ground that it was tantamount to a recognition of a League of Nations. The Senate divided on strict party lines except that Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia voted with the Republicans against it.

After the disarmament vote the Senate, which had been in session nearly thirteen hours, took a recess until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Executive Session Held.

In a final effort to get action on the navy bill, Senator Lodge, the majority leader, moved at 4 o'clock this afternoon that the Senate go into secret executive session. The motion was carried.

Senator Lodge, arguing for the prompt passage of the bill, informed the Senate that this Government intended to maintain a strong policy in the Pacific and that if this policy was to prevail the naval arm must not be weakened. The Yap controversy was reviewed at length, as were also other features of the Pacific problem. Senator Lodge made it plain that he was not predicting anything so serious as war, but that he was asking the Senate to make possible a navy adequate to the needs of the United States.

Other Senators spoke, some of them Democrats as well as Republicans, supporting the position taken by Senator Lodge. Still others asserted their continued opposition to the passage of the half-billion-dollar bill recommended by the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Senator Williams of Mississippi charged that Senator Lodge was trying to raise a "bugaboo" in an effort to get the Naval bill out of the way. He said he declined to concede that the "bugaboo" existed.

Lodge Discusses Pacific in Secret.

It is understood that much of the information given to the Senate by Mr. Lodge was based on testimony recently given the Committee on Foreign Relations by Under Secretary of State Norman H. Davis. Mr. Davis has been before the committee on several occasions and is known to have imparted a vast deal of information about the foreign relations of the United States, especially Pacific questions. Among other things he gave the committee a complete record of the Yap negotiations at Paris during the Peace Conference.

It was 4:10 P. M. when the Vice President ordered the galleries cleared and all doors barred. At 6:35 o'clock the five bells which signalled the end of the secret debate sounded in the Capitol. Senators said afterward that while the debate was illuminating and at times very interesting little progress, if any, was made in untangling the snarl into which the Senate has been driven as a result of the controversy over the 1921-22 naval appropriations.

As soon as the open session reconvened Senator Poindexter, in charge of the naval bill, declared that in view of what had been said in the secret session he would leave nothing undone in his efforts to secure the passage of the bill before adjournment, and that his intention was to keep the Senate in continuous session until it voted one way or the other on the measure.

Senator Borah, replying to Senator Poindexter, said he wished it made plain that instead of his position being changed as a result of the secret session he was more convinced than ever before that the stand he was taking was correct. The bill, he asserted, could not pass in its present form.

"Yes," said Senator Williams, interrupting, "and if this bill is passed we will have given notice to every nation in the world that America is seeking sea domination."

That the naval bill will fail of passage at this session of Congress appears tonight to be a foregone conclusion. Less than a dozen Senators

GERMAN OFFER OF $7,500,000,000 REJECTED; LLOYD GEORGE ENDS PARLEY ABRUPTLY; MILITARY CHIEFS CALLED IN COUNCIL

225,000 New French and Belgian Troops Ready for Invasion; Our Troops Not to Move

PARIS, March 1.—During the last three days 13,000 Belgian troops on the Rhine have been reinforced by two divisions [about 25,000 men], while the French have 150,000 men in the occupation zone, with 200,000 held in reserve less than twenty-four hours away, making a total force ready for invasion of nearly 400,000 men.

COBLENZ, March 1.—The status of the American Army of Occupation in case the Allies decide on invading Germany will be the same as that maintained during the occupation of Frankfort, the Associated Press learned today.

No action, it was asserted, would be taken beyond the occupation of the actual lines now held.

HARDING ANNOUNCES SELECTION OF FALL

Only Cabinet Place Still Unfilled Is That of Secretary of Labor.

DAVIS STILL IN THE LEAD

President-Elect Has a Talk With General Wood About Taking Philippines Post.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, March 1.—President-elect Harding, who arrived early this morning from Florida, notified Senator Fall today that he had been "nominated" as Secretary of the Interior and asked him to arrange his affairs to serve in the Cabinet. Mr. Harding also confirmed the selection of Chairman Hays as Postmaster General and that of Andrew W. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury.

This leaves but one Cabinet place unfilled, that of Secretary of Labor. Mr. Harding said today that he wished to make this public as a separate announcement. It is still expected that he will announce the choice of James J. Davis of Pittsburgh on the ground that Davis as a former union workingman, and now an employer and head of a fraternal organization, will better represent all labor, union and non-union, than a Federation of Labor man, such as James Duncan or T. V. O'Connor. John I. Nolan, labor leader of San Francisco and a friend of Senator Hiram W. Johnson, was at one time Mr. Harding's choice for the post and there is nothing to show that he may not still be selected.

Arriving at 4:10 A. M., Mr. and Mrs. Harding had breakfast with Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer, at White Oaks. Then they visited Mr. Harding's father, Dr. George T. Harding. Later Mr. Harding dropped in to The Star office to say "Hello, boys, how's everything?" and to be assured that the newspaper plant was in smooth running order.

He went afterward to the Marion Club to meet old neighbors and look at the new Harding room and pose with members for a picture.

The President-elect spent the rest of the day in the headquarters where members of his staff had been working during his absence.

Late this evening Mr. Harding had a conference with General Leonard Wood, who has been asked to accept the post of Governor General of the Philippines. Their talk took place in an ante-room of the Masonic Hall. General Wood made no decision on the President-elect's offer, but holds it under consideration. He said the matter might not be decided until after another conference with Mr. Harding, which, it is understood, will be held in Washington.

Mr. Harding's conference with General Wood was sandwiched between the degrees he took in his initiation into the Knights Templar. After taking one degree the President-elect would go to the conference room for a few minutes' talk and then leave to receive another degree.

In these piecemeal conferences several subjects were discussed, ranging from the Philippines to the Cuban situation and military affairs. General Wood said that he was considering several propositions that have come to him, all of them depending upon his decision upon the Philippine offer.

It is understood that Mr. Harding asked General Wood's opinion concerning Cuban leaders with whom the General came in contact when he was Governor General of Cuba.

Before leaving the hall General Wood made a short speech to the Knights, in which he said:

"We are all behind the next Administration to the limit of our ability in its efforts to work out the great problems confronting it."

The President-elect will be the centre tomorrow morning of a ceremony of farewell and "God bless you" from the citizens of Marion. The Rev. Dr. T. H. McAfee, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, will make the presentation of a silver placque and Mr. Harding will respond. A reception will follow.

WASHINGTON March 1.—Senator Fall declined today to discuss a statement of Mark B. Thompson at Santa Fe that the Senator might not accept the post of Secretary of the Interior, but Senators and others in his confidence said that there was no basis for the statement.

Newport Invites the Hardings.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 1.—President-elect and Mrs. Harding have been asked to make Newport their Summer home during Mr. Harding's term of office. After a conference of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Aldermen Mayor Mahoney and President Caesar of the Chamber sent a telegram to the President-elect asking that he "favorably consider Newport."

FRENCH ARMY READY FOR JUMP FORWARD

"Foch Has But to Say the Word" to Start Invasion of Germany.

PUBLIC IS NOW AROUSED

All Parties, Realizing Force Is Now Necessary, Are Rallying to the Cabinet.

PARIS, March 1.—Everything is in readiness along that part of the Rhine held by the French for a jump forward at a few hours' notice should the occasion arise, The Associated Press was informed in official circles this evening. Plans have been going on for some days in anticipation of any action which might make a forward movement necessary and, in the words of a high official of the War Office, "Marshal Foch has but to say the word."

The German counter-proposals created nothing short of amazement in French official and diplomatic circles, as well as among the members of Parliament. Advanced information regarding the propositions to be submitted by Dr. Simons, the German Foreign Minister, as received in Paris, was to the effect that the proposals were more reasonable and might form the basis of discussion. The consensus of opinion this evening, however, was that no discussion was possible.

French officials, however, cannot hide the feeling of satisfaction that the German attitude should "show that the French viewpoint had been correct from the first," that Germany was unwilling to face the responsibilities, and also prove to Great Britain and the rest of the allied and neutral world that "Germany will understand nothing but the application of force, and that it is useless to deal with Germany in a spirit of justice and fairness."

Popular feeling is greatly aroused, and the opinion everywhere is expressed that France has waited long enough and that the movement of troops into the interior of Germany would meet with smaller opposition from the opponents of the Government now than at any other time, owing to the fact that the Government has the communist situation well in hand, the leaders either having been sent to jail or silenced.

A Deputy who voted against Premier Briand on the Paris conference decision informed the Associated Press today that should M. Briand return to Paris tomorrow and ask the chamber to ratify the penalties decided upon he would receive a vote of over 500, only the Socialists and Communists voting against him.

Satisfaction is also expressed at the British Prime Minister's attitude, which is mentioned in official dispatches as "showing deep resentment" toward the Germans over their uncompromising counter-proposals. If forcible coercion becomes necessary officials here feel that it will have the moral support of all the allied countries, as well as the United States.

In the absence of Premier Briand and War Minister Barthou it is not expected that an order to go forward would come before tomorrow night at the earliest, as it is presumed that a final opportunity will be given to the Germans to recede from the position taken today. If a marching order comes tomorrow night, the troops would be ready to go forward Thursday morning at daybreak.

The Associated Press was informed from Belgian sources today that Belgium is ready to follow France's lead. The fact that General Maglinse, Chief of the Belgian General Staff, was called hurriedly to London and left Brussels this afternoon to confer with Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Wilson is interpreted in Belgian circles as meaning that the plan decided upon contemplates collaboration of Belgian troops in the Essen-Dusseldorf district.

NO DECISION ON RENT LAWS.

Court of Appeals Officials Forecast Ruling Next Tuesday.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 1.—A number of decisions were handed down by the Court of Appeals upon its reconvening today, but the cases testing the constitutionality of the renting and housing statutes passed last year and by the Extraordinary session of the Legislature were not among them.

Court officials indicated that the rent decisions would probably be rendered next Tuesday.

SUPREME COUNCIL ANGRY

Germans Told They Fail Utterly To Realize Their Position

HEAR VERDICT TOMORROW

SIMONS WIRES TO BERLIN

Ruhr Valley May Be Occupied and Germany's Customs Seized Among Other Coercive Steps.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 1.—The London conference today gave short shrift to the counter-proposals for payment of the indemnities put forward by Dr. Simons on behalf of the German Government.

These were that the reparations total be fixed at 50,000,000,000 gold marks, from which payments already made, amounting according to the German estimate to 20,000,000,000 gold marks, should be deducted, leaving only 30,000,000,000 gold marks ($7,500,000,000) to be paid, 8,000,000,000 of which should be raised by an international loan free of income tax.

As conditions of this offer Germany demands retention of Upper Silesia and that she be restored to free commercial privileges throughout the world.

[In contrast to this German offer the Paris proposal decided upon by the Allies was that Germany should pay 226,000,000,000 gold marks (about $56,000,000,000) over a period of forty-two years.]

After a very brief exchange of views with other members of the Supreme Council, Premier Lloyd George said conclusively:

"The German Government appears to have a complete misunderstanding of the realities of the situation, and the Allies have already agreed that the German proposal is one they cannot examine or discuss as an alternative to the Paris proposal."

Later in the day, after a further meeting of the Supreme Council, it was announced that the juridical and military advisers of the Supreme Council had been summoned to meet tomorrow morning and report to the Supreme Council, which would on Thursday inform the German delegation of the measures which the Allies proposed to take.

When the conference met this morning it was at Lancaster House, better known as the London Museum, instead of at St. James Palace, which was the scene of a royal levee. St. James Palace provided a much more spectacular entertainment than did Lancaster House, where there was only a small crowd to see the Germans arrive in motor cars placed at their disposal by the Hospitality Committee of the British Government. There was no demonstration. Premier Lloyd George, who came on foot, and Premier Briand both received a cheer.

The conference sat in the dining room, Germany's nine delegates facing sixteen British and French delegates with Mr. Lloyd George in the centre, and the Italian, Japanese and Belgians occupying side tables. The British Premier opened the proceedings briefly, and Dr. Simons rose to enunciate what Mr. Lloyd George had in his preliminary remarks described as "the German observations on the Paris proposals." From the outset it became apparent that what Berlin was offering was a series of counterproposals as different from the Paris scheme as chalk is from cheese.

Dr. Simons's Counter Proposals.

Dr. Simons said the German Government was not in position to accept the Paris proposals in their present form and therefore put forward counter-proposals of their own. Difficulty lay in the fact that the Paris proposals involved a fundamental contradiction. They required the raising of Germany's productive efforts to the maximum, but they feared that German competition might be a menace to the allied nations. The German counter-proposals took the Paris suggestions as a basis, but arrived at very different conclusions.

The Allies required that Germany after a preliminary period of eleven years should pay annual instalments of 6,000,000,000 gold marks, that is £300,000,000, for thirty-one years, but all the experts agreed, said Dr. Simons, that the only method by which the Germans could pay these annual sums would be by having a surplus of exports.

It was also agreed by the experts that to provide this surplus after paying for raw materials and food which the German population must import it would be necessary for Germany to export four times as much as the amount of the annuities. Moreover, the burden on Germany was increased by the fact that she had been deprived of considerable territories from which she had been used to draw her raw materials. Consequently, Dr. Simons contended, it was inevitable that if Germany's exports were forced up to the level the Paris proposals required they would constitute a serious menace to the commercial prosperity of the rest of the world.

Turning to the proposed export duty, Dr. Simons argued that it would have to be paid either by the consumers of German exports, if Germany succeeded in forcing up her prices to them, or by German industry. In the latter case German industry would be so greatly weakened that it would not be able to compete in the markets of the world, so the German Government held that the Paris proposals were based on too transient a conception of the conditions of German industry.

Germany was in position to export goods today because she was favored by the state of exchange and by low cost of production, but these conditions were not likely to be permanent and were a proof of the unhealthy condition of German industry which was largely due to the condition of her national currency.

When all these things were taken into consideration a great deal of confidence in the future of their country was required for the German Government to offer any definite promises of payment at all. Still they felt they must make such proposals because the German people were quite prepared to make sacrifices if thereby they would exchange some definite liability for the indefinite liabilities imposed by the Treaty of Versailles.

Thinks 42-Year Period Too Long.

The German Government considered that the period over which payments were required by the Paris proposals was too long and that the payments demanded at the end of the period were too heavy, for it might well happen that the German people might refuse to work to restore their country if they knew that however hard they toiled their children and grandchildren would not be benefited.

Now the present value of the annuities laid down in the Paris proposals, argued Dr. Simons, was only 4 per cent. of their nominal total; and he urged that what really mattered to the Allies at the present time was not sums of money which might be obtained in the distant future but credits that could be mobilized at once. So he suggested that the total sum payable by Germany should be fixed immediately and that when that was done the German Government should undertake to pay interest and sinking fund charges upon it in the usual way.

Proceeding to definite suggestions, Dr. Simons argued that if the sums due under the Paris proposals were discounted at 8 per cent. their present value would be only 50,000,000,000 gold marks, or £2,500,000,000, but he said Germany had already made considerable payments to the Allies, the exact amount of which was in dispute between the experts on either side. The German experts held that Germany had already paid 20,000,000,000 marks, consequently the remaining German obligation was only 30,000,000,000 marks, that is £1,500,000,000.

This, in the view of the German experts, was the utmost she could manage to pay, but she was quite willing that a joint commission should be appointed to examine the value of the reparations she had already made.

Proposes International Loan.

The best way to make this German obligation available, went on Dr. Simons, was to get an international loan floated on which Germany should undertake to pay interest and sinking fund charges, but the experts asserted that the largest international loan which it would be possible now to float would be 8,000,000,000 marks, or £400,000,000, and to raise that sum would be possible only if the loan enjoyed such privileges as freedom from income tax.

Dr. Simons realized that Finance Ministers all over the world would be opposed to such an idea, but he nevertheless held that it was well worth while. Consequently his Government was willing to engage itself to pay interest and sinking fund on an 8,000,000,000-mark loan. This would leave another 22,000,000,000 gold marks which it would not be possible to cover by an international loan, and for payment of interest and sinking fund on this sum also Dr. Simons said the German Government would make itself responsible.

The German experts, indeed, did not believe that German industry would reach its maximum capacity to pay until 1926, but they thought Germany could pay each year until that date 1,000,000,000 marks, or £50,000,000, toward liquidation of the unfunded debt as well as interest and sinking fund charges on the international loan. Then in 1926 the situation should be reviewed and a new financial arrangement extending over thirty years be concluded.

Supreme Council Indignant.

There will be no difficulty on the part of the Allies in arriving at an agreement upon the measures to be taken to compel Germany to compliance. For the moment it is still a debatable question which form of penalties shall be applied first, but there is no essential difference of opinion among the Allies in regard to the point that the German Government has by its attitude invited the sternest procedure that may be found necessary. Premier Lloyd George's statement that the German Government had failed to understand the realities of the situation only partially described the view taken by the Supreme Council of the German proposals.

That the Turkish delegations should have appeared before the conference, not as the representatives of a defeated nation, but as plenipotentiaries of a Government which, as the result of changes in the situation that have come about since the armistice, was in a certain measure entitled to submit new proposals for consideration, caused relatively little surprise. It was expected of the Turks, whose traditional policy has been to play off one European interest against another. With Germany the case was entirely different.

One view largely taken in London tonight was that Germany had made a supreme tactical blunder from her own point of view. There had been some expectation that Dr. Simons would take the position that, while his Government regarded the Paris decisions as too onerous and in a sense impossible, Germany would do all in her power to comply, leaving it to actual experience in the future to determine what measure of relief the Allies would, in their own interest, find it advisable to concede.

An argument of that kind would have enlisted a certain amount of support in allied quarters. While it might not—in fact, would not—have created any division between the Allies, it would at least have necessitated discussion of such amendments of the Paris proposals as Germany might have sought to advance. There would have been debate on the pros and cons, which for a period, at least, would have postponed application of the penalties which the Allies are now determined upon.

German inability to recognize that the Paris proposals had the effective backing of the powers which subscribed to them is described as being on a par with the constitutional Teutonic incapacity to regard any compact as sacred. It was said tonight:

"Germany's mistakes in understanding the national psychology of other peoples was of material value to the Allies during the war. Berlin's supreme blunder in misunderstanding the Allies' position now arises from the same inability to see things as others see them."

The diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph quotes one of the Italian delegates as remarking, "Dr. Simons has proved himself to be the antichrist of reparations finance." Count Sforza, the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs and the chief Italian delegate at the conference, said the German proposals would make Mr. Keynes himself a Germanophobe.

"The Germans," he added, "are the worst friends of themselves."

An amusing detail of the morning was that Dr. Simons was so ill at ease in delivering his speech that he actually forgot, in referring to an aide memoire, subsequently communicated to the Supreme Council, to draw attention to the fact that Germany's offer was subject to two conditions: (1) Her retention of Upper Silesia, and (2) her freedom from all commercial restrictions.

Had Had Friendly Reception.

Conversations with the German delegates tonight indicated that Dr. Simons was agreeably impressed by his reception at the conference. Premier Lloyd George shook hands with him, a circumstance which appeared to have surprised Dr. Simons. The German Foreign Secretary, however, was later disagreeably impressed by the way in which the British Premier cut him short when he spoke of one of his experts reading the details of the German plan.

"You can put in any documents you please," said the Premier, "but," and he then delivered himself of the remarks which brought the morning session to an end.

Apropos of the effect created upon the Supreme Council by Dr. Simons's statement, the story goes that as the German Foreign Secretary was about half way through his argument Lloyd George leaned over to the French Premier, M. Briand, and whispered in not too low a voice:

"At this rate it is we who shall be paying Germany's war debts."

The Germans on the whole appear to be the happiest among the various delegations here tonight. They apparently have no idea of packing up their trunks and departing for Berlin. One of them said:

"The most important point brought out by Dr. Simons was the fact that the Paris proposals are based on transient conditions. What we propose is only a commencement. We want it understood that we shall eventually be prepared to rediscuss the whole question in the light of economic developments."

British comment in regard to this was that Simons had apparently not spoken strictly by his brief. In French quarters the general feeling may be described as one of bitter satisfaction that their estimate of the German character has been so completely and quickly confirmed. That section of British opinion which was tired of exacting the uttermost from Germany must now be convinced, according to French opinion, that the Allies are dealing with people whose one object is to squirm out of their liabilities. Force, according to the French, is the only instrument which Germany recognizes, and they were delighted that Lloyd George should have instantly perceived that the only answer which could be made to Simons was an immediate threat of compulsion.

It is stated tonight that unless Berlin responds with a quick intimation of a change of heart the Allied Council is already determined that the Allies will continue to hold the present occupied areas of Germany, that the Ruhr Valley will be occupied, that Germany will not be allowed to enter the League of Nations and that the German customs will be seized.

The character of the German proposals is considered to be so flagrantly defiant that the French contention for immediate enforcement of the allied decisions by military penalties instead of waiting for May 1 was considerably strengthened.

This afternoon's meeting of the Supreme Council was concerned with the question of deciding precisely what penalties should be resorted to in first instance as most suited to the present circumstances. Preference was expressed in one quarter for economic penalties, but it was pointed out that these would be bound to operate rather slowly, however effective and productive they might prove to be in the long run. The military penalties, on the other hand, might produce an almost immediate effect upon the mind of a nation like Germany, and, although not in themselves productive, but rather costly, indirectly they might prove productive by compelling Germany to yield with a minimum of delay.

There remained, however, the question of what form and direction the military advance should take and this, says The Daily Telegraph, in view of the absence from the Chequers Court conversations of any Italian and Belgian military representatives was held to warrant the holding at noon tomorrow of the full military council on that subject.

Prior to this military gathering, which will synchronize with a further reunion of the principal allied delegates, the committee of jurists will also meet to draw up the list of Germany's infractions of the Treaty of Versailles, inasmuch as the penalties will be justified on that broad basis.

Dr. Simons has been cabling extensively to Wilhelmstrasse since the conclusion of today's sitting, and the next German move, if there is to be one, will depend on the reply received.

The German delegation was entertained tonight by Herr Stahmer, the German Ambassador.

Sketched as Simons Talked.

LONDON, March 1 (Associated Press.)—While Dr. Simons was developing his plan to the London Conference today Premier Briand commented that the proposals were so drawn that they amounted to an offer that if the Allies would advance Germany money on favorable terms, then Germany would pay them. He was sketching on a pad of paper before him. He drew a caricature of himself, with long hair and baggy trousers, and wrote under it:

"The little Breton listening with curiosity to what the boches have to say."

M. Briand passed the drawing to Lloyd George, who smiled and said:

"From the way things are going, in another ten minutes we shall have to pay."

Reuters Limited says it understands from French quarters that among the proposed penalties for Germany, if she does not agree to the reparations demands, are the levying of 50 per cent. on sales of goods from Germany in allied countries, the establishment of special customs, which from an economic viewpoint would separate the left bank of the Rhine from the remainder of Germany, the occupation of the coal ports on the right bank of the Rhine and, as a last resort, the seizure of German customs.

DISPUTE GERMAN VALUATION.

Allies Put at One-Tenth Berlin Estimate of Reparations Made.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Germany has submitted to the Allied Reparations Commission a list of reparations and payments to the amount of 21,000,000,000 gold marks, or approximately $5,250,000,000, which she claims to have made up to last Jan. 21, according to advices received today in official circles.

The advices give the basis for the claim as made by Germany that she has complied with Article 235 of the Treaty of Versailles under which she was obligated to pay before May 1, 1921, the equivalent of 20,000,000,000 gold marks "in order to enable the allied and associated powers to proceed at once to the restoration of their industrial and economic life."

The Allied Reparations Commission, however, is understood to have valued the payments which Germany thus claims to have made in the form of merchant marine, railroad rolling stock, submarine cables, &c., at only one-tenth of the 20,000,000,000 marks figure.

DEFENDS HILL AND LINDSAY.

Congressman Denies That War Graft Investigators Planned Blackmail.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Vigorous denial that U. M. Hill and C. C. Lindsay, investigators for the House War Expenditures Committee, planned to blackmail persons alleged to have defrauded the Government in the settlement of war claims, was made today in the House by Chairman Johnson of the subcommittee for which the men collected evidence.

Flourishing a photostatic copy of a letter said to have been written by Hill to Lindsay stating that they could sell the information to a newspaper for $2,000, or might obtain $5,000 from persons affected for suppressing it, Mr. Johnson declared it a "forged copy of a letter of which there never was an original."

He denied that Hill ever wrote the letter, adding that it was turned over by the War Department to a House committee to embarrass the investigation and attack the men who conducted it." Mr. Johnson said he was certain that the Secretary of War had no personal information of the matter, but that the letter came through the Military Intelligence office.

Mr. Johnson said he was convinced that the "Pittsburgh case," which Hill and Lindsay investigated, was full of graft, as will later be developed by the next Attorney General of the United States."

REPLY TO GERMANS APPROVED BY PRESS

"No Trace of Loyalty or Good Faith" in Offer, The Daily Chronicle Declares.

HAVE UNITED THE ALLIES

Opportunity to Gain Liberal Support Lost, Daily News Points Out, and Solid Peace Endangered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 2.—The Daily Mail's editorial article says Germany's impudent proposals were very properly spurned with contempt by Lloyd George, and adds:

"There can be no alternative if Germans stand by these astounding proposals but immediately to apply the penalties for defiance. Any other course would leave this country with taxes seven times as heavy as German taxes, unable to compete with German industries or to pay its debt to the United States, while France would be ruined and bankrupt. It is well that the Germans shound understand the resolute determination of the British and French peoples to make them pay for the wanton and wicked damage they have done. We are not going to have our own pockets further searched for their sin."

The Daily Chronicle says editorially:

"We regret very much the action of the Berlin Government. British opinion is anxious to give them fair play and would have supported a considerate examination of any scheme brought forward in good faith and with due regard to the facts of the case. It is recognized that however loyal Germany might wish to be in the execution of the treaty, reparation for her enormous wrongdoing requires most careful thinking out. But in yesterday's offer no trace of loyalty or good faith appears, and the thinking out is directed not to executing the treaty but to evading it. Germany has come down again on the wrong side of the fence, on the side favored by those forces who ruled her before the war. In so doing she has made incomparably more difficult the task of all those who wish to bury the bad past and to see her taking her part as a converted character in the community of nations."

The Morning Post says:

"Dr. Simons by his performance of yesterday morning has made the task of the Allies easy. A clever diplomatist would have tried to divide them. He would have set England and Italy against France, Briand against Poincaré, Lloyd George against the Labor Party. But the German Foreign Minister has done none of these things. On the contrary, he has stifled all possible opposition and all possible qualms in allied countries and has given them unity of aim and purpose which they have not possessed since November, 1918. Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, in his insolence and arrogance at Versailles, did much to stiffen the allied waverers, but Dr. Simons in London has outdone even that supercilious and unbending protégé of Potsdam."

Referring to Simons's deduction of £1,000,000,000 for reparations already made, The Morning Post says:

"Apparently he included in this sum the value of the war material already handed over to the Allies. Guns which scattered desolation in France, and which if not handed over might do so again, are to be included in reparation made to that unhappy country. Has Wilhelmstrasse lost entirely its little sense of humor as well as its little sense of moderation?"

The paper concludes: "The tragedy of yesterday's speech, for it is a tragedy, is that it proclaims to the world that Germany even now does not realize the infamy she committed and the suffering she imposed on the world. Well, she must learn and the Allies, we hope, will see to it that the process of enlightenment, though it may possibly be painful, will certainly be complete."

After remarking that German psychology is the despair of other nations and that one of the causes which lost them the war was their inability to understand the mentality of either neutrals or enemies, The Daily News editorially says:

"Dr. Simons and his colleagues came to England with a great opportunity. They could theoretically have torn in tatters the recent Paris agreement, which, by an arbitrary mathematical formula, imposed on them impossible demands in the reality of which no one believed outside of France, and they could have replaced it with a reasoned and reasonable offer that would have appealed to the common sense of allied peoples. Instead of that they have indeed astonished the world by meeting absurdity with absurdity. Not only do they base their offer disingenuously on inaccurate interpretation of the Paris terms of discount but the proposal to fix indemnity at £1,500,000,000 is one which must be frankly recognized as unacceptable, while the suggested annual payment for the first five years of £50,000,000 is exactly half the sum that Keynes in his book on the treaty considered Germany might be able to pay and much further still below the maximum arrived at by impartial American economists."

After speculating on what the German purpose is, The Daily News concludes:

"Unless reflection comes in the morning and Dr. Simons returns to the realities of the situation we must say goodbye to a just settlement and a solid European peace."

The Daily Telegraph editorial article says:

"The German proposals will do a great deal to simplify the situation in one sense, for if there was ever any prospect of a disagreement among the allied Governments as to the treatment of such proposals as Germany might put forward there most certainly is no such prospect in regard to those laid before the conference yesterday. Everyone looked for a minimizing program as a matter of course, but for the fantastic offer actually made no one was prepared. The proposals are absurd from every point of view, and it is impossible to believe their authors expected them to be entertained for a moment. What is one to say of the claim, for instance, that the payments already made by Germany on accounts which are entirely separate from that of reparations should be deducted from their offer of £2,500,000,000, reducing the amount actually admitted to be payable to £1,500,000,000? There is more than a suggestion of effrontery about this, and the same must be said of the calm intimation that the whole of these counterproposals are made conditionally upon the plebiscite in Upper Silesia resulting in the retention of that territory within the German Reich.

"We are warranted in assuming that these so-called counterproposals are not seriously made, and the natural inference is that the Government which puts them forward has made up its mind to let things take their course and abide by such action as the allied powers may decide to take. The German attitude, if the Berlin Government persists in it, leaves this country in no doubt as to the necessity of supporting France by any means, whether of naval action or economic pressure, which may be judged expedient. The French, of course, are not only ready but determined to take the strongest measures, and the probability is that they are utterly resolved that Germany shall accept the just consequences of her defeat in the barbarous assault upon their country, and that the enemy, vanquished on their brutally devastated soil, shall not end by having the best of it. In that resolve they have the hearty sympathy and support of the people of Great Britain, who only ask of their Government that those sentiments shall fittingly be translated into action in defense of the just right of all the allied nations."

GERMAN EXPERTS SAY DEMAND IS TOO HIGH

Too Much for Any One Nation to Accept—Want Readjustment of World Economic System.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 1.—THE TIMES correspondent has had an opportunity of scanning the official memorial of the German Expert Commission which was handed to the Allied Conference this afternoon by Dr. Simons. It is headed "The Economical Effects of the Paris Proposal," and is intended to prove the financial and economical impossibility of compliance by Germany with the Paris program without, however, making any definite proposals or mentioning any sum which Germany can pay.

After showing by statistics that Germany is already burdened with a deficit of four billion marks and an annuity of six billion, it declares that the total present export of five billion marks would have to be raised by twenty-five billion to about thirty billion to carry out the Paris program. The proposed 12 per cent. ad valorem tax on export would necessitate a further increase of about three and one-half billion marks. The total exports then would have to be raised by another ten milliards or to the dizzy height of forty billions gold marks. These accomplishments are expected of an economic system intensely weakened by a disastrous war and the transfer abroad of twenty billion gold marks worth of property and productive capital.

German exports of forty billion gold marks would, it is pointed out, be about twice the total exports of England in 1920. Such German business would materially exceed even the United States' quite abnormally high export figures in 1920. Largely consisting of manufactured goods, they would exceed the combined total exportation of manufactured goods by America and England. Upon such figures only can the demands of the Allies be based. If they became realities they would create conditions in both Germany and the rest of the world which cannot even be approximately realized. Such an enormous increase in Germany's production for export would logically lead to a rapid rise of prices of raw material in the world's markets.

Even to-day, Germany's own means are insufficient to finance her imports. It is argued that she would certainly be unable to increase these imports if raw materials to the enormous extent required without calling on the international money markets. Her requirements would be such that to satisfy them she would want all the credit available.

There is no doubt that all the other producing countries would keenly oppose such a concentration of raw materials, credits and distributable goods.

The memorial argues that if such conditions are forced on Germany and the dumping of forty million dollars' worth of monufactured goods becomes inevitable, other nations will certainly combine to thwart the whole plan by refusing Germany raw products. The memorial concludes with the following sentences:

"Reparation cannot be the problem of an individual economic system. It is the first problem of a system of world economy to be newly created. Germany is resolved to go to the limit of her capacity in order to shoulder within that general system the heaviest part of the burden, as she is bound to do. But freedom in her economical movements is indispensible for the execution of her task. London should inaugurate an agreement which the world needs for rebuilding the economic structure. This structure should be based on solidarity and justice unless the world is to be driven from crisis to crisis and end in immeasurable disorder."

CIVIL WAR RAGING IN ITALIAN CITIES

Machine Guns Play on the Communist Quarters of Florence.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, March 1.—In the cyclone of bloodshed which is sweeping over Central and Southern Italy 120 victims have been counted at Cerignola, in Apulia, alone, eleven of whom were killed. Throughout the Apulian Provinces insurrection has been raging for a fortnight, and this latest episode arose out of a Nationalist demonstration in the Town Hall square to protest against a general strike.

At the first attempt to rush the Municipal Palace rifle fire was directed upon the Fascisti from every window and balcony, to which the latter replied by firing revolvers. Royal Guards, in trying to separate the combatant forces, were attacked from both sides and defended themselves with muskets. After twenty minutes' fighting the police forced an entrance to the Town Hall and arrested the Mayor and the whole communal Administration.

Hordes of armed peasants, accompanied by their women folk, carrying lighted torches, are laying waste Apulian farms and homesteads. At Minervino Murge a farmer defended his property against incendiaries for half an hour and then endeavored to escape. He was pursued, and when he dropped, mortally wounded, his assailants dispatched him with daggers.

Similar stories of violence come from Bisceglie, where peasants stormed the Agriculturists' Union, shouting: "Death to the landlords! Long live the revolution!"

The Confederated Chambers of Labor at Terlizzi and Matera and other towns have been given to the flames.

Among those who perished in the disorders at Conversano, a communist stronghold, was Lieutenant Calcaterra, who was stabbed in the back with a stiletto. The Mayor of the town also was killed.

The strike is still general at Foggia, Spinazzola, Gravina, Giovinazzo and Barletta.

A fresh chapter in the fratricidal strife among the people of Florence has added nine victims to the death roll, and more than fifty dangerously wounded are in hospital wards. Severe fighting is going on in Certaldo and San Frediano, the Socialist and communist quarters beyond the Arno. Armored cars are being used to force the enormous barricades erected in the streets.

The inhabitants—men, women and children—greeted the Fascisti invaders with a pitiless hail of bombs from roofs, windows and doorways. The cavalry had to be withdrawn, and regular infantrymen were obliged to creep forward on all fours. Later machine guns were brought into play against the fortified houses.

The son of the well-known steel manufacturer Bertha, who was a militant Nationalist, was stabbed with daggers and his corpse was flung into the Arno.

Seven cannon have been planted on each of the bridges.

The postmen and telegraph messengers have joined the strike, and the situation is becoming so serious, owing to the insurrection having spread to the hill towns and villages, that it is rumored this evening that the Government has decided to place the city and province under martial law.

The suspension of railway services now extends to Pisa, Lucca, Leghorn and Genoa. It is thought improbable, however, that the projected general strike throughout Italy can be realized because the labor leaders are assembled for their general confederation congress at Leghorn, which is entirely isolated from the outer world.

At Ferracina, near Potenza, the Socialist Mayor, Signor Monteleone, has been shot dead.

Trieste is again in the throes of a general strike embracing the whole Julian Venice region. Today the Chamber of Labor there was burned to the ground.

In tumults at Spezia four persons were killed and wounded.

INVITES AMERICA TO MANDATE PARLEY

Council's Reply Is Conciliatory Both as to Yap and Mesopotamian Questions.

ISHII HINTS AT COMPROMISE

"Ready to Enter Into Negotiations" on Cables, Says One of His Paris Subordinates.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 1.—The reply of the Council of the League of Nations to the American note on mandates was sent to Washington this afternoon.

The Council disclaims responsibility for the inclusion of Yap in the Japanese mandates, of which the United States Government complained, and places the responsibility for this upon the allied powers, to which it has referred the American note in a desire "to promote the possibility of an amicable arrangement."

As for Mesopotamia, Washington is informed that the mandate for that territory is not yet before the Council, but that it will be considered in May, and America is invited to make its views known at that time.

The Council having shifted the Yap controversy to the allied powers—which means in all probability that it will be dealt with by the Japanese and American Government I asked Viscount Ishii, the Japanese Ambassador to Paris and the representative of his country on the Council of the League, to give the United States through THE NEW YORK TIMES a statement of Tokio's position as to this Pacific cable centre, which on Dec. 17 was ceded by the League to Japan under a C mandate. The Ambassador instructed an official of the Japanese Chancellory to give me the information sought, and I received the following statement:

"With regard to Yap Island, as with regard to all other matters, the Japanese Government desires to be in complete friendship with the United States. Therefore we believe that the two Governments can agree on a compromise which will be mutually satisfactory to both. In all amicable spirit we hope for this compromise and are ready to enter into negotiations which might well be correlated to the cable conference now being held in Washington.

Knows of No Reservation by Wilson.

"However, we feel that with respect to Yap two points should be made which will help explain our position.

"In the first place, Japan was not represented at the meeting of the Big Four May 7, 1919, when the former German colonies were allocated. The Japanese Peace Delegation was sent a procès-verbal of this meeting as our formal notification of the decisions taken. This record shows absolutely no trace of reservation by President Wilson.

"In the second place, when Germany owned Yap Island we remember no fear being expressed by America as to cable communications being in peril. Therefore her note at this time fills us with regret and hurts our feelings.

"Japan has no desire to interfere with cable communication via Yap and is willing to consider methods by which such communications can be preserved freely and at the same time Japan's rights to the island mandate be preserved. We hope the American Government will be willing to begin very soon negotiations to this end. We are anxious to satisfy America."

"Speaking for myself," said my informant, "I regard it as very much to be regretted that there should be controversy over such a small affair when there are so many big questions in the world needing attention."

I suggested that it appeared difficult to satisfy American wishes as expressed in the note without Japan's giving up her mandate and allowing Yap to be internationalized. On this point no definite reply was given.

What the Japanese evidently hope for is some sort of convention under which Japan would guarantee the liberty of the use of the cable lines without surrendering her hold on the island. It might be said that as long as Japan held the island under a mandate she would be in a position to control the cable should she judge that occasion had arisen which justifieed her doing so. However, Japan evidently thinks that America should take at its face value her word that she would not abuse her privileged position should she agree to the freedom of cable stations on Yap.

The willingness of Japan to settle the Yap controversy directly with America is interesting and important for the following reason: Japan has all along contended for equal rights for Japanese in the Southern Pacific islands which Australia and New Zealand hold under a mandate which permits the exclusion of Japanese. Many diplomats expect Japan to take advantage of America's contention for equal rights in mandated territory to make fresh claim for equal rights for Japanese in the Southern Pacific islands, and perhaps to bargain for, ceding her rights in Yap for concessions by the British colonies. That she is willing to settle the Yap question with America means that she will not push this bargain, in which from certain points of view she would not have a weak case.

Discussing the Vilna Problem.

The Council this afternoon continued the examination of the difficult case of Vilna. Whether to send League forces there to conduct the plebiscite despite Soviet opposition is a nice question.

In view of the circumstances it seems fit to comment upon the manner in which the Council has held its meetings at this session. Nothing has caused more unfavorable comment upon the League, which was to usher in a new form of diplomacy, than the secrecy of the Council meetings. This complaint was voiced times without number at the Assembly meeting in Geneva, and a resolution was passed demanding that the Council hold public meetings. But the meetings of the Council have never been quite so closely guarded as during the present session. Dr. Wellington Koo, representing China, tried to have public meetings, but the effort of the new member got nowhere.

The chief difficulty in the way of getting the council into habits of publicity is the fact that its members are for the most part old-time diplomats, who cannot bring themselves to break with the time-honored precedents on which they were educated. Men like Balfour, Bourgeois and Ishii are perhaps too far along in years to charge their diplomatic habits.

The council will hold a "public" session before it breaks up. At this session nice speeches will be read and decisions announced; but the world will not know of the discussions revealing the reasons for these decisions, which reasons are far more important and instructive for the peoples than the little decisions themselves. For up to the present the League's decisions have been little.

Invited to Send Representative.

PARIS, March 1 (Associated Press)—The Council of the League of Nations, in its reply to the American note on the mandates question, invites the United States to send a representative to the next meeting of the Council, to be held in April, it was learned here this afternoon. The reply was cabled to Washington by the American Embassy early in the afternoon.

Concerning the island of Yap, the reply says the Council was obliged to accept the decision of the Supreme Council. It indicates, however, that the whole question may be reopened if the Washington Government sees fit to send a plenipotentiary to discuss the matter.

WILSON'S MANDATE VIEWS.

They Didn't Contemplate Excluding Non-Leaguers From Mandate Areas.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Informal but vigorous denial was made by responsible officials of the State Department today of the reports from London crediting President Wilson with having laid down the policy at the Paris Peace Conference that nations not members of the League of Nations should be excluded from the projected mandate regions, in Mesopotamia, the Pacific Islands and elsewhere.

According to these unofficial reports from London the British reply to the Colby note on the Mesopotamia mandate is alleged to contain a statement, or suggestion, that President Wilson himself at Paris urged that non-member nations be excluded from League mandate territory. State Department officials emphatically denied today that Mr. Wilson had taken any such position. One high official of the department dictated this statement:

"The President was against any short-sighted policy. The President's policy was to try to destroy the short-sighted selfishness of the world, and, at least, to have enlightened selfishness, if there had to be selfishness at all."

If the British reply does contain the reported declaration, the State Department will dispatch a reply before March 4, so as to remove any misunderstanding that may exist abroad concerning the exact position of the United States.

London reports that the British Government's reply will also assert that British oil concessions in Mesopotamia were acquired from Turkey before the war, and that the British mandate plan for Mesopotamia had nothing to do with concessions obtained before the war, have also aroused interest. This contention is not new. Officials of the American Government are quite aware that British officials have been making such a point. However, this contention will be challenged by the Washington Government, which takes the position that the British Government has not been able to substantiate the claim that a British concern had obtained any valid Mesopotamian concessions before the war.

NO YAP MEDIATION PLAN.

Denial That Geddes Has Been Instructed to Offer It.

LONDON, March 1.—It was stated in official circles today that there was no foundation for the report published in the United States that Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, had been instructed to attempt mediation between the United States and Japan concerning the Pacific cables.

It was hardly necessary, it was added, to point out that should a favorable opportunity, acceptable to both America and Japan, arise for Sir Auckland to use his good offices, he would not hesitate to do so without requiring instructions.

LONDON, March 1 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—William G. Ormesby-Gore, who was recently appointed as England's representative on the permanent commission of the League of Nations which will examine the annual reports of the powers on the countries under their mandates, declared today that the American attitude on the question of mandates would in no way affect the British mandate over Palestine. Neither would the Palestine situation be altered when the Palestine and Mesopotamian mandates were submitted to the British Houses of Parliament, he added.

The question of the mandates, Mr. Ormesby-Gore said, however, would not be completely settled before the League of Nations met again, and that probably would not occur before May.

SENATE VOTES CALL FOR ARMS PARLEY

are openly opposing it, but their opposition is so vigorous that even the friends of the measure admit that the outlook is dark indeed for action before noon on Friday, when the Sixty-fifth Congress will end.

Senator Poindexter made a plea to the opponents of the bill in the afternoon to permit its speedy but orderly consideration, but with no success. Senators Borah and King, who are leading the fight against the bill on the two sides of the chamber, were on the alert, and every time it was put forward they were ready with the aid of their supporters to slow up its consideration. Senator Borah continued to insist that he was not filibustering. The fact that President-elect Harding is known to favor the enactment of the bill at this session apparently has no effect on those who are opposing its passage in its present form.

"Instead of having a navy to meet possible emergencies," said Senator Poindexter, replying to Senator Borah's speech of yesterday, "to let this building program go over as the Senator from Idaho yesterday proposed, would mean that our navy would go on the basis of a 50 per cent. reserve. And I want further to say that if this bill goes over into the extra session the emergency matters for which that session is to be called will be impeded by the necessity for the continuance of this controversy. It is of the utmost importance that the navy be maintained at full strength and that the 1916 program should be permitted to be carried on to completion.

Sees "Critical" Foreign Relations.

"The United States is confronted at the present time in its foreign relations with a very critical situation. For the first time in our history we have an opportunity as the result of the war to secure an adequate navy to protect and defend the interests of the United States. It is the only thing we get out of the war. We did not even get the Island of Yap. Japan obtained a great empire on the Pacific Ocean, extending over 4,000,000 square miles of land and water. We have begun to assert our rights and to say that we want the Island of Yap internationalized.

"It would be false economy not to continue the building program now and this whole situation ought not to be relegated to the extra session. I am willing to accept the assurance of the Senator from Idaho that he is not filibustering against the bill, but I must assert that he was in error in many of the assertions he made in criticising, yesterday, some of the increases allowed by the Senate Committee."

In the first place, Senator Poindexter said that the bill did not, as reported by the Senate Commitee, call for more than $500,000,000. Senator Borah was also in error, he added, when he said that the House bill made possible an American navy two and a half times the size of that of Japan. Japan's navy, he said, would be very nearly the equal of America's and in some respects its superior.

Senator Poindexter also declared that some of the comparisons made by Senator Borah with the European naval construction programs of 1912 and 1913 were misleading, as the construction programs of those nations during the years quoted exceeded $250,000,000, while the appropriation for the American program for the fiscal year 1922 was only $90,000,000, and not the total of $496,000,000 carried in the Senate bill, which covers all items.

Compares Our Program With Japan's.

Comparing the American and Japanese programs, Senator Poindexter said that when the present programs were realized Japan would have six scout cruisers as against three for the United States. She would have nine battle cruisers to six for this country. Japan, he argued, would have twenty-four ships of the "first magnitude" as compared to twenty-seven for the United States. Another item in the bill to which he referred was the pay of American sailors, which is the highest in the world, one of the many things, Senator Poindexter said, that contributes to making the American naval personnel the finest.

Defending the increased enlisted personnel allowed by the Senate committee, which is 120,000, as against 100,000 voted by the House, Senator Poindexter asserted that the 120,000 estimate was 23,000 less than the present authorized strength of the navy.

ANTI-REDS BATTLE TO GET PETROGRAD

Workmen Seize Arsenal and Railroad Station and Bring Up Guns From Provinces.

SAILORS UNITE WITH THEM

Some Red Troops Distribute Arms—Rumor Lenin and Trotzky Have Fled From Moscow.

RIGA, March 1.—The correspondent of the Russian Union Agency says that on the night of Feb. 26-27 workmen took possession of the Arsenal and the Koursk Railway Station in Petrograd.

Guns brought from the provinces were put in action.

The first blood spilled was on Feb. 24, when strikers appealed to the soldiers in barracks to join in a subversive movement. The strikers were fired on by communist regiments and many of them were killed, according to the report.

PARIS, March 1.—At least partial control has been secured in Petrograd by anti-Bolshevist forces, according to the French Foreign Office today. This, it declared, had been reliably established through information received from the French mission in Helsingfors, Finland. The extent of the successes won by the opposition to the Bolsheviki, however, was uncertain, it was added.

There have been many defections among the Bolshevist troops because of shortage of food, the mission reported.

The recent uprisings in Moscow had been "stopped for the moment," according to the Foreign Office's information.

LONDON, March 1.—Lloyd's agent at Reval, the capital of Esthonia, sent a cable message Monday, which was received here today, reading:

"It is reported, and we attach some credit to the report, that a revolution has broken out in Petrograd and Moscow."

Revolutionaries Hold Suburb.

HELSINGFORS, March 1.—Vassily-Ostrov, a suburb of Petrograd, is in the hands of the insurgents and cut off from other parts of the city, according to reports from the Russo-Finnish frontier. Fighting continues in the district between sailors and workmen on the one hand and officers on the other.

Rumors are current that Lenin and Trotzky, the Bolshevist Premier and War Minister, respectively, have fled to Crimea.

MANDATES AND 'OPEN DOOR.'

Those of Class B Discriminate Against Nations Not in League.

Nations which are members of the League of Nations will have the exclusive rights to the "open door" privileges in the former German territories of East Africa, Togoland and the Cameroons, under the terms of the Class B mandates for these territories now under consideration by the Council of the League in Paris.

The texts of the mandates which are to be taken by Great Britain, France and Belgium, were received here yesterday by the League of Nations News Bureau. In a statement, the bureau says that these texts "reveal features which may cause a serious controversy when the Assembly meets again, provided the Council accepts these mandates as submitted."

The texts reveal that the French mandate in the French part of Togoland and the Cameroons provides that native troops may be raised at any time for use in Europe or elsewhere. This right is denied the British and Belgians in the territories which they will control.

The open door restrictions are considered by the News Bureau as having a direct bearing upon the United States as a non-member of the League. The article regarding the open door says:

"The mandatory will insure to all nationals of States, members of the League of Nations, on the same footing as his own nationals, freedom of transit and navigation, and complete economic commercial and industrial equality; provided that the mandatory shall be free to organize essential public works and services on such terms and conditions as he thinks just.

"Concessions for the development of the natural resources of the territory shall be granted by the mandatory without distinction on grounds of nationality between the nationals of all States members of the League of Nations, but on such conditions as will maintain intact the authority of the local Government."

The same reservation of equal chances only for States that have joined the League of Nations characterizes Article 7, which deals with freedom of worship, and which also says that the mandatory "shall allow all missionaries, nationals of any State, member of the League of Nations, to enter into, travel and reside in the territory for the purpose of prosecuting their calling."

NO ANTI-AMERICAN PLEDGE.

Harmsworth Confirms View on Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

LONDON, March 1.—Replying in the House of Commons tonight to a question by Sir Frederick Hall as to whether the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance precluded the possibility of Great Britain being compelled to furnish assistance to Japan in case of a conflict between that country and the United States, Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that British relations with Japan had so arranged themselves that Great Britain would not be involved in such a struggle.

Sir Frederick further asked whether assurances of this state of affairs had been given to the United States in connection with its naval construction program, to which the Under Secretary replied that no official communication had been made, as there was no reason to believe that the responsible parties were in any doubt regarding the truth of the matter.

ASKS AMENDMENTS TO TRACTION BILL

LaGuardia Would Require Consent of Estimate Board to Contract Fare Changes.

"WOULD MEET OBJECTIONS"

Proposed Changes to Be Submitted at Hearing Today—Hylan and O'Brien Go to Albany.

Three amendments to the Governor's traction bill were proposed last night by F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, who said he would submit them at the legislative hearing at Albany today. The most important of these would require the consent of the Board of Estimate, as at present, to any change in fare which involved a change in contract or franchise rights. The others provide for the consent of the Board of Estimate in fixing salaries of employés of the proposed transit commission and limits the holdings of hearings to Commissioners, who would be without power to delegate this particular duty to subordinates.

Mr. LaGuardia's proposed amendment concerning contract and franchise rights, considered one of the most important points of the controversy, follows:

"If any such change in rate, fare or charge involves the changing or modification of conditions, terms or readjustment of existing contract or franchise rights or obligations, the commission may recommend such changes to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York for its consideration and determination."

Meets All Objections, He Says.

"This simple amendment meets all objections to the bill," said Mr. LaGuardia. "It strikes out the power given to the commission in the proposed bill for immediate and temporary increases. It strikes out the provision in the proposed bill extending jurisdiction and fare regulation to the new commission 'notwithstanding that a lower rate or charge has been heretofore presented by general or specific statute, contract, grant, franchise, consent or agreement.' In such cases this amendment will permit the commission to investigate and conduct hearings and make its report which would come to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the nature of a recommendation. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment would then, under existing powers or contract rights, have the final word in the determination of the matter."

Mr. LaGuardia said he considered his amendment providing that salaries of employes should be fixed by the commission with the approval and consent of the Board of Estimate to be important.

"The proposed bill," he said, "compels the Board of Estimate to appropriate any amount on requisition of the transit commission without reduction or limitation, and further provides that on failure to so appropriate the transit commission may apply to the Appellate Division, First Department, for an order directing the Board of Estimate to make such appropriation.

"This amendment will not only give the city something to say as to what salaries it is to pay, but also in the number of employes. Under the proposed bill there is no limit to the number of employes that may be appointed and the city has nothing to say except to pay, as above indicated."

Hylan Goes to Albany.

Mayor Hylan and Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien went to Albany last night to attend the conference of Mayors this morning. Practically all the other members of the delegations, both for and against the bill, will depart this morning on the Empire State Express, which will be run in two sections and which will arrive in Albany more than two hours before the hearing begins at 2 o'clock.

William McCarrol, former Public Service Commissioner, who will speak for the bill as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce of New York State, said Senator Johnson was trying to confuse and befog the issue.

"The urgent relief for the convenience and development of the City of New York is the immediate issue and it is to that question that the opposition to the bill of Governor Miller must direct its argument. The appearance of Senator Johnson in this case certainly belittles the position of the city authorities. The Johnson communiqués, issued daily from general headquarters at City Hall, shed no light on a solution."

The Real Estate Board of New York, which has declared for the bill, announced that it would send a delegation in support of the measure.

Curran Blames Hylan for Muddle.

Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, announced that he would not attend what he called the Hylan-Johnson expedition to Albany. He will be the only member of the Board of Estimate who will not appear against the bill. He said he had already explained his position in a letter to Senator Knight, suggesting certain amendments. He said:

"There is need for a commission that will give us something helpful and constructive, and, to that extent, I am for the bill. We must find a way to untangle the snarl that Hylan and Hedley, between them, have made of our transit facilities. But I am convinced that the method proposed in the Knight-Adler Traction bill is wrong. Nothing can justify a means to an end that takes away from the people of our city control over their own property under contracts that were made in good faith and that should be kept in good faith.

"The only excuse for such an amazing proposal is the dog-in-the-manger, do-nothing demagogy of Mayor Hylan. He is directly responsible for the danger that threatens us in this bill. We happen to agree in the efficacy of a five-cent fare, but the agreement ends right there."

Flag Presented to Hylan.

A flag, bearing the outline of the five boroughs of New York City and the inscription "Don't Tread On Us," in paraphrase of the motto on the Rattlesnake Flag of the American Revolution, was presented to Mayor Hylan yesterday by a committee of Brooklyn women. Mrs. Margaret L. McMahon, who headed the delegation, said she presented the flag as an appropriate emblem of the fight which Mayor Hylan was making for the city in the traction controversy.

The Mayor assured the women that he would continue to fight to retain the five-cent fare, and said that a year ago, when he told Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, that the city would take back the subways if the company was unable to make money on a five-cent fare, Mr. Hedley's reply was, "Do you think I'm crazy?"

City Club Opposes Bill.

Opposition to the traction bill in its present form was declared yesterday by the City Club. A statement issued by Raymond V. Ingersoll, Secretary, said that the club favored Governor Miller's proposal for the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation with a view to unified organization of the city's transportation facilities, but was opposed to that part of the plan which gave the city no voice.

"Its grant of naked power to three men in no way responsible to the City of New York," the statement read, "is contrary to sound public policy and fraught with danger to the community."

The club suggested two amendments, one requiring the approval of the Board of Estimate or approval by a city-wide referendum of the plan for reorganization which the bill provides that the transit commission shall formlate, and the other that the city should not take title to railroad properties nor fares be increased without approval either by the Board of Estimate or by a popular referendum vote.

"There can be no sound solution without popular support," the statement read. "Any settlement contrary to public opinion would result in prolonged litigation by the city, and in almost endless delay, friction and discontent.

"While the commission will be all-powerful as an instrument for binding the city and the car riders, it must persuade each separate company. If the commission is seeking to get agreements favorable to the city, the very fact that any plan must stand the acid test of local approval will be a great incentive to the companies to be reasonable.

"If the Board of Estimate, to which a plan will be submitted, adopts purely obstructive tactics, recourse can be had to a popular vote. The referendum has been used elsewhere. A settlement fair to both companies and to the city would have every reasonable chance of adoption at a special election.

"If the sponsors of this measure are sincere in saying that there will be no temporary increase in fares pending the carrying out of the comprehensive plan, then real action under the bill will not take place till after the next city election. There is therefore no warrant for capitalizing the faults or shortcomings of present officials as an excuse for surrendering the city's control over its own future."

JOHNSON UNDER FIRE WHEN ALDERMEN MEET

Falconer Demands Cancellation of Contract and Information Concerning His Status.

Information as to the status and employment of Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California as special counsel for the city administration in its fight against the Governor's traction bill was sought yesterday by Alderman Bruce M. Falconer, Republican, who also wanted to know what Senator Johnson was to be paid and whether he was to receive anything from William Randolph Hearst. Alderman Falconer introduced another resolution requiring Mayor Hylan to cancel Senator Johnson's contract of employment on the ground that it violated the city's Code of Ordinances. Both resolutions were tabled.

The first resolution provided that Corporation Counsel O'Brien be summoned before the board next week to answer the following ten questions:

"1. What are the terms of the contract with Senator Johnson?

"2. What are to be the duration and extent of his services?

"3. What compensation or fee is he to be paid and what part of that, if any, has he received thus far?

"4. Will his services be paid for out of the appropriation of $18,500 provided in the budget of 1921 for special counsel fees?

"5. If not, from what appropriation will he be paid?

"6. Is there an agreement with Senator Johnson that he is to receive no compensation from the city?

"7. Has Senator Johnson received any fee or promise of a fee from William R. Hearst, Mr. De Ford, Mr. Hearst's counsel, from any person representing Mr. Hearst or from any person or source except the City of New York?

"8. Who first approached Senator Johnson with relation to the possibility of being employed by the City of New York?

"9. By whom and when and where was the invitation or request extended to Senator Johnson to represent the city?

"10. Will you relate from the beginning the complete circumstances which led up to and resulted in Senator Johnson being employed by the city and what part, if any, Mr. Hearst, Mr. De Ford or any person representing Mr. Hearst had to do with these circumstances?"

Upon motion of Alderman William T. Collins, majority leader, the first resolution was tabled by a vote of 32 to 14 and the second resolution by a vote of 35 to 11.

ASSURE PASSAGE OF MILLER BILLS

Senate and Assembly Majority Pledged by Conference and Caucus.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—In conference and caucus today the Republican members of the Senate and Assembly were lined up in suupport of the principal bills now pending as part of Governor Miller's legislative program, except the transit bill, concerning which the leaders profess to feel no apprehension.

The Lowman-Betts bill, repealing daylight saving, but permitting local option; the Knight-Brady bill, providing for recodification of the labor law and reorganization of the State Industrial Commission, and the Mullan-Gage State Prohibition Enforcement bill were discussed, and are regarded as assured of passage as a result of today's developments.

The measure that provoked the most controversy was the Prohibition Enforcement bill. This was taken up at a conference of the Republican Senators, following the night session yesterday. The conference lasted until after 2 o'clock this morning. It was made a caucus measure by the Republican members of the Assembly today. Only seventy votes, six short of the number necessary for its passage, were recorded for it at the caucus, but the leaders assert, with apparent confidence, that enough additional votes are in sight to insure its enactment.

At the Senate conference twenty-eight votes, two more than is necesary to pass the bill, were recorded.

Republican lawmakers from New York City, as a rule, did not vote on the "dry" enforcement measure. At the Senate conference an up-State member proposed that the bill be made a party measure, but this suggestion did not carry, because the Republican Senators from New York City took a united stand against it and threatened to bolt if the conference should be turned into a caucus. At the Assembly caucus few New York City members attended, and those who did refrain from voting, although under caucus rule they would be bound by the affirmative votes of their seventy colleagues who represent a large majority of the lower House.

At the Senate conference it was decided, as part of its formal action, to purge the Mullan-Gage bill of all provisions more rigorous than the Volstead act and make it conform exactly to the terms of the Federal law.

The Senate and Assembly will go to the bat on prohibition enforcement as soon as the bill has been amended, reprinted and has reposed for the three days required on the desks of lawmakers. Action next week in both houses is probable.

It was learned tonight that many of the Republican bosses throughout the State are striving hard to save the tax appraisers' jobs. There is at least one of these in each county. In large and populous counties, like those in New York City, Erie, Monroe and Onondaga, there are several. The places are regarded as soft berths. In New York City counties they are occupied mostly by Republican district leaders. It was rumored that an attempt would be made to have the bill amended so as to retain these places, although the Governor recommended in his message that they be abolished as useless.

At the request of New York City authorities, Senator Meyer introduced a bill to enable the city to acquire by condemnation property in Forty-third Street, in the rear of the Grand Central Station, for the construction of a viaduct to relieve traffic congestion. The property is now controlled by the Grand Central Railroad and the Hotel Commodore.

JEWISH COMMITTEE HITS PROPAGANDISTS

Declares That "Protocols" Were Offered to Its Members for Suppression.

DOCUMENTS' ORIGIN TRACED

Insulting Reply Received by Protesters From Ford Publication, Says Report.

The American Jewish Committee in its report for 1920, made public last night, devotes its major attention to recent anti-Jewish propaganda in various parts of the world, with especial reference to Henry Ford and his Dearborn Independent.

Referring to "the spurious protocols of the Wise Men of Zion," the report says that the committee had been aware of the existence of this document for some time before its publication in England.

"It was offered to some members of the committee in expectation that they would pay for its suppression," says the report. "In February, 1920, the document was published in England anonymously under the title 'The Jewish Peril,' and similar editions appeared in Germany, France, Italy, Denmark and Spain. In spite of the fact that authorities on Russian history and literature have clearly shown that the protocols are flagrant fabrications invented for counter-revolutionary propaganda in Russia and that they were recently employed by officers of General Denikine to stigmatize the Bolshevist revolution as a purely Jewish movement, an elaborate edition of this forgery appeared recently in the United States. Copies of it were anonymously circulated among members of Congress, publications, Christian ministers and men otherwise prominent in public life."

After telling of the appearance of a series of articles based on the "forged protocols," the report says that Louis Marshall, President of the committee telegraphed a protest to Mr. Ford and received an insulting reply from the Dearborn Publishing Company.

The report then turns to an account of how The London Morning Post published a series of anonymous articles under the title "The Cause of the World Unrest," which sought to link the Jews with the Freemasons in a world-wide conspiracy against Christian civilization, how they were denied by "the most competent authorities on Freemasonry," yet how they were reprinted in book form in England and subsequently appeared in book form in this country from the press of G. P. Putnam & Sons with an introduction by the editor of The London Morning Post and an announcement that the protocols would be published shortly.

"On Oct. 13," the report continues, "Mr. Marshall wrote to Major George Haven Putnam, head of the publishing firm, protesting in strong terms against these publications, and expressing his shock that the honored name of the Putnam firm 'should be made the vehicle of disseminating among the American people these outpourings of malice, intolerance and hatred, this witches' broth of virulent poison.'

"On Oct. 15 Major Putnam wrote a long and equivocating letter to Mr. Marshall. 'It is evident,' he said, 'that the document has no voucher for authenticity, and it is quite possible that it will be found to possess no historic importance.' Further on, however, he said that the books did not accuse the whole Jewish race of a conspiracy, but only those elements who were pro-Bolshevist, and to whom the Jews as well as the Christians should be opposed. In reply to this letter Mr. Marshall denied the accusation that the Jews are in preponderance in the Bolshevist movement. 'To say,' wrote Mr. Marshall, 'that Bolshevism is a Jewish movement is as ridiculous as to say that the Jews are responsible for capitalism or because there are Jewish musicians, actors and poets, that music, the drama and poetry are Jewish movements.' On Nov. 1 Major Putnam wrote to Mr. Marshall that his firm had decided not to publish the Protocols. * * *

"In the meantime the committee has been studying the problem and tracing the origin of the Protocols and the use that had been made of them in the various countries. A well-known writer was encouraged to prepare a book to serve as a reasoned and conclusive answer to these slanders. The manuscript of this book is now practically complete and its publication is expected within a few weeks."

SHIPYARDS CUT DEFERRED.

Workers Not Likely to Strike Despite Rejection of Reduction.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The date effective for the 10 per cent. cut in wages of 40,000 shipyard workers, decided on by the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' Association for today, has been postponed until March 14, A. J. Berres, Secretary of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, announced today. Mr. Berres said the postponement had been made to give the unions time to notify the workers of the results of the recent referendum in which the men voted against acceptance of a reduction.

Union leaders here expect the men to remain at work, as they believe economic conditions of the shipbuilding industry make a strike impractical at this time. Mr. Berres said the subject was entirely in the hands of the various unions, but that up to this time no move had been made to bring about a strike.

DENY ANY OFFER TO WOOD.

University of Pennsylvania Trustees Contradict Report About Provost.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood was at one time among those considered by the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania for the office of Provost, but members of the board denied today any definite proffer of the place.

Some of the alumni have been boosting Wood, and it is thought they may have communicated with him, asking under what conditions he would accept the position.

It was stated today by trustees that a salary of $25,000 was almost out of the question for the next Provost, as that would be more than double the previous Provost's salary.

PROHIBITION AGENT SLAIN.

Ohio Officer Had Been Often Threatened With Death.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, March 1.—The body of Matteo Veltry, Italian, 32, a local prohibition agent, was found in a ditch alongside the Steubenville-Cambridge highway three miles west of here today. He had been shot twice through the neck and his skull had been crushed. Physicians said Veltry had been dead about ten hours.

He had been active for several months in gathering evidence against liquor law violators and had often been threatened with death. He left home last night telling his wife he was going to meet three men to take an automobile ride. Officials believe he was lured into the machine by enemies who killed him. There is no clue to the slayers.

OFFERS NEW SERUM FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Swiss Discoverer Going to London to Negotiate Sale to the British Government.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, March 1.—I hear that the British Government has definitely decided to acquire the rights of making the anti-tuberculosis serum which Henry Spahlinger has discovered after researches and experiments lasting more than ten years. The British Government has asked Spahlinger to go to London and complete the negotiations in connection with the serum. Spahlinger, who has been in Paris lately, left today for London, and the agreement will, I understand, be signed this week.

Meantime the fame of the Spahlinger method of the treatment of tuberculosis of all kinds, and not merely pulmonary tuberculosis, has become so widespread that thousands of letters and cablegrams from all parts of the world are arriving in Geneva imploring the treatment. Cables and letters from the United States are particularly numerous. One New York millionaire offered Spahlinger $20,000 if he cured him, but Spahlinger referred him to his ordinary physician, who, he said, could administer the serum without its costing so much. The serum, which at first was costly to prepare, can now be made at no greater cost than ordinary vaccine against smallpox.

Although Spahlinger has spent his father's gladly given fortune to the value of 1,000,000 gold francs upon experiments and researches, he does not desire to utilize his discovery for commercial or money-making purposes. Thus he immediately declined a highly advantageous offer of a drug company to purchase the sole rights of the manufacturing of the serum. He is far more concerned about preventing all possibility of spurious imitations of it being placed on the market.

Spahlinger's laboratory in Geneva is on a very large scale. His father's mansion has been converted into experimental rooms, while the grounds are largely used for stabling and keeping horses, cows, donkeys, goats and other animals needed for extracting serum. Hitherto Spahlinger has never received remuneration, direct or indirect, from his patients, who are all nationalities. Spahlinger is only 39 years old, a Swiss citizen and not a doctor of medicine, although naturally possessing medical and scientific knowledge and attainments. At the university he obtained the degree of doctor of laws and although qualified to be a barrister he is before all else a scientist. He is still unmarried, but I hope I shall not forfeit his friendship if I make known that he has been engaged for some years to the only child of Duke Alfonso Garcolfi Hornyold of Blackmore Park, Worcester, England. The reasons for having deferred his marriage are his absorption in his scientific studies and that he wished to be beholden for financial help in his researches to none but his father.

THEATRE TICKET BILL VETOED BY GOVERNOR

Measure Restricting Agency Advance to 50 Cents Called Unconstitutional.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—Governor Miller today vetoed Assemblyman T. K. Smith's bill which would have prevented theatre ticket agencies from charging more than 50 cents a ticket above box office prices. He refused approval on the ground that the measure was unconstitutional.

"Theatre tickets are articles of commerce," he said in his veto message. "Any attempt by the State, therefore, to regulate the price at which theatre tickets may be sold or resold must be in the exercise of the police power.

"No ground for such exercise has been called to my attention. Although I stated on the oral argument before me that my impressions were against the constitutional validity of the bill and gave time for the filing of briefs, my attention has not been called to any ground upon which exercise of power can be supported, and I am unable to discover any."

Justice Rosalsky of New York City recently decided that a municipal ordinance which provided a license to engage in the business of selling tickets of admission to exhibitions or performances and forbidding a licencee to sell a ticket for any greater amount than 50 cents in excess of the regular established price, was invalid.

"The reasons given by Justice Rosalsky in support of his conclusion are applicable to this bill and appear to me to be so cogent as to permit no other conclusion," said the Governor. "I am satisfied that this bill is unconstitutional, and it is, therefore, disapproved."

B. R. T. STRIKE COSTLY.

Companies Lost $2,425,902 Thereby, According to Recent Report.

The strike on the B. R. T. system last September and October cost the companies $2,425,902, according to figures issued yesterday by the Public Service Commission for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1920. According to the report, the cost of operating all the street railroad companies formerly comprised in the B. R. T. system was $22,077,086.

The deficit in operating income of all the companies for the six months was $2,237,690, indicating on the face of the figures that the B. R. T. would have cleared $188,212, had the strike not occurred.

The figures apportioned the cost of the strike among the companies as follows:

Brooklyn Heights, $2,139; Brooklyn City, $535,987; Williamsburg Bridge Line, $5,071; Brooklyn, Queens County & Suburban, $102,003; Coney Island & Gravesend, $5,152; Nassau Electric, $350,301; Coney Island & Brooklyn, $129,588; South Brooklyn, $21,476, and the New York Consolidated Railroad, $1,272,183.

ARMY-NAVY FUSION STORY.

Report of Harding Plan to Unite Departments Is Doubted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Reports that President-elect Harding intended to move to have the War and Navy departments united in a Department of National Defense caused surprise today among men who have recently discussed policies with him. It is thought that this story arose from a misunderstanding of Mr. Harding's plans.

Mr. Harding has in mind a co-ordination of the purchasing branches of the War and Navy departments and has asked John W. Weeks, who will be Secretary of War, and Edwin Denby, who will be Secretary of the Navy, to consider the matter. The President-elect has also indicated that he would consider the plan to put the air services of the army and navy under one head.

Beyond this Mr. Harding, it is understood, has not progressed.

THREAT ON MAN O' WAR.

Mrs. Riddle Gets Letter Demanding $10,000—Man Held in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Federal authorities here today admitted they had under arrest a man giving the name of Harry T. Lamey in connection with an alleged threat to kill Mrs. Samuel D. Riddle and Man O' War, the famous race horse, unless $10,000 is turned over to the writer of a letter sent to Mrs. Riddle.

She is the wife of the owner of the champion three-year-old now in a Kentucky stud.

The writer of the letter demanded the money be placed at a certain spot. Postal inspectors laid a trap, but the letter writer did not walk into it. Later Lamey was arrested.

VETERANS PROPOSE 'PATRIOTISM' RALLY

SERVICE MAN IS FINED $3

Two Others Charged With Disorderly Conduct Discharged for Lack of Evidence.

American Legion commanders who attended the mass meeting of the "Campaign Committee on the Rhine Horror" in Madison Square Garden on Monday night yesterday discussed a suggestion that a mass meeting of war veterans be held in the same building later this month to discuss "Americanism and Patriotism."

"That suggestion has been made," said Hugh S. Robertson, Adjutant of the New York State Department of the Legion, "but no crystallized plan has been developed. No date has been selected for the meeting, which is still being discussed. We can't say with certainty that it will be held."

Two names mentioned as possible speakers at this meeting are Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who has just been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy under the incoming Administration. These two officers have not been approached on the subject, but Legion commanders believe that both would be glad to talk on "Americanism" at a meeting of war veterans.

Colonel F. W. Galbraith Jr., National Commander of the Legion, would be another speaker, although the meeting would be held under the auspices of the State Department of the veterans' organization. He has been taking part in the discussions about the proposed meetings, as has Charles G. Blakeslee, Legion Commander in this State, and many other post commanders in this city.

Three cases of ex-service men arrested on charges of disorderly conduct were heard by Magistrate Simms in the Yorkville Court yesterday.

Russell P. Edwards of 457 Seventy-third Street, Brooklyn, who served overseas with Company M, 10th Infantry, paid a fine of $3. It was charged that he had "shouted at" a street speaker at one of the open-air meetings near the Garden. Edwards was in the Twenty-seventh Division and served through the greater part of the overseas service of the National Guard unit. He was wounded and spent ten months in the hospital. He is in the shipping business at 26 Beaver Street.

On the charge that, with Russell, they had urged ex-soldiers "to take the Huns from the platforms" two other veterans were taken to Yorkville Court, but were discharged for lack of evidence. They were Jacques Rueff, an art dealer of 2,183 Broadway, and Armando Rodriguez of 271 Madison Avenue.

Rodriguez, who is now a student in New York University, was severely wounded when serving with the Ninth Infantry of the Second Division.

RHINE MEETING FORBIDDEN.

Philadelphia Permit Is Rescinded Following Legion Protest.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Director of Public Safety Cortelyou today rescinded police permits for the holding of a mass meeting next Sunday for the declared purpose of protesting against French negro troops occupying Germany. This action was taken at the request of the American Legion.

In a letter of protest against the meeting Major William C. Murdock, State Adjutant of the Legion, said the meeting was "a form of propaganda intended to create a division among the Allies in the late war" and that pamphlets reciting a number of alleged vile occurrences and "having the same purpose as the proposed meeting" had already been printed and distributed in Philadelphia "for the purpose of prejudicing the minds of unthinking persons against the continuance of occupying German territory by French troops."

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON FOX HILLS CASE

Legion and Disabled Soldiers' League Begin Inquiries Into Hospital Charges.

Alleged ill-treatment of disabled soldiers in the Fox Hills Hospital on Staten Island received consideration from two organizations of war veterans yesterday. A special committee of the New York Department of the American Legion began a series of public hearings in City Hall. George H. Gillin, National Commander of the Disabled Soldiers' League, announced after a meeting of the New York State branch in the Hotel Pennsylvania that he expected a Congressional investigation of the hospital as Congressman Clarence MacGregor of Buffalo had introduced a resolution for the appointment of an investigating committee. Mr. Gillin charged that "neglect and incompetency" had caused soldiers in the hospital much misery, and said that his organization would ask for the removal of the officials considered responsible.

Cornelius W. Wickersham was Chairman of the American Legion committee which heard the testimony of present and past inmates of the hospital. There was a wide variance in the testimony, some of the witnesses complaining of the treatment and other said that it was excellent.

GREECE STANDS FIRM FOR SEVRES TREATY

Parliament Unanimous in Rejection of the London Proposals for Its Revision.

ATHENS, Feb. 28.—Greece cannot accept a revision of the Treaty of Sèvres, which she considers represents the minimum compensation for her sacrifices in the war and efforts to establish peace in the Near East.

This was the substance of a resolution unanimously adopted by the National Assembly tonight, which will be telegraphed the Greek delegation in London for presentation to the Allies. The resolution expresses the nation's gratitude to the Allies for their traditional protection of its interests, and closes with the hope that the powers will not insist on alterations of the treaty.

PARIS, March 1.—France has proposed to the Turkish Nationalists a compromise relative to the Near East question, says the Petit Parisien, which declares the French view was expressed in a communication handed representatives of the Angora Government yesterday by a French official. France would favor Ottoman claims on Aintab and Ourfa and would seek an agreement for the use of the Hedjaz Railway. It is said that the Nationalists and France have been unable to agree regarding the status of the port of Alexandretta, title to which is insisted upon by the Turks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 1.—Lord Bryce, in a letter to The London Times, makes a spirited appeal for the carrying out of the provisions of the Treaty of Sèvres that apply to the Armenians and delivering them from the Turkish yoke.

"The Turks, however," he writes, "now demand, as if they had been the conquerors instead of the conquered in the war which they wantonly made against the Allies, that they should be permitted to hold all those parts of Russian Armenia which the Bolsheviki have not seized and to hold all those parts of Turkish Armenia which the Wilson award has assigned to the Armenian Republic. In other words, they ask to have not only all the country which the treaty took from them because they had massacred its inhabitants, but also the regions inhabited by Armenian Christians, which had belonged to Russia."

Lord Bryce dwells upon the record of massacres of Armenians committed by the Turks, which, he says, are continuing. Referring to the massacres reported to have been committed recently in the region of Kars and Alexandropol, he says:

"If this news be correct, it is another instance of the policy of destroying Christians in order to allege that the country is Turkish. If it is thought that the Wilson award assigned to the Armenian Republic any districts which ought not to be added to it—and I see that a member of the Armenian delegation now in London said that in one instance more had been given than the Armenians had asked—a commission might be appointed to report upon this point.

"The main thing is to maintain those provisions of the treaty which secure the safety of the Christian populations. It is surely impossible that the Allies can contemplate the abandonment of their promises, the betrayal of the races which have suffered so terribly during the last seven years and the delivery over to their enemies of the refugees who escaped the massacres of 1915, and whom the charity of England and America has kept alive ever since."

MAY NOT GIVE UP NEWPORT.

State Urged to Continue Fund for Merchant Marine Schoolship.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—The Schoolship Newport, one of three which have been maintained first by the city and more recently by the State of New York for the training of officers for the merchant marine, may not be abandoned after all. The three vessels, since 1875, have given a nautical education to 3,600 young men who graduated from them to the quarterdecks of American merchantmen.

Governor Miller this afternoon heard the plea of Captain John S. Baylis, commander of the Newport, that she be kept in commission. Later Mr. Miller when talking to newspaper correspondents said that the State contributed $65,000 annually to the upkeep of the Newport and that the question had arisen as to whether the number of graduates she turned out was large enough to justify that expenditure in these days of economy.

Should the fiscal leaders of the Legislature consent to continue the Newport in her present service, it is not thought that Governor Miller would object strongly.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS UP.

Internal Revenue Bureau Reports Big Increase in January.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—January income and profits tax collections exceeded by more than $34,684,000 the amount received from those sources by the Government during the same month last year, according to reports made public today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Last January the Government collected $85,876,000 in income and profits taxes, compared with $51,192,000 for the same month in 1920. The bureau's receipts from all sources for the month were $194,853,000, or $8,928,000 more than in January, 1920.

No St. Patrick's Parade in Brooklyn.

Brooklyn will have no parade on St. Patrick's Day. At a meeting of the County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at which President John O'Hagan presided, it was decided to dispense with the annual march and devote the money usually spent to relief in Ireland. A ball will be held by the organization on St. Patrick's night in Prospect Hall.

FLOCK FOR HEARING ON TRANSIT BILL

met here last Thursday, were strongly opposed to the bill, which since then, however, has been amended to meet some of the objections.

Lusk Defends Miller Plan.

Senator Lusk made public tonight a letter he had written to a constituent, City Clerk Archie B. Jones of Binghamton, in which he declared that Governor Miller's transit program merely aimed at making effective the plan Charles E. Hughes, while Governor, inaugurated through the creation of Public Service Commissions vested with rate-making powers. He said in the letter that the fixing of rates in franchises obviously was fallacious, in view of the fluctuation of money values. Governor Miller's plan, he added, would insure adequate service at actual cost, plus a reasonable return on investments.

"Any effort on the part of a municipality to obtain more than this through the provisions of any franchise or contract is in the very nature of the thing impossible," he continued. "To pretend otherwise is holding out false hopes to the public. Whether the effort is made by a State commission specially qualified and equipped to investigate the subject or by the local authorities under the exercise of the 'home rule' granted by the State, the result will be the same. Politicians who hope to use the just grievances of the long-suffering traveling public for political purposes will offer more. Demagogues will offer quack legislative remedies. It all comes back to the same proposition: Shall we men who have the responsibility of public office seek for the popular position or for the right position on these public questions?

"The people of my Senatorial district have a further interest in this matter. Millions of dollars have been invested in the traction lines of New York City. I happen to know of individual cases in my district where widow women, living on the interest and principal of the earnings of themselves and their husbands, have among their meagre investments bonds of these traction companies upon which there has been default.

"Some of the savings banks invested heavily in this class of securities. The depositors in these institutions are directly interested in the question of whether or not these obligations are to be repudiated. Thousands of people in my district have insurance policies in which they share in the earnings of the companies. These insurance companies have millions of dollars invested in these traction bonds. The securities issued by these traction companies cannot be confiscated without confiscating the earnings of these thousands of policyholders.

"Under the provisions of the bill not a dollar will be paid back to the investors in the securities of these companies except the money actually used in the public service. Nothing will be paid for watered securities. Because of the crooked method of financing this will mean a very substantial loss on the part of an innocent investing public. This loss they must suffer.

ASSASSINS ESCAPE IN CORK CONFUSION

People Thrown Into a Panic by Firing Following Murder of Isolated Soldiers.

TROOPS ACTIVE ALL NIGHT

Search Parties Sent Through the City During the Day, but No Arrests Are Reported.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, March 1.—As a result of the shooting last night of six soldiers and the wounding of six others, curfew has been advanced to 6 o'clock and the greatest anxiety prevails among the population. Solitary soldiers on walking out passes and unarmed were selected for the attack. In one case the soldier was a local man on furlough, visiting relatives.

Punctually at 7 o'clock the attacks began and the soldiers were shot down in such crowded thoroughfares as Patrick Street and the Grand Parade, while other parties of rebels operated in the obscurity of the side lanes and suburbs. Pedestrians fled in a panic and apparently the assassins escaped under cover of the confusion and darkness, for no arrests are reported so far.

Amusement places emptied quickly, and priests in the churches warned the congregations present of the tragedy that had descended so dramatically on the city. They ended the devotions abruptly and advised everybody to seek their homes as speedily as posible.

Echoes of firing resounded for several minutes after the initial outburst, and seemed so general that the impression obtained that action between rival forces on an extensive scale was in progress. Many residents caught within the centre of the city preferred to remain in such shops and ofices as they had taken refuge in, rather than risk the unknown dangers of reaching home in the suburbs.

The police and auxiliary cadets swept into the streets at the sounds of firing and remained in possession until nearly curfew, when they were relieved by the military. During the night the Crown forces were exceedingly active, isolated bursts of firing disturbing the echoes.

An hour after midnight a mysterious murder occurred at the terminus of the Great Southern & Western Railway in Cork. Three armed and masked men entered the station and while one held up the staff, his companions marched out a parcel office porter named Charles Daly, who was hurried to a tunnel near the end of the platform and shots were heard. The three masked men disappeared and some hours later Daly's body was recovered. He had been shot through the heart. As there were no bullet holes in his clothing it is presumed the assassins must have bared the breast of their victim before killing him.

Two other civilians—a tinsmith and a woman—were wounded in the early firing.

Military patrols are today traversing the city and making sudden searches of sections of traffic. Open formation is adopted by these parties, which are preceded by an advance guard which orders all male civilians to remove their hands from their pockets.

It is reported that five young men recently tried for treason in Dublin have been notified that the court-martial has found them guilty and the penalty is death. Four other men, accused in connection with the November assassinations, also are in jail here after trial by court-martial. The fate of these prisoners is causing considerable speculation in Dublin in view of incidents occurring in Cork.

DUBLIN, March 1.—One man was killed and two were seriously wounded today when the military fired on a group in a field near Tipperary. The men were alleged to have been drilling.

It is officially reported that Crown forces pursued rebels near Gorbally. They killed one man and wounded two and captured arms and ammunition and a plan for an ambush.

Three girls and two men were wounded this evening on Grafton Street, near College Green, when an armed patrol exchanged shots with a party of men which attacked it. Two soldiers were seen to fall during the firing.

The streets were crowded with pedestrians during the affray.

THOMAS DENOUNCES SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Colorado Senator Hints of Taxpayers' Strike and Declares the Measure Sordid.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Soldier Bonus bill was attacked today by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, as "sordid, mercenary, humiliating, outrageous and illegal."

In a minority report presented to the Senate as a member of the Finance Committee Senator Thomas said that the operation of the bill would entail a cost of $3,500,000,000 and result in depreciation of Liberty bonds and other securities and a great burden to the taxpayers.

"The country is in no condition to submit to the stupendous burden which this bill imposes," he declared. "It is outrageous. Justice should of itself defeat the bill. There may be such a thing in this country as a taxpayers' strike. The sooner it comes the better.

"This bill subordinates duty to the sordid and degrading influence of pelf and profit, makes the army an agency for the extortion of money from the citizen and places the republican soldier upon a level with the mercenary soldier of fortune or adventure."

Senator Thomas praised the "splendid, segment of the late American army which disdains to ask for bonuses or compensation." He continued:

"Patriotism, devotion to free institutions and a decent regard for the obligation of free citizenship are degraded and disgraced whenever the soldier citizen becomes a mercenary and either expects or demands that his Government should measure his service in terms of money.

"'If the American nation has been preserved from German aggression only to loose the flood gates of its treasury upon its returning soldiers, it is a serious question whether it was worth while to safeguard the country from its enemies only to be plundered by its citizens."

Declaring that most of the veterans would take the cash bonus, Senator Thomas said that the other options of the bill were "comparatively unimportant."

The plan for reclaiming land for soldier homesteads, he said, would result in numerous land schemes and "promotions."

"They will have ample political backing," the Senator added. "I know of no pork barrel scheme more alluring and fraught with more extravagance and reckless expenditure than this. The local camps or posts of the American Legion will be in evidence behind many of them and a carnival of appropriations will follow in their train."

The tax plan provides for "taking money from the pockets of one class of citizens to be transferred to the pockets of another," said Senator Thomas, adding that in striking out the tax provisions the Senate Finance Committee "shrank from the responsibility."

WARNS POLICE ON DRINK.

Syracuse Commissioner Denounces Frequent Cases of Intoxication.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 1.—Aroused by frequent cases of intoxication among the police, Commisioner of Public Safety Frank T. Miller announced today his determination to take every measure in his power to prevent further offenses. His statement followed the dismissal yesterday of Patrolman Thomas Joyce on charges of intoxication while on duty, and the case of Detective Thomas F. Hayden, who was charged with taking a joy ride in a taxicab and firing shots at two patrolmen standing on a corner. Hayden was taken before the Commissioner and fined a month's pay and a severe public reprimand was added. With Hayden's case came the suspension of Acting Detectives Flood and Schmidt for failure to report Hayden's actions after they had been sent out to investigate the shooting from the taxicab.

Commissioner Miller declared at the hearing in Patrolman Joyce's case that he would inflict the full penalty upon any member of the Police Bureau found guilty of intoxication or neglect of duty.

Nichols was convicted of murder in the first degree, and will die in the chair on Thursday, unless the Governor intervenes.

H. P. ZIEGLER KILLED BY RICH DIVORCEE

band was Jack O'Connor, a famous baseball player and manager of the St. Louis Browns in the season of 1910. O'Connor met her while playing with the Columbus team of the American Association in 1880. There was a whirlwind courtship, and the brilliant catcher brought his bride to St. Louis, where her piquant beauty excited the admiration of every one who saw her.

In 1901 O'Connor joined the Cleveland American League Club, and spent his Summers there with his wife. While in St. Louis they lived at the home of his parents, near Eleventh and Branch Streets. Mrs. O'Connor soon became noted in St. Louis for her love of gayety, and acquired a large circle of acquaintances. She was a frequent attendant at the baseball games, races and other places of public amusement. She was always beautifully gowned and wore expensive jewels.

In 1902 O'Connor joined the St. Louis American League baseball club, of which Ralph Orthwein was then President. Mrs. O'Connor and Orthwein were often seen together at the all-night resorts and road houses that flourished around St. Louis at the time. In 1905, O'Connor came upon them in a wine room at the old Delmonico Restaurant at Kings Highway and Manchester. There was a violent scene, and, it was said, O'Connor tried to kill Orthwein, but was restrained by friends who had accompanied him. O'Connor soon afterward sued for divorce, naming Orthwein in his petition, and was granted a decree.

A year later young Mrs. Orthwein sued her husband for divorce, naming Mrs. O'Connor as co-respondent. Mrs. Orthwein obtained a divorce and a short time afterward Orthwein married the former Mrs. O'Connor. They lived together for some years and then separated. Mrs. Orthwein sued for a divorce, which was granted her.

Mrs. Orthwein and Zeigler were both friends of Robert ("Bobby") Watson, who created the part of Madame Lucy, the dressmaker, in the musical comedy, "Irene." Mr. Watson was deeply shocked last night when details of the tragedy were given to him at the Friars' Club.

"I have known Mrs. Orthwein for a number of years," said Mr. Watson. "She was a wonderful woman. It was through her that I had met Mr. Zeigler. He was a fine man. This tragedy is beyond my comprehension.

"Mr. Zeigler professed to be deeply in love with her, and it was his habit to introduce her to his friends in New York as his future wife. He lavished presents upon her, and I recall that on one of their last visits to this city he bought her a $5,000 coat and purchased for her some expensive jewelry."

PANAMA PREPARES TO RAISE AN ARMY

Extra Session of Assembly Takes Up Defense Measures Against Costa Rica.

ORDER RESTORED IN CAPITAL

American Troops Saved Porras From Mob—Washington Concerned Over Canal.

PANAMA, March 1 (Associated Press.)—An extraordinary session of the Assembly was held this afternoon, when the following national defense measures were proposed:

An appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of arms and munitions.

Authorization to the President to raise and equip an army up to the strength he may deem necessary.

Authorization for the flotation of an internal loan to the amount of $500,000, secured by the proceeds of the national lottery.

A Presidential message was read describing events since the taking over of territory near the Pacific frontier on Feb. 21 by Costa Rican forces and the expulsion and capture of the invaders through police measures. The President made no mention of a declaration of war.

A cablegram addressed to the Assembly from Deputy Francisco Arias, leader of the party opposing President Porras, who is representing the Assembly at Washington at the inauguration of President-elect Harding, expressed confidence that all the members of the opposition would support the Administration in the present crisis.

The capital remained quiet today.

One person is dead and four others are suffering from wounds received when the Presidential guard fired upon a mob which broke into the Executive Mansion here yesterday. One of the injured was Domingo Turner, who was the chief organizer of the demonstration here when General Pershing visited the Canal Zone last year.

American troops arrived at the home of President Porras just in time to save the President's life. Señor Porras was conferring with William Jennings Price, United States Minister to Panama, and Colonel Jay J. Morrow, Acting Governor of the Canal Zone, when a crowd which had gathered in front of the palace became threatening. A request was at once sent to the commandant of the United States troops in the Canal Zone, asking him to send soldiers to the palace. Before they had arrived, however, a portion of the crowd had broken in one of the doors and had been fired upon. A demonstration called for yesterday afternoon was declared off.

Quiet had been completely restored last night. Saloons both in Panama and Colon had been closed, while United States troops guarded the Presidential Palace during the night, in spite of the President's request for their withdrawal.

It was asserted here last night by Dr. Eusebio Morales, Secretary of the Treasury, that the occupation of Coto had been reported in San José, the capital of Costa Rica, but that nothing had been revealed relative to the capture of the Costa Rican force which entered the town. He expressed a belief that trouble would ensue in San José when the facts became known.

WASHINGTON WATCHFUL OF CANAL'S SAFETY

Urges Panama and Costa Rica to Keep the Peace While Solution Is Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The gravity of the situation involved in the controversy between Panama and Costa Rica over the territory in dispute along the western frontier of Panama is appreciated by high officials of the American Government, who are watching developments closely and urging both countries to refrain from the use of force pending agreement on some plan for solving the problem.

The diplomatic intervention of the United States through the sending of notes to the two Governments and through the use of the good offices of the American Ministers to Costa Rica and Panama, it is hoped and believed in official circles will lead to a restoration of the status quo as to the boundary between the two countries which existed since the understanding between the two republics in 1881.

The American Consul at Port Limon reported to the State Department today that there was a demonstration against the Panaman Consulate there, but that quiet had been restored. The department issued a statement on its advices regarding the use of American troops for the Canal Zone in maintaining order in Panama City and in protecting President Porras of Panama, which reads in part:

"State Department advices from the American Legation at Panama report that at noon yesterday, while the American Minister, William J. Price, and the Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, Brig. Gen. Chester Harding, U. S. A., retired, were in conference with President Porras at the presidential palace a crowd gathered and made a demonstration before the palace. The palace guard opened fire upon the crowd, which was finally dispersed.

"During the demonstration Señor D. H. Turner, editor of the newspaper Dairio Nacionale, who is said to have been one of the leaders of the crowd that gathered outside the palace, was wounded in the arm. An unidentified person in the crowd was fatally wounded and a number of people received slight injuries.

"The American Minister and the Governor of the Canal Zone, under the provision of Article 7 of the treaty of 1903, sent a detachment of American troops from the Canal Zone to guard the Presidential palace until the excitement subsided. Under the text of this provision the right and authority are granted to the United States for the maintenance of public order in the cities of Panama and Colon and the territories and harbors adjacent thereto in case the Republic of Panama should not be, in the judgment of the United States, able to maintain such order."

COSTA RICA SENDS TROOPS.

2,500 Men Off to Frontier—Deputies Back Government.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 1.—Costa Rican forces numbering 2,500 men have been sent to the Panaman frontier by the Government, the acts of which, in connection with the controversy with Panama, have been approved by the Chamber of Deputies, it is said in dispatches from San Jose.

A mob in San Jose has torn down the coat of arms from the Panaman Legation and has trampled it under foot as a reprisal for a similar act on the part of a crowd in Panama.

OPERATE ON CARUSO FOR THE THIRD TIME

tion was considered merely as a minor result of the infection in the upper pleura.

Preparations were made yesterday for any turn for the worse in the condition of the patient, and tanks of oxygen were taken to the apartment after the operation. More oxygen was taken to the apartment last night to be held in readiness there for any possible relapse that might come near daybreak, which is generally Caruso's most uncomfortable time. None was administered.

Dr. Murray left Caruso's bedside at 9 o'clock last night after a vigil that had been almost constant since the morning operation, and he said that he was pleased with the condition of the patient. He added that an encouraging sign was that the patient's appetite and spirits were good. Despite this encouraging news, there was tenseness around the apartment as members of the family awaited the expected subsidence of temperature.

Fears that Caruso's convalescence was not progressing favorably were expressed last week by some of his associates in the Metropolitan Opera Company after an order had been issued to bar all visitors from the sickroom. It was learned also by them that even members of the Caruso family were encouraged to stay out of the room the greater part of the time.

Their fears were increased again yesterday when they learned that it was possible that poison had been attacking Caruso for several days and undermining his resistance when it was deemed necessary for him to gain strength to fight off any new relapse.

Because of some reports of Caruso's illness, deemed by members of his family to have been too alarming, Caruso's friends and medical attendants are guarded in their utterances and have attempted to have all information on his condition given out from one agency. It was reported that this partial censorship was put on when a relative sent a cablegram to Caruso's brother in Italy, causing him to start at once for this country in the belief that his brother had no chance for recovery. His ship, the Caronia, will arrive this week, perhaps Friday.

"We are hopeful, if not sanguine that the best results will quickly follow," said one of the physicians, "and that the fever will go down immediately."

Better Lighting

BETTER lighting increases production, decreases spoilage and lessens industrial accidents. This the illuminating engineer has proven by scientific research and painstaking tests of installations covering practically every field of industrial activity. The factory executive of today no longer relies upon his own hit-or-miss judgment of lighting requirements. His decision rests upon facts and figures, a foot candle rule for measuring needed light intensities, an expert's knowledge of units, reflectors, lamps, etc.

The surprising benefits and economies that result from a correct application of industrial lighting has always made it a pleasure for us to render advice, without cost, to our present and prospective customers.

OLD POLITICAL FOES LAUD CHAMBERLAIN

Harding Leads Praise of Retiring Senator, Saying Progress Is Assured by Such Men.

SPEAKERS URGE ARMAMENT

Kahn Says We Will Not Fight Japan, but Holds This No Time to Give Up Weapons.

Arguments against disarming the nation marked the speeches last night at a testimonial dinner to United States Senator George E. Chamberlain given in the Hotel Astor by a committee of prominent citizens without regard to party. The dinner was arranged in recognition of the work of the Democratic Senator from Oregon as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs throughout the war. Defeated in the last elections, he retires with the present Congress.

Several of the speakers suggested the advisability of continuing Senator Chamberlain in public life, presumably through appointment by President-elect Harding. Representative Julius Kahn of California went a step further, saying that he would be glad to bring the matter before Mr. Harding.

Mr. Kahn, Chairman of the House Military Committee, predicted that America never would enter another war without selective conscription, adding that he favored conscription of labor and capital as well as fighting men. Paying tribute to Senator Chamberlain, the California Representative said that his colleague from the Coast always had approached national questions without regard to partisanship.

Mr. Kahn said that "pacifism is still with us and I fear its membership has been augmented." He urged that the army and navy should not be cut down, citing the cost of our recent unpreparedness.

He denied that California "wants to drag the country into war," saying that Californians never had objected to the better class of Japanese immigration. He admitted that there existed considerable feeling against Japanese cheap labor, but pointed out that Japan herself was exercised over the threatened influx of such labor from Korea.

The next speaker, Martin W. Littleton, severely criticised the "Horrors of the Rhine" meeting held in Madison Square Garden last night, saying that "it was a strange thing that it took place coincident with the arrival of the German delegates in London."

A letter from Mr. Harding was read, dated St. Augustine, Feb. 26. After paying tribute to Senator Chamberlain, he said "so long as the Republic is served by men of his capacity we are certain of the stability and onward course of our country." A letter of tribute from Major Gen. Leonard Wood also was read by the toastmaster, S. Stanwood Menken.

"America is not out of war," said Senator Chamberlain in his response. "As long as there is national greed wars will come. America must be prepared despite her isolated position. We must get back to the condition where America will not have a mercenary army. We should have an army based on the principle of universal military training. For the benefits which every man receives from an organized Government every man should give service."

SHOOTS 2, KILLS HIMSELF.

Soldier, Crazed by News of Sweetheart's Death, Tries to Kill Company

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., March 1.—Crazed, it is believed, by the death of his sweetheart in Michigan, Private J. Harrington, 27 years old, of Detroit, shot up the barracks of L Company, Twenty-eighth Infantry, today, wounded two soldiers, and then shot himself dead.

The wounded men, First-Sergeant J. M. Saunders and Bugler R. A. Wagner, are in the Post Hospital and will recover. Saunders was shot in the leg, the bullet splintering his kneecap, and Wagner was hit in the left side, under the heart. Harrington appeared in the Assembly Hall of the barracks, waiving his revolver, but the men thought he was shamming until a bullet felled Saunders. Harrington ended his own life with his last bullet. A note found on his cot told of his purpose to "kill the company."

ENDS MOONEY INQUIRY.

San Francisco Grand Jury Investigated His Conviction.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—Investigation by the Grand Jury in the case of Thomas Mooney, serving a prison sentence after conviction for participation in the Preparedness Day bomb explosion here in 1916, has been completed, it was announced today. No action was taken.

John MacDonald, who came here from New York, where he was reported to have made an affidavit purporting to show his testimony at the Mooney trial was false, is said to have refused to make a statement before the Grand Jury unless granted immunity in connection with his alleged affidavit.

Immunity, it is said, was refused.

The alleged methods of the "combination" are described in great detail in the indictment.

It is charged that they have formed associations and bureaus throughout the country, ostensibly for the purpose of quoting prices as to completed transactions, and for the further purpose of "recommending" uniform trade practices. The evidence, according to Government officials, indicates that the ostensible purposes of these associations are "merely sham," and that the so-called quotations on past transactions are used as a means of fixing a common price, and the so-called "recommendations" of trade practices really amount to a flat from the large companies. In fact, it is charged, all of the so-called trade practices are used as a means of maintaining price, limiting output and interfering with the purchaser's free use of the cement which he had bought.

Some of the more reprehensible of these trade practices, the indictment sets forth, are what are known as "delivery prices," "arbitrary trade base," "specific job contract" and "warehouse deliveries." Government officials briefly describe these methods.

The arbitrary freight bases are arbitrary points, one or more, adopted for each of the territorial subdivisions of the United States. Each mill, in quoting to a prospective customer, in computing the price, figures not on the freight charge from the mill to the point of delivery, but from the arbitrary freight base to the point of delivery.

"The way it works out in practice," one of the prosecutors said, "is this: In fixing the price of cement three items are added—the mill base price of the cement, the cost of bags in which the cement is shipped and the freight charge. The mill base price within a territorial subdivision at any given time is the same at all mills. A charge for bags, invariably uniform, is added, and finally a freight rate figure by each mill from the arbitrary freight base, regardless of its own proximity to or distance from the point of delivery, is included. The result is manifest. The mill base price, bag cost and freight charge being identical, quotations to the customer are always the same.

"Construction men still go through the idle ceremony of asking for quotations. This is simply through force of habit. They know in advance that the quoted price will invariably be the same to a penny."

The specific work contract, according to the Government investigators, is employed in this wise:

A prospective builder is permitted to contract only for the amount of cement actually to be employed on his job. The uniform contract alleged to be employed by all of these defendants requires a representation from the builder that the cement is actually necessary for his job and is to be used on no other jobs. Inspectors are employed by the cement manufacturers to see that no builder contracts for more than he actually needs. If, by chance, a builder should have more than his requirements and should attempt to use the surplus on other work, very effectual methods are employed to prevent him from doing so. This ingenious device serves to prevent any surplus supply of cement from being available. The building industry is always kept cement hungry. Price raising is never embarrassed by surplus supply of cement on the market, for no cement can ever be found except in the manufacturers' bins or, probably, a weak supply in the hands of a dealer.

The so-called "warehouse delivery contracts" are supplementary to the specific work contract. Dealers in building material, the Government officials say, of necessity require a certain amount of cement which is not intended for any specific contract, but for the trade in general. These dealers are not permitted to use their warehouse supplies for specific work. The dealer's warehouse deliveries are limited to so much cement as may be delivered to him within fifteen days from the date of the order.

FOKINE HAS MISHAP IN BOUNDING DANCE

His Right Leg Becomes "Muscle Bound" and Curtain Is Rung Down at Metropolitan.

DISABLED FOR 20 MINUTES

Then He Pluckily, With Mme. Fokina, Gives a New Ballet by Mozart, "The Dream of the Marquise."

Michel Fokine, the distinguished Russian dancer and creator of the "Mecca" bacchanale, began and pluckily finished an evening's special program at the Metropolitan Opera House last night under difficulties later explained to an audience that filled the theatre. One of those slight mishaps that seize a tennis player in a championship game, or even a tenor singer in an opera, as was the case when Caruso slipped and first wrenched his side in "Pagliacci" last December, occurred last evening as Mr. Fokine bounded upon the stage for his second solo dance. He was seen to limp off, while an orchestra of men from the Philharmonic went on playing under Dr. Anselm Goetzl's direction, and then stopped as the curtain was rung down.

There was a twenty-minute wait while Mr. Fokine, who had become painfully "muscle-bound" by a sudden twist of the right leg, recovered himself sufficiently to go on with the novelty of the evening, Mozart's "Les Petits Reins," which he and Mme. Fokina were dancing as "The Dream of the Marquise." The pair, in court costumes, and presently in something approaching a nocturne of nymph and faun by a bathing pool, carried the new production through to a conclusion charmingly, though Mr. Fokine's limp became a hop, skip and jump, and finally, in "The Pursuit" episode, a saturnine hop on the left foot alone. It was literally tour de force possible only to a great dancer.

An American audience, quick to appreciate good sportsmanship, gave the man an ovation. It listened, too, with delight to Mozart's minuet, which Mme. Fokina danced with her husband, and the house laughed when a little negro attendant scurried about like a comet with her many yards of train. There was deserved applause for Mr. Fokine's own episodes of "The Faun's Awakening" as the Marquise stepped to her bath, and "The Faun's Glee" at her pantomimic cries for help as he stole her clothes away.

Mme. Fokina repeated twice over "The Swan," said to have been first danced by her when Mr. Fokine devised it in Petrograd before Pavlowa carried it to the judgment of Paris. After the Mozart piece, Morris Gest decided that Mr. Fokine should not continue, at the risk of serious results, and Charles Strakosch announced from the stage that Mme. Fokina would finish alone the "Danse Zigane" of Nachez and a solo instead of duet dance from "Prince Igor."

CHICAGO OPERA STARS' TOUR

Company to Travel in Five Groups—Ruffo Sings The Barber.

A scheme of the Chicago stars' tour, as outlined briefly in THE TIMES of last Sunday, was issued in full detail from the Manhattan offices last night. "Big business" has organized the groups of leading singers in four operas, who will travel independently, while the chorus and orchestra make a fifth large body for the journey across the continent, starting next Monday by way of Baltimore. The main division is under George M. Spangler, business manager for Mary Garden.

The Lohengrin Opera Company will be in charge of E. K. Bixby, a veteran railroad man, who booked the itinerary; the Monna Vanna Opera Company is under James O'Donnell of the home office management; the Traviata Opera Company, under H. W. Beatty, technical director, and the Othello Opera Company, under C. A. Shaw, manager of the tour. The stars will travel in these groups through the South and Far West, returning to Chicago on May 2.

"The Barber of Seville," with the famous Titta Ruffo in its title rôle, that Carlo Galeffi so admirably sang at one previous representation, drew a great audience of Mr. Ruffo's admirers to the Manhattan last night. A change of Rosinas also brought Florence Macbeth, not unfamiliar to this public, who introduced in her lesson scene the "Charmant Oiseau" from "Pearl of Brazil," and encored it with "Annie Laurie." Tito Schipa, the company's lyric tenor, reappeared with others of the cast, and Gino Marinuzzi conducted with distinction.

GEORGETTE COHAN TO RETIRE

Bride of J. William Souther to Leave Stage for a Home Life.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—Georgette Cohan, now Mrs. J. William Souther, will abandon the stage and devote herself to home life henceforth, the young couple, who were secretly married last week, announced tonight upon their return from Bellaire, where they have been visiting the bridegroom's parents. The pair will leave for New York on Friday.

It had been expected that Georgette Cohan, the daughter of George M. Cohan and Ethel Levey, now Mrs. Claude Graham-White, would follow in the theatrical footsteps of her father and mother, and preparations to this end were under way at the time of her marriage. Miss Cohan had already appeared successfully in several plays in London, and it was understood that her father was writing a comedy for her use.

British Honor Kermit Roosevelt.

Kermit Roosevelt, who served with the British forces under General Allenby in Palestine as a Captain, was notified yesterday of his election as Second Vice President of the British War Veterans' Association. Mr. Roosevelt was awarded the Military Cross.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Bert Williams has been signed by A. H. Woods for three years and will appear in a musical piece entitled "The Pink Slip," to be produced next season. It is the work of Walter De Leon.

Arthur Byron will have the leading role in Vincent Lawrence's "The Ghost Between," acted by Taylor Holmes out of town recently. "Transplanting Jean," in which Mr. Byron has been appearing, will close in Philadelphia this week.

Elizabeth Risdon will be in the cast of "The Night Cap," which Max Marcin is producing.

"Survival of the Fittest," by George H. Atkinson, will open at the Greenwich Village Theatre a week from Monday night. Montagu Love will head the cast.

Florence Reed, in "The Mirage," will end her New York run on March 12. The succeeding attraction at the Times Square will probably be "Maid to Love," a musical comedy.

Mlle. Anna Codee will arrive in New York on the Rochambeau today to appear in "The Whirl of the Town," a revue which the Shuberts will produce in Washington next week. Also in the cast will be James Hussey, Georgie Price, Mae West, Marguerite Farrell and many others.

The tenth anniversary of the Winter Garden will be celebrated at that theatre during the week of March 20. Willie and Eugene Howard will revive a number of the songs and scenes in which they have figured since the opening of the Garden.

Miss Mary Shaw, the actress, will lecture before the New York Drama League on Sunday afternoon, March 6, at 3:30 o'clock, at the Plymouth Theatre, on "The Actor and His Relation to the Craft of the Theatre."

"Afgar" will end its run at the Central on April 2. Mlle. Delysia will spend the Summer abroad and will return to this country to tour in "Afgar" next season, beginning Aug. 29.

Gilda Varesi, who was out of the cast of "Enter Madame" on Monday night because of illness, returned to the play last night.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich.

The National Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Mengelberg's program for the National Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon contained only three numbers, but it was a long concert and a very interesting one. They were Bach's orchestral suite in B minor, all seven, or perhaps they might be called eight, movements; Beethoven's piano concerto in G, played by Leopold Godowsky, and Brahms's first symphony. The orchestra again showed the great strides it has made under Mr. Mengelberg's rehearsing toward excellence in performance. There were many remarkable excellencies in its playing, some of which are all too seldom heard in orchestral performances in New York at present. But a full and many-sided beauty of tone is not yet to be counted among them.

Mr. Mengelberg took pains to secure a performance of Bach's suite characteristic of the music and corresponding as nearly as might be possible with the directions of the score and the customs of the eighteenth century, in a hall and with an orchestra of twentieth century dimensions. He used one of those modified pianos that are supposed to imitate the characteristic tone quality of the harpischord, and do so to a certain degree—this for the "continuo" part that was an indispensable member of every orchestral score of Bach's time. He employed eight flutes instead of the usual four of the modern orchestra, endeavoring thus to restore as far as possible the proportion between the flute tone and the string tone existing in Bach's orchestra; though of course with strings in the modern profusion even eight flutes will not do it.

The suite is scored for first and second violins, flutes and continuo. The treatment of the continuo in modern performances is always something of a problem. It may fairly be said that the highest ideal is one that will interest and delight the audiences and do as little violence to Bach's methods as possible, rather than a close and pedantic following of eighteenth century practices that will find no echo in the hearts of modern listeners and make no appeal there. And it may also fairly be said that Mr. Mengelberg approached this ideal. He treated the continuo freely. Sometimes he played it himself on the modified piano, with a filling out of the harmony indicated in the figures; sometimes he gave it to all the basses and 'cellos together; sometimes he shared it on the piano with two basses and 'cellos each. Less easy to understand were the passages where he played the piano, though the score indicates rests; and when he played chords and passages though the continuo is marked "tasto solo"—a direct command not to play chords or passages.

But more important than a consideration of these technicalities was the spirit and life, the delicacy and clearness of contour, the rhythmic vitality, the variety of expression that the performance revealed; a union of qualities that brought out the enchanting beauty and strength of the music. Mr. Mengelberg presented it as who should say, with Browning:

> "And here's your music all alive once more—
> "As once it was alive."

It was a delight to hear again Beethoven's G major concerto, that pianists in recent years have neglected in favor of its bigger brother in E flat. It is quite as great as its bigger brother in significance if not in dimensions and breathes Beethoven's most poetical and romantic spirit. Mr. Godowsky brought out its filigree portions of its structure with the utmost clearness of articulation, with the utmost delicacy and precision in its runs and passage work; but with a somewhat matter of fact statement of some of its most characteristic beauties.

The two cadenzas that he played were intricate and ingenious, but they were far from the spirit of Beethoven; nor was an attempt to approach that spirit in them easy to discern; in fact a passage in the first one, combining two of the themes of the first movement hinted rather at the methods of Mr. Godowsky's metamorphosed Strauss waltzes, admirable in their place, but strangers to Beethoven. The accompaniment of the concerto was well played.

Mr. Mengelberg added one more to the several readings of Brahms's first symphony that the present season has brought forth; and one of the most notable of them; a reading admirably conceived and proportioned, calculated to set forth the profound beauties of the music in a large frame. There were vitality and fire in the performance, a pregnant feeling fo the melodic lines, an unremitting beauty and rightness of phrase. There was all but the deep and golden beauty of tone that Brahms has created in his instrumentation for the conveyance of his musical thought. At this the orchestra has not yet arrived.

The audience was somewhat sparse; a pity, but it was full of enthusiasm as well it might be.

THREE WOMEN IN RECITALS.

Harriet Scholder, Herma Menth, Pianists; Alix Maruchess, Violinist.

Three young women artists already well known gave musical recitals yesterday, two pianists at Aeolian Hall and a violinist at the Princess Theatre. Harriet Scholder last evening pleased an Aeolian audience with her playing of Chopin and Debussy, after Schumann's "Fantasie" and some preliminary Beethoven. Herma Menth was heard in the afternoon from the same stage in Liszt's B minor sonata, Mr. Godowsky's arrangement of a "Tambourin" by Rameau, and pieces by Moussorgsky, Leschetizky and Wolff.

John Ireland's sonata No. 2, in A minor, said to be a "first time" here, was performed at a Princess matinée by Alix Young Maruchess, assisted at the piano by James Friskin. There was also an arrangement by Alfred Moffat of a sonata by John Stanley, a composer who died before Washington was President of the United States; two so-called "eighteenth century English pieces," credited to Moffat himself, and Press's version of Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise."

Actor and Actress Marry.

The marriage of Delbert Eugene Benn, an actor, living at the National Vaudeville Artists' Club, 229 West Forty-sixth Street, and Miss Florence Buchan, an astress of Des Moines, Iowa, took place yesterday. Mr. Benn is 45 years of age and Miss Buchan said she was 25. The ceremony was performed by Michael J. Cruise, Deputy City Clerk.

In addition to his recognized capacity as a judge of theatrical entertainment, his writings have a peculiar charm which makes them unusually interesting and refreshing.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

"The Tyranny of Love."

THE TYRANNY OF LOVE. A play in three acts, adapted from the French of G. de Porto-Riche by Henry Baron. At the Bijou Theatre.

Dr. George Edwards........Cyril Keightley
Mrs. Edwards..........Estelle Winwood
Paul Cartier..........Georges Flateau
Emily Johnston..........Margaret Dale
Mrs. Gordon-Jones..........Ethel Wilson
Susan..........Pauline Polk

A slight Americanization of Porto-Riche's old success, "Amoureuse," was proffered us at the Bijou yesterday afternoon under the too dignified and slightly misleading title, "The Tyranny of Love." It might better have been called "The Importunate Wife" or "The Adhesive Helpmeet" or something more truly descriptive. Its celebrated poor relation, Brieux's "Les Hannetons," was done into English under the title "The Incubus" and something of that idea runs in and out of the play from first to last.

This interesting comedy of somewhat steamy domesticity is a searching and utterly Gallic study of a would-be sovereign scientist in his fitful and eventually unsuccessful effort to pull himself out of the quagmire of his wife's incessant absorption in him. It is so entirely French, both in its flavor and in its connoisseur's interest in love and all the nuances of infidelity that the superficial effort to pretend its scenes are unfolding in our town is both futile and foolish. The program may swear that the action is passing in New York. The characters may speak of running out to Denver and that may be The Evening World left on the divan. But these few details are continuously at war with the thousand and one intimations that it is all happening in Paris and therefore they are as disconcerting as though, in the midst of a Central Park West backdrop, you could see the silhouette of the Eiffel Tower.

It is an uncommonly satisfactory performance at the Bijou, with Estelle Winwood as the wife quite clearly leading in the honors of an ambitious and intelligently chosen cast.

Metropolitan Gives 'Andrea Chenier'

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—The opera "Andrea Chenier" was sung here tonight by the Metropolitan Opera Company, with Gigli, who showed no trace of his recent indisposition, in the tenor rôle. Claudia Muzio suffered from a cold and was replaced by Frances Peralta, who gave an excellent account of herself in spite of the short notice given her to appear.

THE GERMAN PROPOSAL.

Dr. SIMONS is a reasonable man, as Germans go—more reasonable not only than the Teutons of Irish descent who performed in Madison Square Garden, but more reasonable than most of his own people. It is significant that he came to the London conference only with limited powers; his Government was afraid to trust him. So there is the greater disappointment in the character of his counter-proposal for meeting the indemnity.

He understood, of course, that the Allies were not in a mood to yield very much, if anything, so his first effort seems to have been to convince LLOYD GEORGE and BRIAND that he was really accepting the scheme agreed on by them. He estimated that the forty-two annuities totaling 226,000,000,000 marks represented (at 8 per cent.) a capital value of 50,000,000,000, which he offered to pay—subject to deductions and allowances. Well, Mr. POINCARE is not so good a mathematician as his late and eminent brother, but he understands figures. He says the annuities at 8 per cent. represent a capital value of 58,000,000,000 marks. Already Dr. SIMONS is some distance out of the way. Moreover, he would insist on a deduction of 20,000,000,000 marks for the property already surrendered. That this is a fair estimate of its value is generally admitted, but the annuities were to be in addition to this property. So that so far as the annuities are concerned SIMONS offers a little more than half what is asked.

What else? In his criticism of the export tax of 12 per cent. he hits the weak point of the allied scheme. That tax is now understood as an honest effort to adjust the burden of reparation to Germany's varying capacity to pay, but however honest the intention the method is clumsy. SIMONS, however, has objections to offer on other points besides the export tax. Germany can pay this capital sum of thirty billions only if she is allowed to keep Upper Silesia, and if she is allowed free access to all the markets of the world. The latter condition may perhaps be necessary to the building up of German export trade; that Germany cannot get along without Upper Silesia, nobody but the Germans, and Mr. KEYNES, believes. What is certain is that Polish industry cannot get along very well without Upper Silesia; that is why the Germans take every opportunity to insist that the Poles must not have it. The German interest there is political rather than economic.

So Germany offers half the annuities and rejects the additional sum to be raised by the export tax; she insists on the retention of a valuable province to which she has no just claim, and she demands additional economic opportunities. This alone is a large order, but SIMONS asks still more. The Allies will have to lend Germany the money to get started. They ought, he argues, to lend her the whole thirty billions, but, since that is impossible, eight billions will do for a beginning. But they must not suppose that Germany can pay very much just now. A billion marks a year for five years, and after that there will be a new conference to readjust the scale of payments. No wonder Mr. LLOYD GEORGE told Mr. BRIAND that this sounded very much as if England and France would have to pay the indemnity. Germany promises to pay some of it, but England and France will have to lend it to her first, and trust to her honor for repayment.

Of course, this proposal cannot be seriously considered. The allied Premiers will undoubtedly give Dr. SIMONS another chance. He must have something better than this ridiculous plan to lay before them, and he must have some better alternative to it than the old threat that if more is exacted of Germany she will tumble into Bolshevism. After all, the Germans ought to remember what happened to Hungary less than two years ago. Hungary turned Bolshevist as a protest against the attitude of the Peace Conference, and four months of Bolshevism cost her more than the treaty would ever have laid upon her. In that direction Germany will find no way out, nor can she seriously expect to resist the French armies. In her own interest, it might be worth while to consider another course, and one to which she has given little attention so far—namely, an honest effort to pay what she can.

A CONTINUOUS FOREIGN POLICY.

From Washington a correspondent sends to The Philadelphia Ledger, on "very high authority," an outline of the general attitude of the incoming Administration toward international affairs. He begins with what must seem to many Republicans a startling warning: "It is pure folly to pre-"sume that some of the Wilson poli-"cies will be scrapped solely on ac-"count of their authorship." That they were wrong simply because Mr. WILSON devised or favored them has been an article of the Republican faith ever since the armistice. Senator HARDING himself, in an unguarded moment last Summer, spoke of the need of "entirely reversing" our foreign policy. But the more he examines it the greater the number of desirable features he finds in it. For example, he will firmly support the position taken by the State Department in the dispute about the Japanese mandate over Yap and the British mandate in Mesopotamia. It is stated, also, that the new Administration will be in "hearty sympathy" with the Allies in their demands upon Germany for due reparation.

As time goes on, it may appear that the old American tradition of a continuous foreign policy will reassert itself under Mr. HARDING. So far as that policy has its effects among our own citizens, there is every reason to expect that the new President will be like the old in denouncing and opposing a divided loyalty. The hyphenated American will be in no higher favor with the next Administration than with the present. Those stupid professional German-Americans and wild-eyed Sinn Feiners who now talk delightedly of being soon under the protection and in the embrace of President HARDING are living in a fool's paradise. It is safe to predict that in three months' time, if they are allowed to have their fling, they will be hissing Mr. HARDING as they now hiss Mr. WILSON.

BUDGET AND TAX RATE.

More than one City Administration has sought to keep down the tax rate by increasing taxable valuations. The Hylan Administration is forced to increase both valuation and rate. The total real and personal valuation for the five boroughs is this year $10,186,207,879—altogether the largest in the history of the city. But the budget is also the city's largest, reaching a total of $345,530,039. Necessarily, therefore, the tax rate is the highest ever imposed, 2.77 for Manhattan, the lowest for any of the boroughs, with Queens the highest at 2.85.

Taxpayers, who sometimes pay attention to such things, still recall that the Hylan Administration came in with promises of economy abundantly and recklessly made throughout the campaign. How those promises have been kept may be read in the figures of the valuation, the budget and the tax rate, all the record highest. The promises were made without any intelligent understanding of what they meant. But great multitudes of voters who gave their support to Mr. HYLAN in the Mayoralty campaign in 1917 give no heed to these matters, care nothing about them. It is their common belief that they pay no taxes, because they never see a tax bill; therefore, they may freely give their votes to the candidate who is loudest in his professions of friendship for the people, feeling that if costs mount and taxes rise they will not have to pay the bills. The truth is that if there are waste and extravagance and resulting high taxes, they pay as much of the increase as can be passed on to them in higher rents, in the increased price of clothing, food and the necessaries of life. They bear the burden, often it gives them pain, but they blame it on the corporations, the capitalists, on Wall Street—never on themselves.

The size of the budget and the tax rate are not of the most importance. The main point is whether the people get the worth of the money spent by the City Government. That is always doubtful under a Tammany Administration; it is particularly doubtful under this Administration. In public business the relation of cost to efficiency is a point that gets the least attention of all. Yet it is most important, just as in the traction problem the vital thing for the people is the accommodation furnished them by the passenger-carrying corporations. But that consideration is hidden from view under a dense cloud of discussion and outcry about home rule, the sins and greed of the companies and the inalienable right of every city to have a five-cent fare. The aim of all inquiry and of all action should be to supply to the millions of the city's people the greatest accommodation with the lowest rate of fare compatible with efficient service.

That, as we understand it, is the underlying purpose of Governor MILLER's proposal. The Mayor and Senator JOHNSON and most of those who are loudest in opposing the Governor's plan have something else in mind. The relation of that problem to the tax rate is plain enough, since if the Mayor should succeed in his designs upon the traction companies the budget for all succeeding years would include deficits of unknown amounts incurred by the city in operating the traction systems, and the tax rate would mount accordingly. Taxpayers understand it; voters who are still enthusiastic for the Hylan policies would understand it, too, if they could be made to see that higher taxes increase their own cost of living.

PRICE FIXERS AND TRADE CONSPIRATORS.

The Supreme Court decides that to attempt to enforce the Lever act for the punishment of profiteers "would "be the exact equivalent of an effort "to carry out a statute which in its "terms merely penalized and pun-"ished all acts detrimental to the "public interest, when unjust and "unreasonable in the estimate of a "court and jury." The decision of the court annuls 2,500 prosecutions, some of which had resulted in fines which now must be remitted. The defendants will go free because, the court says, the indictments did not sufficiently inform the accused of the nature of the charge against them, and the statute fixed no ascertainable standard of guilt. If the statute had declared that it would be profiteering to sell sugar under the exact conditions of the case decided, then the defendants could have been punished, not for doing an act so unjust and unreasonable as to constitute a felony in the opinion of a jury, but because it fell within a statutory definition of a crime.

There has been difficulty in proving crime under the anti-trust law, but it has been done, and when juries have agreed no innocent man has suffered. But there was no jury finding in this case, and the statutes are different in their nature. The Sherman law applied to conduct, which it is right to regulate by the standards of everyday life. The Lever law applied only to fixing prices and controlling the supply of goods. Those are matters of business discretion, about which opinions of buyer and seller will differ, and which no laws have ever yet settled to the satisfaction of both, or perhaps can ever settle. In a single day there were three price-fixing cases, each illustrating the difficulty of making statutes regarding prices. The Governor vetoed the Theatre Ticket Price bill because sellers have a right to fix the price of their goods, unless they offend against the State's police power, as was not alleged. In the gas case the statute fixed a price which was both lawful and right at the time, but which became unlawful by change of conditions. Now the public utility is left to fix its own price, the Judge who annulled the statute as unreasonable and confiscatory declining to fix it. The law failed with the reason which justified it, and the public utility fixing its own price does so under peril of fixing an unreasonable one. Conduct does not change so easily or quickly as prices, and standards of conduct may be left to the decision of the common man better than prices, as to which his opinions are less detached and free from personal bias. A profiteer before a jury in wartime would be likely to have short shrift, even though his conduct might fall within the rule of reason, and price fixers have more need of protection against juries than even conspirators in restraint of trade.

THE NINETY-THREE TODAY.

A German writer, M. H. WEHBERG, has recently published the results of personal inquiries made of the surviving professors, scientists and literary men who in 1914 signed the famous manifesto of the ninety-three Gelehrten. Seventeen of them have since died, but of this number it was known that several had changed their minds, or at least wished that they had not put their names to a document which was a reproach to German learning. Among the living only sixteen were found to stand by their action in 1914 without wavering, and to say that they would sign the manifesto again.

This leaves some sixty of the original ninety-three who now express regret—in some cases amounting almost to remorse. Some of them explain that they did not read or know what they had signed. They gave their names by telephone or telegraph to what they supposed to be a truthful utterance of German university opinion. Later they felt "keen chagrin" when they found that, with their indignant "it is not true," they had been denying facts amply proved. More than one of the signers now has strong words in condemnation of the "unlucky and senseless" declaration, as it is now admitted to have been, to which they were induced to put their names.

This is perhaps the nearest to repentance that we have had or may expect from Germany. Herr WEHBERG records many excuses, some semi-apologies, several expressions of sorrow that the thing turned out so badly; but not one form of the straight-out confession that is good for the soul.

FARM LOAN BONDS.

Seldom does even a Supreme Court decision have so many "angles" as the one affirming the constitutionality of the Federal Farm Loan act. It might almost be said that the farm loan aspect is the least important, though it involves several hundred millions in loans and the principle of giving farmers access to capital more cheaply than otherwise available to them. The decision comes on the day when farm contracts are customarily settled, and when some disturbance was expected. If the farmers are put more at ease about the interest on their borrowed capital, they are likely to be better producers of food, and that interests all food consumers.

Without minimizing that consideration, there is temptation to say that the court's affirmance of the right to exempt farm loan bonds from taxation is more important. Refunding of several billions of Federal bonds cannot be long delayed, and the rate of interest they will bear in competition with the exempt farm loan securities is important to both taxpayers and bond buyers. There may seem to be no relation between the fixing of railway rates and the exemption of farm loan interest, but remark what the court says:

> It is said to be an invasion of State authority to extend the tax exemption so as to restrain the power of the State. * * * The exercise of such taxing power by the States might be so used as to hamper and destroy the exercise of authority conferred by Congress, and this justifies the exemption.

Forty-two States are pleading that Federal authority has no right to fix intrastate rates contrary to the views of the States of the Union. The court declines to consider the wisdom and policy of tax exemption, but rests on the exercise by Congress of power within its constitutional rights. There may be differences of opinion regarding the merits of tax exemption and rate fixing, but it is hard to distinguish between the positions of the Supreme Court upholding the Federal jurisdiction in the two cases. The States could destroy the farm loan bank system by taxing the bonds, and they could imperil the railways' earnings by disorganizing the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. But the court says that they cannot do the former, just as it has repeatedly said that they cannot do the latter.

ENDURING RELIEF.

The Red Cross has announced a second contribution of $500,000 for the relief of the famine sufferers in China—a gift which, like the one previously made by this organization, is being used for a very practical sort of assistance to the afflicted provinces. Much of the Red Cross gift is being spent on the building of roads. The work is done by native labor, and the workmen are paid in food. For those who cannot work, other food supplies are of course available from the funds at the disposal of the relief workers, but this plan which the Red Cross is now working out does more than relieve the immediate need. It makes future famines less likely.

For this misfortune which has brought millions into imminent peril is in some degree due to faulty transportation. The failure of a local crop is a mishap which becomes a disaster if there is no money to buy the food which is abundant elsewhere and if the roads are so bad that transportation of that food is difficult. The first difficulty is being met by the money contributed so freely in response to the appeals of the committee in charge of the China Famine Fund—contributed not only by Americans but in less degree by other nations, with such Chinese as are able to help doing an honorable part. The Red Cross, by repairing the roads over which the grain must be transported, is making somewhat easier the work of relief and reducing in some measure the probability of a recurrence of the shortage.

Indeed, the whole enterprise of relief bears to some extent this double aspect: It meets the needs of millions of sufferers whose plight is sufficiently pitiful to stir any one's sympathy; and by healing this sick member in the great, ill-organized body of China it makes that nation stronger for the great future which lies before it. A great deal of oratory has been employed in the last year or two on the subject of American friendship for China. The reality of that friendship no one in America would seriously deny; but an opportunity is now offered to prove it, in the eyes of the Orient, by contributing something a little more tangible than oratory. Gifts should be sent to the China Famine Fund, Bible House, New York City.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Difference Easy to Explain. There could have been hardly one reader of yesterday morning's papers who did not make, as soon as he or she had finished the account of the Madison Square meeting, a mental comparison between the way in which that meeting was protected by the police—which is the same thing, of course, as saying by the Municipal Administration headed by Mayor HYLAN—and the way in which Sir PHILIP GIBBS was not protected by the same Administration when he attempted, the other day, to lecture in Carnegie Hall.

In the first case, as it was perfectly well known that the purpose of the meeting was to express the sentiments of pro-Germans and Sinn Feiners, to insult two friendly nations and to praise and give aid and comfort to a nation with which the United States is still technically at war, there was full realization on the part of the Municipal Administration that serious disorders were likely to be produced. For that reason, an enormous number of policemen were assigned to duty in and around the Garden. They did preserve order, carefully, sternly and effectively. For that they are to be commended. But no such precautions were taken in the case of Sir PHILIP GIBBS, though there was then the same certainty of disorder, and for more than two hours he and the people who wanted to hear him were subjected to the noisy abuse of persons belonging to precisely the same classes that were guarded from interruption and criticism so sedulously in the Garden while one speaker after another outraged every American sensibility, indulged in the vilest calumnies of the armies with which our own, only yesterday, fought side by side for the saving of civilization from barbarian assault, and in words hardly veiled lamented the victory of the Allies and its consequences.

None Needs Feel Real Alarm. Well calculated as is the comparison just outlined to excite indignation in every mind worthy to be called American, too much of importance should not be ascribed to the Madison Square meeting, nor should it be altogether a matter of regret that its enthusiastic attendants were allowed frankly and fully to exhibit themselves for exactly what they are. Their insolence is equaled by their stupidity. What they did in expectation of serving their hideous purpose of loosening the ties that bind the United States to Great Britain and France will have, and to a great degree, the opposite effect of drawing those ties more close.

Again, though it is lamentable that between 12,000 and 15,000 people could be attracted to the Garden by such announcements and promises as preceded this meeting, it must be remembered that they form only a minute fraction of the millions that live in and near this city. That they should believe and call themselves a majority of New York's population only shows that they have learned nothing since the days when they believed and said that they could keep the United States out of the war, and save Germany or ruin England. Theirs is an "invincible ignorance"—Sinn Feiners will recognize the phrase, however it may be with the pro-Germans—and from the habitual dwellers in what the psychologists call delusions of grandeur neither this country nor the world has anything at all serious to fear.

Unification Finally Is Effected. With the transfer of the New York Quarantine Station to the Federal Government as represented by the Public Health Service a change has been effected, or rather has been completed, that long has been advocated by all the sanitary authorities except the few whose personal interests as officeholders were affected by it adversely. And beyond any question this unifying the protection of the country from foreign infection is one that in theory is full of promise, quarantine obviously being a concern of the whole country—not of this port or of that, but of all ports at which immigrants can arrive and from which they can scatter to the interior cities. Recent happenings excuse rather than justify some apprehension as to whether, in practice, the change will prove to be an improvement. For once, and here, the local officials, State and municipal, at least seem to show more both of energy and of realization that the whole country was in danger from imported plagues than did the Federal officials here and in Washington. That, however, was due presumably only to a jealousy, too natural to be unpardonable or even surprising, between rival powers. It did not mean much and there will be no more of it. The Federal service is in the hands of recognized and competent men—men of many and brilliant achievements in the handling of just such maladies as now threaten, and they can be trusted to cooperate with all local health agencies now that the conflict of authority has disappeared.

Literature Doubly Endangered. Fear for the future of American literature still fills the minds of the members of the Authors' League. They insist anew that the magazine editors, or some of them, scorn any short story that cannot be made into a profitable movie play, and that therefore it may come to pass in time that authors, who must live—or think they must—will be able to sell only stories capable of that transmogrification.

But realization of this apprehension is contingent on the docility of the authors to a compulsion which, as artists, they should view with lofty indifference.

And is it their grievance that their stories are turned into movie plays so that the profit of the turning goes elsewhere than to themselves?

Another question arises—are they sure that, if they succeed in keeping control of the movie rights and profits, American literature will not suffer quite as much at their hands as at those of the ravening editors? Not all authors, knowing or hoping to get thousands for a movie play, instead of hundreds for a printed story, will be able to resist the temptation always to seek the larger gain.

Labor's Bill of Rights.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a humble member of the 100,000,000 unorganized Americans and others supposed to be without any "rights" whatsoever, I want to congratulate you upon your editorial on "Labor's Rights" in today's issue. The editorial is the fairest, most concise and most logical statement of the facts that I have ever seen, and were I an employer I should have it reproduced and placed before every man in my employ.

THE NIGHT ROADS.

Where run the roads at night? By day
They ramble on until,
Like dusty ribbons, silver-gray,
Down little vagrant paths that stray,
They lose themselves in winding way
Far over vale and hill?

While sunset lingers, one may see
Where straight ahead they roam—
But purple twilight, presently,
The landscape veils with mystery,
And then—toward love and family
The roads lead travelers home. . .

Shadows of evening everywhere—
The world is lost to sight—
Though friendly windows here and there,
To light the dusk their tapers share,
'Tis dark beyond the candles' flare—

THE "RHINE PROTEST" MEETING.

Some Opinions on Monday Night's Happenings Inside and Outside Madison Square Garden.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At the mass meeting held in Madison Square Garden last night the Right Rev. Patrick James Grattan Mythew is reported to have said:

"This is a significant meeting. Do you realize, those of you who are of German extraction, that if we who are of Irish extraction and you will come together in this land (loud applause), as we have a right to do, we are in the majority here and we should act as the majority should act, that we would quickly banish into the mists from whence it came this phantom of Anglo-Saxonism? It does not exist."

What say the American people as a whole to this clarion cry so openly uttered? Are they willing to intrust the destinies of our beloved land to the mob assembled last night, which lost no opportunity of hissing and booing at every mention of the name of the President of the United States; whose speakers denied that German outrages had been committed during the great World War, and, when some loyal veterans shouted "Remember the Lusitania," "Remember Edith Cavell," cries of "Lynch him, lynch him," rang throughout the audience, and these interrupters were forced to leave the hall escorted by a body of police to save them from the fury of the newly amalgamated nationalities?

Referring to the police authorities, does it not seem strange that their endeavors to prevent disturbance and interruptions at the meetings lately addressed by Sir Philip Gibbs and Major Putnam were so much inferior to the mighty efforts put forth last night in order to give the German and Sinn Fein orators every opportunity to air their eloquence in denouncing our late allies, and openly advocating a political alliance of their now separate forces, so that together they would be enabled to control the future of our country? It is quite apparent now that our politicians in pandering to these different elements in the past have been but sowing the wind. Is it not about time to wake up and endeavor to realize the danger that surrounds us before the harvest may become a whirlwind?

New York or Berlin?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last night those of us who witnessed the affair at the Garden wondered whether we were in New York City or Berlin.

In the overflow meeting several hyphenated Americans could be heard to shout, "To hell with America!" "To hell with Wilson and Harding!" &c.

Then we heard some one speak who was introduced by the name of Kelly. He told the overflow meeting that he was formerly commanding officer of a battalion of colored troops of the 314th Infantry while overseas. Then he proceeded to tell the German crowd present how little he thought of his own men.

Then we saw some of Enright's gentlemen club and knock out a young 19-year-old ex-French soldier who had lost an arm at the shoulder.

Then we heard the American Legion men present called a lot of bums by some whiskered speaker whose Americanism was very doubtful.

And when the same Legion boys stood, with bared heads, singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," a crowd of police, in charge of a Captain, swooped down on them and cracked heads right and left.

Somehow, as I stood there on my wooden leg and thought of the two years I spent in an army hospital, and of what I had gone through, I wondered whether it was all worth while—that my sacrifice was somehow overshadowed by a Mayor who permits such conditions to exist.

If these pro-Germans and pro-Irish (and they were both there last night) are going to be permitted to vent their spleen upon everything American, then God help the U. S. A.! J. E. A.

2 and 2 Make 5.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All real Americans, some of whom still believe in the possible regeneration of the Germans, must have turned in disgust and indignation from the scenes that took place yesterday in New York, the metropolis of America.

As Ambassador Jusserand so justly remarked, a few days ago, if you keep on hammering into the brains of the people that 2 and 2 make 5, finally this statement will become an axiom, and for many people 2 and 2 will make 5. This is what the Germans are trying to do as regards that fairy tale "The Horrors on the Rhine," which originated in the Bureau of Propaganda in Berlin; this is why, for several months, by means of pamphlets, in the newspapers, in public meetings "The Horrors on the Rhine" are constantly and untiringly brought before the people; this is why yesterday the von Machs, the Stiefels, &c., inside of Madison Square Garden, and dozens of German propagandists (mostly women) outside the Garden, repeated the same story over and over again, so that finally for many people "The Horrors on the Rhine," although they exist only in the brains of their originators in Berlin, will become an accomplished fact.

That France, our ally of 1776 and our ally of 1917, should be allowed to be so shamefully treated, to be openly hooted, insulted and slandered by Germans and their sympathizers under the benevolent eye of the police of this city, will be a lasting shame for New York.

The same is the case as far as the sneering and insulting of the President of the United States by a mob of enemy aliens and their friends is concerned. Whatever our party standing may be, we all are Americans first, and we should not forget one instant that until March 4 Woodrow Wilson is the Chief Magistrate of our country.

No Germans were arrested, although every act of theirs was a breach of the law; but four American Legion men were arrested by the police, and among them my son Jacques Rueff, an ex-volunteer in the United States Army and a Lieutenant in the United States Artillery Reserve, their only crime being to endeavor to uphold the dignity and the honor of the United States in face of the dishonorable and unlawful acts of the Germans and their Irish sympathizers.

CLEMENT RUEFF.

New York, March 1, 1921.

From a Disabled Veteran.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To those few remaining patriots in this city, the accounts of the German meeting last night must come as a saddening but very enlightening bit of news.

What has come over this country, including the men who fought (as they thought) for it, when our enemies can rise up and defy us right in our public square? Aided and abetted by the police, the boche has launched another attack. Are there no men here any more, much less on the police force? Two or three years ago, a blustering cop would be hailed a hero if he rapped his nightstick upon the head of any one daring to speak in a pro-German manner. Now it is the heads of the ex-soldiers he raps!

Where was the valiant Lieut. Col. A. E. Anderson, "of the 'old 69th'" that he never saw any German atrocities? I fought through the war with the Second Division, which incidentally suffered more casualties from boche fire than any other in the entire army, and I saw them, as did my comrades who were there. And they were not Lieutenant Colonels either! It is significant that neither Father Duffy nor the real fighters of the "old 69th" were patting little Jerry on the back last night!

I saw how the Germans squealed like trapped rats, begging for mercy when they faced the steel of American bayonets, I saw their work at Bois de Belleau, Soissons, St. Mihiel and the Argonne, and know what they do when they are on the winning side. All America, including some of these political officeseekers who are patting the Germans on the back now, were screaming about "the Lusitania" and "stricken Belgium." Where are they now?

It is useless to expect Hylan or any of his ilk to stop this sort of thing when he can't even attempt to handle his own job, but the duty of the American press is to speak for the American people. Place the story of last night's affair, defended by our blue-coated bullies, beside the casualty lists of three years ago, made up of khaki-clad lads and see how it looks. What do the thousands of disabled men still in the army hospitals think of a country and a city which will stand for this, with the cheers (little good these did) of the same people hardly died down?

Unless this sort of thing, this cringing of the boche, who showed no mercy when he was the winner, who perpetrated the most awful sort of atrocities, is stopped, we few remaining Americans with the spirit and ideals which made us suffer for months in hospitals will begin to believe that we were wrong, that our pain and the death of our lads was for nothing save the benefit of the munition workers and politicians.

LIMITED COLLEGES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The suggestion that the best educational institution must have a limited attendance did not first appear at Princeton. It has cropped up from time to time as institutions have expanded with our wealth and population. Sometimes it has seemed prompted by the desire to have the growing income of an institution directed toward a further embellishment of life upon the campus, or distributed more liberally among the Faculty, rather than used to benefit a larger number of students. And sometimes it has arisen from a discovery that the "personal touch" and the "dominating idealism" were declining, and a natural reaching out for some remedy.

Any concise statement of the argument for a limited attendance as a cure for these evils would be its own refutation. It would run somewhat in this wise: "The personal touch and a dominant idealism can be maintained with a body of two thousand students, but not with any larger body."

The personal touch and dominant idealism cannot be maintained among two thousand students, or among two hundred, unless the students are divided into groups, and each of these groups made the special charge of certain Faculty members. In the smaller colleges these groups are freshmen, sophomores, junior and senior classes, each of which has its "class officer" and Faculty members especially charged with the social welfare (using the term in its best and widest sense) of the class. In larger institutions classes are subdivided according to their dormitories and class sections, so that no Faculty member is responsible for five hundred students, but for those of his own class section or dormitory.

In a word, no student can get what Garfield got at Williams unless the Faculty takes its social (we used to say moral) responsibilities seriously, and divides the student body into social units. And if there is a successful handling of these social units, they can be increased indefinitely.

ART NOTES.

Cullen Yates's Paintings on View in the Arlington Gallery.

The recent paintings by Cullen Yates at the Arlington Gallery will be on view until the end of the week, and those who have not yet seen them should not miss the opportunity. Mr. Yates paints better, sees more clearly, thinks more profoundly with every year that passes over his palette. His style has deepened as well as broadened, he communicates the dignity and joyousness of the natural world.

The "Bend of the River" is perhaps his most noteworthy performance in the present exhibition, because the problems solved are so difficult. A mountainous background is seen at close range, the river winds among trees that flame with autumn foliage, there is almost no sky and yet the effect of spaciousness is given and the color is as sensitive as it is brilliant. In each of his subjects the artist has shown his love of nature and his respect for art.

Thomas Eakins and George Bellows.

At the Ferargil Galleries the paintings of Thomas Eakins and those of George Bellows are shown together. Mr. Eakins was a lover of reality, whatever reality might reveal. Therefore he was at the furthest remove from a sentimentalist. His sentiment, and there is enough in such portraits as the lovely "Clara," is pure truth. Naturally he painted well, men endowed with so much sensitiveness of mind seldom trying to do what they cannot do well. His pictures will live as long as the canvas and pigment last, and these probably will last a little longer than the canvas and pigments of the present moment.

Mr. Bellows makes a breezy companion for so serious a temperament. By the side of the "Clara" and "The Swimming Hole" his arrangements were rather obviously the aspect of schematic modernism. And he is sometimes overgenerous, giving us two or three pictures on one canvas in such compositions as the delightful veranda scene. But he also closely interrogates the real world, going further than Eakins into the special problems of the artist. His painting is far more beautiful in parts. It is a pleasure to have a chance to compare two artists of such implicit sincerity and such intellectual quality.

HOWELLS EULOGIZED AS MAN AND AUTHOR

Tribute by Kipling Stirs Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters.

TO GIVE A HOWELLS MEDAL

It Will Be Awarded Quinquennially for Best Work of American Fiction.

William Dean Howells was eulogized as a man and a writer at a meeting yesterday of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters in the Stuart Gallery of the New York Public Library, which was attended by some of the best known figures in national artistic life. Mr. Howells was President of the academy from its inception until his recent death, and the meeting was held on the eighty-fourth anniversary of his birth.

The meeting also marked the institution of a gold medal, to be known as the Howells Medal of the academy, "to commemorate the name of our great American novelist," which is to be given every fifth year in recognition of the most distinguished work of American fiction. The medal is made possible by the anonymous gift of $3,000 by an admirer of Howells and a friend of the academy to pay for preparing the medal.

Appreciations of Mr. Howells and his work were spoken by men prominent in American letters, and there were tributes to his genius from many parts of the world. John Burroughs sent a message in memory of his old "comrade," and from England came a message from Rudyard Kipling which stirred the gathering.

"It would be presumptuous for me to attempt any praise or estimate of Howells, and beyond my power to trace (what impresses one most) his pervading, if unacknowledged, influence on American letters at the present time," wrote Mr. Kipling. "This last, which is the most significant thing in connection with him, must be worked out by one of his own people, for he is peculiarly of his own people, standing, as Lowell said of the Westerner of his day squarely on his own feet, and that without looking over either shoulder.

"It is hard, in the case of most men, to reconstruct their personality after a lapse of years; but all that I saw of Howells, on the few occasions when it was my good fortune to meet him, stays with me most vividly. The essential power of the man and the craftsman, his equal gentleness, and, above all, his certainty within himself, are as present to my mind now as then, and with these I recall the slow, sideways inclination of the head, and the settling of the chin into the collar, that accompanied the even, courteous delivery of the assured words. He had the natural kindness of the good, and the utter simplicity of a great man, while, less almost than any one that I can recall was he troubled or careful for matters outside the realm of his work or thought."

"When Howells died I felt much as a soldier feels when a comrade falls by his side," wrote the venerable John Burroughs. "I look upon him as by far the best all around literary craftsman we have had in this country. If I quarrel at times with his naked realism, I am nevertheless keenly alive to his felicity and charm."

Members of the Howells family who were present were Miss Aurelia Howells, Mrs. J. A. Howells, Mr. and Mrs. John Mead Howells, Miss Mildred Howells and W. C. Howells Jr. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George Gray Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wayland Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Beach, Edwin H. Blashfield, General and Mrs. Oliver B. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Brunner and Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler.

COOLIDGE AT THE CAPITOL.

Calls on Marshall—Chats With Newspaper Men.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Vice President-elect Coolidge, who arrived last night from Northampton, visited the Capitol today, calling on Vice President Marshall in the latter's office and chatting later with newspaper men in the Senate press gallery.

Mr. Coolidge was with Mr. Marshall about five minutes. As he walked through the corridors he was greeted by several Senators.

During his talk with the newspaper men, Mr. Coolidge told them they were among the best friends of the country and the Government as well as of public men.

"I hope we are going to work together to raise the standard, if possible, of citizenship throughout this land of ours," Mr. Coolidge said.

The Vice President-elect went to Arlington Cemetery during the day and placed flowers on the grave of Representative Augustus P. Gardner of Massachusetts, his personal friend who died as a Major in the service during the World War.

Mrs. Coolidge walked through the shopping district this afternoon and made several purchases. Later she was a guest of Mrs. Marshall, wife of the Vice President, at a reception given by "The Ladies of the Senate," an organization of wives of Senators.

SHACKLETON'S ARCTIC PLANS

He Expects to Start on a Two Years' Expedition Early This Summer.

CHRISTIANIA, March 1.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, will start in May or June on a new expedition to the Arctic. He will take with him a dozen men, chiefly those who accompanied him on former expeditions, and he contemplates being away for about two years.

The Norwegian whaling boat Foca I. has been purchased in this city for the expedition, and in all probability she will first proceed to Hudson Bay, where 150 dogs will be taken on board. Thence the expedition will proceed by way of Baffin's Bay—which will be reached, it is hoped, by the end of July, provided the ice conditions are favorable—through Lancaster Sound, to Axel Heiberg's Land. From there Sir Ernest intends to explore the islands eastward to Parry Island, this being the main object of the expedition.

JERSEY BILL $15,723,795.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 1.—Carrying a total of $15,723,795 the annual appropriation bill was introduced in the Legislature today. The sum is approximately $2,500,000 greater than the appropriation for the current year and $400,000 more than the amount recommended by Governor Edwards in his budget message.

Among items responsible for the increase is one of $1,000,000 for the Department of Institutions and Agencies to inaugurate a comprehensive building program to absorb unemployment.

BALLROOM FIGHTERS CHEERED BY WOMEN

GIRLS SHOUT AND COWER

Geraldine Farrar Smiles Near Ringside—International Club's Card Proves Big Success.

Two young women in red were conspicuous at the first "ladies night" of the International Sporting Club in the ballroom of the Hotel Commodore, where a half dozen slashing bouts were staged. They sat right in front of the ring, a few seats from Geraldine Farrar.

Joe Humphreys promised them action, and action there was. It was about the middle of the fast second round in which Corporal Jack Toomey and Sailor James Brown were landing on each other with all the gentleness of enraged mules. Sailor Brown ran into a straight left from Corporal Jack that fetched him up all standing.

One of the "flappers" hitched her knees up toward her chin, stuck her fists out and, pawing the air with them, beseached Sailor Brown to "hit him, hit him, hit him back," while her little red friend looked for a moment with all the horror of a small girl whose two boy friends are settling their differences as gentlemen should and then hid her face on the shoulder of her escort.

Not so Miss Farrar, who wore red flowers in her dark hair, and a costume suggesting Carmen. She gazed with the approving eye of a connoisseur on the various bouts and smiled happily, for, be it said, there was a good sportsmanship about these army-navy battles, despite bloody noses and scarred lips, through which the panting men sometimes laughed at each other, as much as to say, "Well, hit, old top," except that they would perhaps have phrased it differently.

It was the most pretentious affair so far as dress was concerned that the club had arranged. It was specified on the cards of admission that evening dress and tuxedos were optional, but there were mighty few women there who were not dressed as if for the opera, and the array of white shirt fronts would have done credit to London bouts.

Probably 1,000 persons were seated in the big ballroom, and nearly half of them were women. Who they all were, persons who knew were somewhat chary of telling. But there was many an elderly man of rosy hued countenance who was seated beside a gray-haired woman in theatre gown, who seemed to enjoy the bouts as much as her husband.

From the time Joe Humphreys stepped out under the five big lights which lit up the front rows of men and women until rings sparkled and bracelets glittered there was action. It took less than three rounds for Private John Smith of the Sixty-third Infantry to win a decision over Anthony Albs of the Newport Training Station, and in the vicious rallies in which the two men pounded each other more than one urging them to go to it.

They roared with laughter when a reduced battle royal, a fight between two blindfolded negroes, known as Silas Green and Frankie Robinson, of the battleship Pullman, was put on, the first that has been seen in this city in many a year. The big black men mauled each other around the ring like two unwieldy elephants, shadow boxing with their backs to each other and occasionally landing a wild swing that made women rock in delight.

The distinctly feminine part of the evening came during the intermission when Humphreys announced, in the decided way that he gave vent to a decision, that in the east ballroom was a fashion display from which men were barred.

In the interval William A. Gavin, Secretary of the club, made a speech in which he said that Jay Wells had offered $150,000 toward the construction of a clubhouse if 100 life members could be secured. He asked for contributions and five men held up their hands. Then he asked for men who were willing to go out and each get one new member, and fourteen hands went up. Mr. Gavin said he was disappointed. The bricks which had been piled in the ring, each of which was to bear the name of a life member when placed around the clubhouse fireside, were withdrawn, possibly in fear that they might be used later, and the bouts went on.

LIGHTWEIGHTS HOLD INTEREST

Navy and Army Divide Honors—Three Knockouts Recorded.

The undivided interest of the men who went to the Commodore ballroom, and a major portion of the women's attention, was focused on as interesting a series of amateur bouts as has ever been held by the International Sporting Club. Fighters of Uncle Sam, representing both arms of the service, furnished bouts which excelled many professional contests witnessed since the revival of boxing under the Walker law. The ballroom resounded to the crash of gloveencased fists on flesh and bone, and the cheers of the men mingled with the impulsive shrieks of the women.

One of the best bouts of the evening came in the lightweight class for service men. The combatants were Second-class Seaman Jimmy Brown, Hampton Roads Naval Station, and Corporal Dan Toomey, a compactly built member of the First Division, U. S. A., Camp Dix. These two lads clashed at the last tournament of the I. S. C. and furnished a hurricane mill. Brown got the decision, and since that occasion Toomey has been seeking revenge. His chance came last night, but, try as he might, the sorrel-topped Brown, hairy of chest, with a cauliflowered left ear, and with his arms almost covered with tattoo, scored another victory after three sizzling rounds.

The Army vanquished the Navy in two of the three bouts which preceded this clash. All three of the bouts ended in knockouts. In the first bout scheduled for three rounds, Private John W. Smith, Sixty-third Infantry, Port Ontario, U. S. A., and Anthony Albs, Newport Naval Training Station, U. S. N., were the contestants. Smith took the first round without serious opposition, and in the second session administered such a beating to Albs that Referee Danny Sullivan stopped the contest after 1 minute 18 seconds of action, awarding the bout to Smith.

Another army triumph came in the light-heavyweight division when Sergeant James Harrison, Twenty-second Infantry, Governors Island, knocked out Albert Kemp, the navy representative, in the second round. In the heavyweight division Sailor Wallace Scripcavage annexed a victory for the navy, at the expense of Private R. N. Townsend, army heavyweight. Townsend retired in the second round.

The special heavyweight battle between Patrolman Bill Spengler of the local police force and Gordon Munce, Pastime A. C. boxer, resulted in a victory for the policeman. Spengler gained the judges' decision.

Jimmy Boyhen, Newport Naval Training Station, U. S. N., and Jack Goulding, Motor Transport Corps, U. S. A., Hoboken, were the contenders in the second bout, which was at the welterweight limit. The contest ended abruptly in the third round, after 2 minutes 42 seconds, when Referee Tommy Smith intervened to save Goulding from further punishment.

The other army victory came in the third bout, between middleweights, when Vincent Lopez, First Division, U. S. A., Camp Dix, knocked out John Petronis, Newport Naval Training Station, in the second round, after 38 seconds of milling.

The summaries:

Featherweight Class—Private John W. Smith, U. S. Army, defeated Anthony Albs, Newport Training Station, two rounds, referee's decision.

Welterweight Class—Jimmy Bozhen, U. S. Navy, defeated Jack Goulding, Motor Transport Corps, U. S. Army, Hoboken, N. J., three rounds, referee's decision.

Middleweight Class—Vincent Lopez, First Division, U. S. Army, Camp Dix, defeated John Petronis, U. S. Navy, Newport Naval Training Station, two rounds, referee's decision.

Lightweight Class—Second-Class Seaman James Brown, U. S. Navy, Hampton Roads Naval Training Station, defeated Corporal Dan Toomey, U. S. Army, First Division, Camp Dix, three rounds, judges' decision.

Light Heavyweight Class—Sergeant James Harrison, Twenty-second Infantry, U. S. A., Governors Island, defeated Sailor Albert Kemp, U. S. N., two rounds, referee's decision.

Heavyweight Class—Sailor Wallace Scripcavage, U. S. N., defeated Private R. N. Townsend, U. S. A., two rounds, referee's decision.

Heavyweight Class, Special Bout—William Spengler, New York Police Club, defeated Gordon Munce, Pastime A. C., three rounds, judges' decision.

DR. C. W. ELIOT RECALLS ANCIENTS' WET DINNERS

Annual Affair Became Boisterous and Riotous, He Tells a Legislative Committee.

BOSTON, March 1.—After remarking that it was members of the well-to-do class rather than of the laboring class who were complaining about prohibition and its enforcement, President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University told a legislative committee today of the effects of strong drink on those who took part in the annual banquets of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company before prohibition came. The organization is a veteran body with a history that runs back to pre-revolutionary days, and it includes in its membership persons prominent in the social, official and business life of New England.

"As President of Harvard," the retired educator said, "I used to be invited to the annual banquet of the Ancient and Honourables. I went occasionally. That dinner perfectly illustrated the effect of alcohol on the average human being. The dinner began quietly, but soon whisky passed freely and, worse than that, champagne. The effect produced in fifteen minutes showed that from an orderly company it became a very boisterous and riotous one—and that was in Faneuil Hall."

Dr. Eliot added: "These, gentlemen, are some of the joys that prohibition methods might repress—and that is the only kind of joy that prohibition prohibits."

He was speaking in favor of bringing State laws on the sale of intoxicating liquors into line with those of the nation.

MINIMIZES TEN-CENT FARE.

Utility Commission Says Results Would Be Disappointing in Ithaca.

ALBANY, March 1.—Experience even in large cities has not been such as to "indicate any magic in the ten-cent fare as a solution of the traction problem," Frank Irvine of the Public Service Commission, Second District, said today. The statement appeared in a memorandum relating to granting to the Ithaca Traction Company an eight-cent fare in place of seven on its lines in Ithaca, Cayuga and the Town of Ithaca, with the exception of the East Ithaca line.

"We prefer to grant only what is imperatively required," Commissioner Irvine added, "leaving to the courts, if called upon, to determine whether the choice between two rates, neither promising an adequate return, rests solely with the Directors of corporations, or whether, on the other hand, the commission has a responsibility in aiding to solve the problem."

The commission, said the memorandum, is of the opinion that the results of a ten-cent fare in Ithaca would disappoint the expectations of the company.

"The citizen who contributes $10,000 or more becomes a founder of the Town Hall, and his name will be permanently preserved in the history of New York," said Mr. Taft. "It is planned to inscribe the founders' names on a bronze tablet of beautiful design, to be placed on the mezzanine floor, or, if the donor prefers, his name may be inscribed on a bronze plate and affixed to a loge."

Other members of the campaign committee are Elgin R. L. Gould, Vice Chairman, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, George W. Wickersham, Mrs. E. Henry Harriman, Frank A. Vanderlip, Otto H. Kahn, Henry Morgenthau, Morgan J. O'Brien, Robert E. Simon, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn and Adolph Lewisohn.

STUDENTS' GAMES IN ROME.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Feb. 28.—Students of art academies in Rome, such as the American, French, British and Spanish, have this year in their leisure hours made determined efforts to meet and know one another better. Those who, of course, get on best together are the Americans and British, because of the community of language. A tennis tournament was organized between the students of these nationalities, and the Americans won every match.

Professor Gorham Stevens, Director of the American Academy, who is a tennis enthusiast, recently suffered a painful mishap, tripping over one of the tapes of the court and breaking his left forearm. This, with additional fractures of the wrist, kept him out of the tournament and will bar him from his favorite game for another month or more.

Professor Kelsey, head of the Latin department of the University of Michigan, former President of the Archaeological Institute of America, is at present occupied in completing important work at Pompeii.

WHITE TUXEDO THE LATEST.

But Custom Cutters Say the New Styles Will Not Be 'Freak Garments'

A white tuxedo was the principal exhibit of interest when mannikins illustrating what are intended to be the latest styles paraded past members of the New York Custom Cutters' Club at their dinner in the Hotel Commodore last night. The white tuxedo was conceived "so that the fanciful ideas of the younger generation may have full swing in natty array."

In the club's own description of the affair it was said that the "classy dresser" would be induced to adopt that garment, but that the cutters would "frown upon all forms of radical freak garments." Moreover, there would be this season "a preponderance of blues and grays in color, although the sporting suits will be just as cheery and loud as in former years."

For the business man a "utility" suit was displayed "that will allow him, when working around his auto, to roll up his sleeves without taking off his coat, by means of a slashed effect with buttons."

ASKS WILSON TO VETO BILL.

Inter-Racial Council Calls Immigration Limitation Inhumanitarian.

President Wilson was asked by the Inter-Racial Council last night to veto the Dillingham bill passed by both houses of Congress, which would limit immigration after April 1 to 3 per cent. of the foreign born who were in this country when the 1910 census was taken. The council set forth that the bill:

"Adopts an inhumanitarian policy which is contrary to America's traditional attitude of asylum and opportunity.

"Is inconsistent with the policy of international co-operation and understanding developed by the present Administration.

"Will stimulate our foreign born residents to return to their native countries.

"Will permit very few new aliens to be admitted to the United States.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—New York women, unlike their sisters of Ohio, can get along without "ankle curtains" if they sit in jury boxes, legislators were told today when they gave a hearing on the Donohue bill giving women equal rights with men as jurors.

"In Ohio they have ankle curtains around the jury boxes," said Miss Mary Wood of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. "We do not care for that curtain in New York."

ARTIST ONLY FRIEND OF ISADORA DUNCAN

Wife of Edouard Steichen Denies Improper Relations Between Painter and Dancer.

SHE IS SUING FOR $200,000

Miss Marian H. Beckett, the Defendant, Also Insists Her Conduct Was Blameless.

Isadora Duncan, the dancer, was named yesterday in the $200,000 alienation suit of Mrs. Clara S. Steichen, wife of Edouard Steichen, an artist, against Miss Marian H. Beckett, artist and daughter of the late Surrogate Charles H. Beckett. Mrs. Steichen was cross-examined by Herbert C. Smyth, attorney for Miss Beckett.

Mr. Smyth read letters written by Mrs. Steichen to Miss Beckett referring to "Duncan," and "Duncan the dancer," and asked the plaintiff if she believed that there had been improper relations between her husband and Miss Duncan. She replied that she was "certain" there never were improper relations between them.

Mrs. Steichen said that her husband had reassured her on that point. She also said that "he associated with her as photographer and an artist. He admired her and was in and out of her studio, but I do not think matters went further."

"Didn't you ask him, 'Why join the bread line of Isadora Duncan?'"

"So I did," replied Mrs. Steichen. "Why associate with such a woman?"

The attorney asked her if in 1915 she had not "compared the simple beauty of the Steichen home at Voulangis, France, with the personal charms of Isadora Duncan," and Mrs. Steichen replied, "I refuse to admit that I ever compared my beautiful home with Isadora Duncan."

Mrs. Steichen said that her husband had been promoted to a Colonelcy in the army for his work in airplane photography, but charged that he "left her standing on the corner in Madison Avenue with a sick baby at 9 o'clock at night."

Miss Beckett denied improper conduct with the artist when she was called to the witness stand. She said that she never went into a dark room with him except to develop photographs and that they remained there not more than fifteen minutes. She insisted that whenever she posed for the artist she was properly clothed. She said that the plaintiff often had complained of her husband's fondness for other women.

"She said she was very unhappy and began to talk about Miss Duncan and declared she was going to drown herself," said the defendant. "I thought she must have some physical ailment and advised her to see a doctor."

Miss Beckett said that after she became aware of Mrs. Steichen's jealousy toward her that she met the husband only three times. During the period when she was doing Red Cross work in France he passed through the sector in which her refreshment hut was located. She saw him only a few minutes then, and never alone, she said. The trial will be continued today.

MONTENEGRIN KING IS DEAD IN FRANCE

Nicholas Had Been in Exile Since 1918, When Subjects Rejected Him.

ANTIBES, France, March 1.—King Nicholas of Montenegro died here today.

The Queen of Italy, daughter of Nicholas, has been advised of the death of her father, and she and King Victor Emmanuel are expected to come here for the funeral. The date of the funeral, however, has not yet been fixed.

Nicholas I. of Montenegro was born in 1841. He was proclaimed Prince of Montenegro as successor to his uncle, Danielo I., in 1860, and assumed the title of King under a resolution passed unanimously by the national Skupshtina in 1910, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his accession.

Nicholas throughout his trials always asserted his right to govern his people. It was said he had refused to accept an annuity of $500,000 in exchange for his abdication.

Soon after the accession of Nicholas an insurrection broke out in Herzegovina, and the sympathy which the mountaineers displayed for their Christian kinsmen led to the country's rupture with Turkey. The war resulted disastrously for Nicholas, and severe terms were imposed upon the principality by the Convention of Scutari.

In 1876 Prince Nicholas formed an alliance with Prince Milan of Serbia and declared war against Turkey. He led his army into Herzegovina and attacked Metun. In the following year, when Russia decided to make war against Turkey, Nicholas renewed his hostilities against the Ottomans. His troops captured Nikshitoh, Antivari and Dulcigno, and also recovered the seaboard which had belonged to Montenegro during the Middle Ages.

He was 83 years old. Mr. Perry was born in Hoboken, N. J., and was graduated sixty years ago from New Brunswick College, now Rutgers. He studied law and for a time engaged in practice, but this he gave up and devoted his time to study of languages. "Wilson's Place in History"
By General Jan Christian Smuts
Premier of the Union of South Africa
Colleague of President Wilson in the Peace Conference
In the New York Evening Post
Today, March 2

General Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, more than any single individual was responsible for the League of Nations plan incorporated into the Treaty of Versailles. By intimate contact with President Wilson through those world important weeks when the Treaty was framed he formed his judgment of our American President.

The opinion of no man on President Wilson's place in history could be more interesting. General Smuts has written this article for the New York Evening Post, but accompanies it with the following remarkable letter:

PRIME MINISTER'S OFFICE,
Pretoria, 4 January, 1921.

Mr. Edwin F. Gay, President,
New York Evening Post.

Dear Mr. Gay:

I gladly comply with your request for an article on President Wilson's work. I ask nothing for it; it is a labor of love. Wilson broke himself in great public service and deserves whatever recognition we can give him.

Only one thing I would ask you. I should like to give the widest possible publicity to my statement. Could you not manage to communicate it to other organs for simultaneous publication? No copyright should be claimed. It is a word spoken for Wilson at a time when most have fallen away from him, and it should reach as many in America as possible.

With kind regards, yours sincerely,

J C Smuts.

In compliance with General Smuts's request, the Evening Post has sent copies of the article to a large number of newspapers for simultaneous publication in other cities. It will appear in the Evening Post today, March 2.

This article by General Smuts is typical of many solidly interesting articles by local, national, or world authorities that appear with consistent regularity in the New York Evening Post. They are one of the features of the Post that have made it a journal for leaders of public thought.

BAKER WILL JOIN YANKS NEXT WEEK

SHAWKEY SIGNS CONTRACT

Quinn, Ward and Pipp Also In Line, and Schang Enters the Fold After Satisfactory Conference.

John Franklin Baker, the recognized king of swat until Babe Ruth flashed across the baseball horizon, is once more definitely in the fold of the Yankees. The big third baseman, who was in retirement last season following the death of his wife, yesterday gave an affirmative answer to the question of whether he would play ball this season and reported that he was ready to start for Shreveport early next week, as soon as he could get some of his personal affairs into shape.

At the same time, Business Manager Edward Barrow announced that four other athletes had reached satisfactory terms with the management of the club and would be ready to leave for the training camp on Friday. These were Bob Shawkey, star of the pitching staff; Wallie Schang, the catcher, who had announced himself as a hold-out; Pitcher Jack Quinn and Infielder Aaron Ward. Word was also received from Grand Rapids, Mich., that the signed contract of Walter Pipp was on the way to the New York offices and that the tall first baseman was prepared to leave for the South on Sunday.

Advices from Shreveport yesterday said that Quinn had reported to Manager Huggins, ready for duty. The spitballer's appearance there was, apparently, coincidental with the arrival of his contract here.

Thus the cares and tribulations of the Yankees have dwindled to next to nothing. Bob Shawkey was not in any sense a hold-out and no trouble was experienced with him on his contract. He came over from Philadelphia and had a confidential talk with Colonel Huston and Barrow as to a clear interpretation of some of the provisions of his contract and left satisfied with everything. He has been active all Winter and anticipates little trouble in getting into condition.

Schang found that it took but a few minutes to iron out the differences that existed in his case and he was sent away smiling, along with Shawkey. Jack Quinn's contract arrived rather delayed and Ward's contract, which he signed at his home a few days ago, was received in the mail.

The return of Frank Baker was hailed jubilantly by the Yankee management. One of the finest characters in the game as well as one of its best sluggers, he is expected to add considerably to an already healthy punch in the batting order. At the same time, Manager Huggins will be relieved of any concern about the third corner and will be able to make shifts in his infield that were not possible otherwise.

Baker had a long talk with Colonel Huston in Maryland a few days ago, at which time he agreed to give a definite decision this week. He wanted to come back to baseball, but wanted first to get his affairs into shape. Though he has been out of baseball for a year, he is a man who takes such excellent care of himself that he should find little trouble in getting back into his stride.

While Baker has not yet signed his contract he has agreed to terms, and the signing, which will take place at Shreveport, is only a formality.

WILL SIGN FOR ONE YEAR.

Baker Announces That He Is Ready to Accept Yankee Contract.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Md., March 1.—John Franklin Baker of Trappe, while in Easton today, stated that he would again play professional baseball this year, and that he would sign the contract offered him by the New York American League team to cover third base for them this season. The contract is for one year, Baker said.

Baker, who is in the pink of condition, could start playing good ball now, as he has never lost any of his old-time vigor and enthusiasm. Last year he kept in practice by playing ball with independent clubs, and this Winter he has kept in training, especially with his eyes, shooting wild ducks, and is considered one of the best wing shots in Albot County.

Baker said he would go to New York first and then leave for Shreveport, La., to join his team for practice preparatory to the opening of the baseball season. He will be accompanied to New York by his sister, Mrs. Eugene Slaughter, and Mrs. Edith Terrell, his housekeeper, and his two little girls. His sister and daughters will accompany him on his training trip South. On their return to New York Mrs. Terrell and his children will make their home in New York during the Summer.

ST. LOUIS TEAMS AT WORK.

Cardinals and Browns Unlimber in Southern Training Camps.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 1.—Both St. Louis clubs were getting down to intensive training today, according to dispatches from the camps at Bogalusa, La., and Orange, Texas, where the Browns and Cardinals, respectively, are preparing for the campaign.

Manager Fohl had all but three members of his club on hand—Sisler, Williams and Palmero. The latter pair are both en route and Sisler will report in the next few days.

George Torrorcher, a second baseman, who wears spectacles, drew favorable comment on his initial work-out with the Cardinals yesterday.

WHITE SOX CLAN GATHERS.

Comiskey's Shattered Forces Get Ready for Training Trip.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Members of the Chicago White Sox team began to arrive here today, in preparation for the trip Friday to the Spring training camp at Waxahachie, Texas. The first of the players to report was George Lees, a catcher from Bethlehem, Pa. Manager "Kid" Gleason is due tomorrow from his home in Philadelphia, and will take twenty-three players South with him. Several of the others will go direct from their homes, and Dick Kerr, one of the leading Sox pitchers, now holding out, is expected to run over from his home, at Paris, Texas, and discuss terms.

ASKS WAIVERS ON KOPF.

Cincinnati Would Part With Player Who Is Holding Out.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 1.—Waivers have been asked for on Larry Kopf by the Cincinnati National League baseball club, it was announced here tonight. Kopf is a hold-out, and to the request for waivers was appended a note stating the amount of his salary and the amount demanded by him.

Four A. A. Umpires Signed.

CHICAGO, March 1.—President Hickey of the American Association announced today that four of his staff of eight umpires had been signed for the coming season. They are F. R. Connolly, who has officiated in the American Association for ten years; Cornelius Daly, another veteran; George H. Johnson and W. P. Shannon.

Newark Still Hopes to Have Team in International League

The Newark Baseball Club still has a hope, though a small one, of gaining entrance into the International League. John Conway Toole, President of the league, said yesterday that, at the meeting of the Directors tomorrow at the Hotel Commodore, starting at 11 A. M., the recent sale of the Akron, Ohio, franchise to Montreal would be brought up for discussion. Newark will claim a hearing at the meeting. The Directors will discuss the revision of the schedule, which has been held up awaiting the outcome of the meeting.

M'MILLAN IS STAR OF YANKS' PRACTICE

Young Shortstop Drives Ball Over Fence Three Times—Aulbach Promising Southpaw.

Special to The New York Times.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 1.—The Yankee Juveniles, getting in some good preliminary work here before the regulars arrive next Sunday, have reached the stage where each player feels that he is one huge bruise from head to heel. Two more very active workouts were indulged in today at Gasser Park, the home of the local Texas Leaguers, and tonight Huggins's kindergarten is feeling the usual effects of the activity after months of less strenuous living.

The fireworks in each of today's sessions by the youngsters were furnished by Norman McMillan, a shortstop, who came into the possession of the Yankees from the Greenville Club of the South Atlantic League. Several clubs made big bids last Summer for this twenty-year-old player, and today he showed Huggins why so much attention had been accorded him. McMillan's notable feats today were in the form of clouts over the fence, two in left centre field and one in left, not far from the foul line. To hit the fence on a bound is something of a feat, and McMillan went well beyond that.

With the pitchers unable to put anything on the ball little attention is paid ordinarily to the drives which fly from the bats of the various rookies who have yet to show their skill with the stick. But the distance to be covered in hitting over the fence at any section of the Shreveport Park stamps the manufacturer of the over-the-wall wallop as something of a sticker. Three such pokes in a single day earned this youngster, who has played only one full season in professional ball, no little consideration. His drives to left centre were tremendous thumps.

Finds Promising Southpaw.

In his quest for southpaws, an important department that is lacking in numbers as far as the Yankee pitching staff is concerned, Huggins today found some cause for encouragement. Jim Aulbach, a Louisville youngster, took his turn on the mound during the batting drill, and it was not long before Huggins and Connery were giving him all their attention. From all appearances Aulbach had been taking some exercise before reporting here, and he was able to cut loose with enough speed to surprise his new boss.

Tonight both Huggins and his kitchen cabinet were sounding the praises of this southpaw. It is too early for any player to show to real advantage, but it is not too early to create a favorable impression, and Aulbach certainly has started in the proper manner.

Two of the rookies were on the side lines this afternoon, while the other players went through their paces. Pitcher Lepard and Catcher Devormer turned their ankles during the morning practice and neither got into uniform this afternoon. The injury in each instance was slight, and Huggins expec that both will be able to take part in the drills tomorrow.

The squad is still shy on infield talent, but that does not prevent the formations of inner quartets during the practice sessions. The youngsters put on some flashy work both morning and afternoon, though in each instance McMillan was the only player working in a familiar position. Long batting drills followed the fielding practice at each session.

Connelly Gets Attention.

Huggins gave Tom Connelly, the outfielder from Tulsa, a lot of attention during the batting drill, and he also held a special class for the big fellow in a distant corner of the meadow. Connelly seems much more at home in the outfield than as a hitter. He bears a striking resemblance to George Burns of the Cleveland Club.

Catcher Fred Hoffman arrived here from St. Louis. He was accompanied by John Thole, a semi-pro catcher from St. Louis. Outfielder Christensen and Pitcher Jack Quinn also reported to Huggins here tonight, as did Ledbetter, a pitcher who was with Greenville of the South Atlantic League for a short time last season. Ledbetter's appearance was something of a surprise, as his name had not appeared on the list of players slated to work out in Shreveport. He made a request to be tried out and it was granted since the other players departed from New York.

With Baker, Schang and Shawkey in line, the Yankee hold-outs are reduced to three men—Roger Peckinpaugh, Bob Meusel and Rip Collins. All three are carrying on negotiations with the New York owners, and Huggins expects that all will be in camp early next week.

Outfielder Hawks, Infielder Johnny Mitchell and Pitcher Billy Piercy are the members of the first squad who are still to report here. All are supposed to be on their way from California, where they make their homes during the off season.

INDIANS START TRAINING.

Speaker, Three Catchers and Ten Pitchers Form First Squad.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 1.—Manager Tris Speaker, three catchers and ten pitchers of the Cleveland Indians held their first Spring workout today at Dallas, according to advices reaching here. Only one practice will be held daily.

Guy Morton was the first to reach Dallas. He was followed by Speaker, who arrived shortly before Pitchers Coveleski, Uhle, Caldwell, Clark, Pott and Odenwald; Catchers O'Neill, Nunamaker and Gillis, the latter a recruit from Boston; Trainer Percy Smallwood and Coach McCallister.

With the exception of Nunamaker, Speaker and Odenwald, who are over weight, the squad is in fair shape.

BASEBALL PRACTICE HALTED

Columbia Postpones Work Because of Death of Coach's Daughter.

Columbia's baseball activities have ceased for the time being because of the death on Sunday night of the young daughter of Andy Coakley, the Blue and White coach and former Athletics' pitcher. The battery workouts have been stopped and a baseball smoker and rally scheduled for tonight has been called off. Plans for first practice for the main squad tomorrow afternoon have also been abandoned. Coach Coakley's daughter, who was aged 10, had been only slightly indisposed for some time, but she became worse on Friday and died on Sunday night from a complication of ailments.

GIANTS ARE PRIMED FOR FIRST WORKOUT

Will Start Ironing Out Kinks in Their Muscles at San Antonio Today.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 1.—The Sunshine Special deposited its precious burden of Giants and perhaps Giants in this city of the Alamo at a few minutes before midnight tonight. The train was about three-quarters of an hour late, the delay being caused by the necessity of summoning the engineer from his cab during the day to help restrain two or three of the newspaper correspondents who wanted to get off and pluck peach and apple blossoms from the trackside.

Nobody blames them much. It is highly exhilarating to be swept from early March into June overnight. Books and magazines were cast aside and baseball chatter was silenced as the train rolled both forward and sideways over the uneven roadbed down through the heart of the Lone Star State. Faces were pressed against the pane, like little Mabel's, and eyes feasted upon the green of trees and turf and the white and pink and purple of flowers. Burros and baled cotton and gingham-gowned planters of garden truck in cottage yards further testified to the fact that, although this might be Winter, it was also Texas, and the latter took the sting from the former.

There was an arrival in the early morning in the person of Shufflin' Phil Douglas, the well-known and highly respected twirler. Douglas journeyed from Memphis to Texarkana, boarding the train at the latter point, where Arkansas and Texas meet and join palms and match statutes. The sport of matching statute laws is popular with the States of this region. Most of these little newborn laws are aimed at travelers on trains. For instance, in one Southern Commonwealth the appearance of a deck of cards is construed as evidence of criminality and brings a severe warning from a passing conductor or brakeman. In another, your bottle of hair tonic will undergo the humiliation of bing sniffed at for possible alcoholic content before you will be allowed to apply it to your bald spot.

The addition of Shufflin' Phil brought the number of ball players in the expedition up to eleven. The others who boarded the train at New York or St. Louis were Frisch, Gaston, Kane, Howard, Burkett, Grody, Heline, Grimes, King, Spencer and Brown.

Owing, doubtless, to the lateness of the hour of arrival, there was no surging mob to welcome the arriving athletes. There was not even a parade or a fife and drum corps. They got the freedom of the city, however, as far as the Hotel Menger, where they found that their previously arrived comrades had so far observed the training rules as to be already locked in slumber. It took only about fifteen minutes on the average for the members of the incoming party to follow the laudable example set for them, for the day's ride, although enjoyable, had been long and wearisome. They needed rest because they will have to get down to business tomorrow morning.

The men will board buses midway between breakfast and lunch and invade the San Antonio ball park, where they will spend the first session in testing their muscles for suppleness.

Manager McGraw with his traveling companions from Havana, Burns and Gonzales, is expected to arrive here some time during the day, although he may not be on hand for the opening practice. Hughey Jennings is to be here though, and there will be no lack of careful supervision of the initial workout.

N. Y. U. BASEBALL MEN OUT.

Likely Squad Reports to Coach Krichell for First Practice.

Forty candidates reported yesterday to Paul Krichel, the Yankee scout, who is coaching the New York University baseball team, for the first practice of the season. The New Yorkers are using the Second Field Artillery Armory.

Coach Krichel wasted no time in getting his men started, and had the battery candidates warming up most of the afternoon, while the other men spent their time catching and fielding ground balls.

The battery candidates look very promising. Captain Delaney, the leading pitcher of the nine, was not out, as he is busy with the basketball team. Nelson and Platt, twirlers of last year's nine, were on hand, and seem to be in good shape. Hirshfield and Robertson, pitchers on the freshman team, will be available as soon as Robertson is through with the basketball team.

The receiving end is not so well fortified. Draffen, last year's star, is unable to play, due to a hard schedule of studies. Cohen, a substitute last year, is out, as is Shehee of the freshman team and Goeller, a promising candidate.

Practically the whole varsity infield from last year is back, but it is probable that Krichel will make some shifts. Holman, Liss, Kram and Ferguson are the veterans trying for these places, while Bacile, Flynn and Burns of the freshman team are out. The outfield candidates from last year are Daily and Brown.

CRESCENTS WIN THIRTIETH.

Defeat St. Francis College Quintet in Well-Played Game, 38 to 23.

The Crescent A. C. basketball team, playing on its own court, won its thirtieth straight victory of the season last night when it defeated the St. Francis College five, 38 to 23. The game was well played throughout, but the superiority of the Crescent five was apparent from the beginning, and they took the lead shortly after the game started, never to be headed. At half time they led 20 to 17.

There was no individual star on the Crescent team, but the passing and goal shooting of the whole team was exceptionally brilliant. Parmele scored the most points for the victors, while Keating was high man for St. Francis.

The line-up:

CRESCENT A.C. (38).		ST. FRANCIS (23).
Kinney	L. F.	Keating
McTigue	C.	Lynch
Griffin	R. G.	Morgan
Simms	L. G.	Toohy

Goals from floor—Parmele (4), Kinney (2), McTigue (2), Griffin (4), Simms, Steward (3), Standard, Moran (2), Keating (3), Lynch (2), Toohey. Goals from foul—Parmele (3), Moran (2), Keating (5).

Substitutions—Crescent A. C.: Steward for Kinney, Stannard for Simms.

Referee—Ed Thorp, De La Salle. Time of halves—20 minutes.

TO DECIDE CITY TITLE.

N. Y. U. and C. C. N. Y. Fives Clash in Season's Climax Tonight.

New York University's basketball team will clash with the City College five tonight in their annual game on the Twenty-second Regiment Armory court. These two local institutions have become great rivals in the court game and a spirited contest is sure to result. The contest will have a direct bearing on the metropolitan championship.

The N. Y. U. quintet is the favorite in this contest. Penn is the only team to score a victory over the Violet, which has been going well during the last few games.

Tonight will finish the season for the two teams. It is improbable that the N. Y. U. team will defend its national title on account of the long trip.

KENTUCKY FIVE IS WINNER.

Defeats Georgia University 20 to 19 for Southern Championship.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—The University of Kentucky won the 1921 basketball championship tournament of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association here tonight by defeating Georgia University in the finals, 20 to 19. The Kentuckians won by making a goal from foul just as the game ended.

President-Elect's Warning Has Noted Golf Pro Worried

Freddie McLeod, the noted pro of the Columbia Country Club, Chevy Chase, Md., which will be the scene of the open championship this year, is in a quandary. Freddie is sojourning in the South this Winter, along with many other brothers of the mashie, and it was his fortune to be a member of a foursome in which President-elect Harding was one of the players. When McLeod was introduced to Mr. Harding the latter said, "Oho! So you're the fellow that's giving lessons to Mr. So-and-So (naming a Columbia Club player who has announced his intention of taking the new President into camp.)" "Yes, sir," meekly replied McLeod. "Well, in the event of my defeat when this match is played, you are going to be banished to Russia," threatened Mr. Harding. McLeod now doesn't know whether to discard his pupil altogether or to try and convince him that a slice is really a wonderful golfing attainment.

TENNIS STARS WIN EASILY IN FLORIDA

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—Ichiya Kumagae and Richard Norris Williams 2d advanced easily through the second and third rounds of the men's singles State championship play today. Neither was forced to extend himself. Kumagae's speed in covering the court enabled him to handle practically any shot that his opponents returned to him.

Dr. William Rosenbaum also went readily through the second round. The one upset came when Jarvis Adams put out Manfred Goldman, 6-4, 6-1. Goldman had been playing splendid tennis, but apparently struck a slump today. Kumagae and Edwin F. Torrey won their match in the doubles.

The summaries:

Championship Singles, Second Round—S. W. Merrihew won from L. J. McCormick by default; Ichiya Kumagae defeated W. Waller Jr., 6—0, 6—1; Durand Smith defeated H. B. Chase, 6—1, 6—2; G. C. Myers won from H. W. Wilson by default; Richard Norris Williams 2d defeated R. B. Weeden, 6—3, 6—1; Manfred Goldman won from John S. Nicholl by default.

Third Round—Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated S. W. Merrihew, 6—2, 6—1; Ichiya Kumagae defeated Durand Smith, 6—2, 6—1; R. N. Williams 2d defeated G. C. Myers, 6—2, 6—1; S. Jarvis Adams defeated Manfred Goldman, 6—4, 6—1.

Championship Doubles, First Round—Ichiya Kumagae and Edwin F. Torrey defeated Durand Smith and H. D. Carpenter, 6—3, 6—4; Malcolm G. Chace and John S. Phipps defeated F. V. Jackson and H. P. Homans, 2—6, 6—2, 6—1; Cortlandt D. Barnes and George L. Wrenn Jr. defeated Manfred Goldman and H. B. Chase, 6—3, 6—4.

Second Round—Paul and Searle Barrett won from G. Sulzberger and Alfred Kaye by default.

DR. BUTLER URGES DRIVE.

Stadium on Hudson Needed by Columbia and City, He Says.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia yesterday entered the agitation for a stadium on Morningside Heights by writing a letter to The Spectator urging a quick beginning of the movement to raise the necessary funds—about $2,000,000—for the athletic arena. In his communication Dr. Butler expresses gratitude that The Spectator, the university newspaper, has come to the support of his own recommendations on the subject.

The letter follows:

"I rejoice that The Spectator is supporting with vigor and enthusiasm the movement to carry to quick completion the project for a stadium. This is the first time since the plan was first presented to the public in my annual report for 1906 that any definite and organized support has been given to it. Since that time I have urged the project in numerous annual reports, in innumerable public addresses and interviews, and in every other practicable fashion. From the first the plan has had the kind words of everybody, but kind words alone will not build the stadium. I have been assured that a serious beginning can be made with but a portion of the amount of money that will ultimately be needed.

"For the city such a staduim as we have planned has become a necessity, while for Columbia it will be a powerful support to that undergraduate life and undergraduate spirit the fostering of which is one of our chief concerns."

Friends' Seminary Five Wins.

Friends' Seminary basketball quintet defeated the Hoboken Academy five in a fast game yesterday on the former's court, by 28 to 12. The Friends team led in scoring throughout, excelling Hoboken in both team work and individual play. At the end of the first half the ultimate winners were leading by 16 to 8.

SCHAEFER RALLIES AGAINST HOREMANS

But Foreign Cue Star Still Leads at End of Second Day, 1,600 to 1,320.

After the most sensational day of billiards he has experienced in any American contest, Edouard Horemans, the Belgian cue wizard, again defeated Jacob Schaefer yesterday in both blocks of their 4,800 point 18.2 balkline match at Daly's academy. But for the first time the Belgian was really defeated on the total of the day's play, Schaefer scoring 826 points during the two blocks of 400 against 800 points for Horemans. The total score at the end of the evening match was 1,600 for Horemans and 1,320 for Schaefer. Only the long lead that Horemans had rolled up on the first day prevented Schaefer from going to the front in the match.

Schaefer played better billiards than he has displayed in many weeks and Horemans only managed to defeat the young Western player by making a run of 152 in the closing inning of the evening session. The crowd was brought to its feet by several daring shots the Belgian executed during his final run, each time it appearing that he would end his run. When he finally clicked off the 400th point and brought his total up to 1,600, the crowd gave him an ovation for his plucky exhibition.

New Experience for Horemans.

At no time since Horemans has been in this country has he met with such strong opposition as he encountered in the afternoon session. For the first time he saw an opponent steal away from him, lead him by a considerable margin and threaten to take a block of a match. It was something new for the Belgian and it was something new for the billiard enthusiasts who had become used to seeing the European outclass all opposition. But as Horemans came up for the fifth frame he was lagging 200 points behind Schaefer and had been outplayed throughout.

Schaefer, on the other hand, was at his very best and through two long runs, which gave him his long lead, he played billiards that reminded the old-timers of his famous daddy. He gathered the balls together, held them under almost perfect control, and, finally, on one occasion when they got away from him, he gathered them again with four difficult open-table shots, two of which were of the three-cushion variety.

Schaefer started with a run of 188, which was a new high run mark, this following 19 made by Horemans in continuation of his run of the night before. It was during this run of 188 that the young Western player showed his best game. More than sixty points were scored while the balls nestled at the lower end of the table, and for most of the time "under the hat," as the players say when they are close together. Seldom did he have to make a long drive. But after he had crossed the 100 mark he lost the balls temporarily, and it was then that he brought the house down with the four difficult shots with which he brought them together again. He finally missed on a hard draw shot.

Schaefer followed this with a run of 85 after Horemans had had a brief session, and at the close of the fifth frame Schaefer had a total of 327 points.

A Severe Test.

Horemans had gathered but 127 points in all this time and it seemed that he could not possibly make up the difference in such a short block. It was certainly a test for the Belgian and one as he might have to make if matched that would show clearly how he could fight in an uphill battle, such a battle with Hoppe.

There was a stillness as he stepped up for his turn at the table. But he proceeded as coolly as though he had a safe lead. He gathered the balls together in the centre of the table and finally, getting into good stroke, began to click off points with almost monotonous regularity. He crossed the 100 mark without having had many difficult shots and only on rare occasions got into the balkline spaces.

When the Belgian went over the 200 mark and tied Schaefer there was a tumult of applause from the spectators. He had made a game and plucky fight and, throughout it all, he had never once shown concern for his position in the contest. He played just as freely and as easily coming from behind as he had so frequently done when leading.

The Belgian continued his run to 223 points when the balls got away from him and he was forced to make a two-cushion shot. He missed it and Schaefer came up again with his last chance to go out. The Westerner made a run of 60 points and was withing 13 points of his goal when the balls got into a position where he had either to make a massé shot or try a follow shot. He chose the latter and missed, the cue ball jamming against the first object ball and rolling off to one side.

Horemans did not have a smile on his face but he appeared to breathe easily when he saw Schaefer miss the shot. The Belgian then gathered the balls quickly and clicked off 50 points which put him out with a final score for the block of 400 to 387.

The score by innings:

AHEARN IN TIE FOR FIRST.

Defeat of Mills Necessitates Play-Off for Amateur Cue Title.

By defeating John Mills, 100 to 73, in the New York State pocket billiards amateur championship tourney at the Rational Recreation Academy, Brooklyn, last night, J. J. Ahearn went into a tie with Eddie Raynolds, the present titleholder, for first place.

Mills was slightly off his game last night, while Ahern played the best billiards he has shown during the tourney, and his form earned him many supporters in the play-off, which will be held tomorrow afternoon. Ahern had a high run of 16, while Mills's best run was one of 12.

With the regular play of the tourney at an end, Mills and John Ranauld are tied for third place, and will meet in the play-off tonight.

SPAETH DENIES RUMOR.

Insists Princeton Will Meet Navy and Harvard in May Regatta.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 1.—A denial was made here today by Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, Princeton's Director of Rowing, that the Navy and Harvard had cancelled their engagement to meet the Tigers in a triangular regatta on May 7, this Spring. Both Dr. Spaeth and Manager Arnold Wood stated positively that the Princeton athletic authorities had had no notice of cancellation from either the Navy or the Crimson.

This meeting of the three crews promises to be one of the rowing treats of the year, and is in addition the only regatta planned for Lake Carnegie in May.

GMC

General Motors Trucks

A GMC user said last week, "It will be five years in August since we put our GMC to work and I'd certainly hate to give it up. It has made 60 miles a day—and does it every day. We have never had any trouble with it."

Five years old and still young. That is why GMC trucks are economical—why the first cost is of little importance. It is the ability to perform year after year at a low maintenance cost that counts.

CAMPBELL CAPTURES SAMACLAR FEATURE

Yale Man Wins 1,000-Yard Run in Fast Time by Two Yards From Leslie and O'Brien.

ABROMET FIRST IN JUMP

Unattached Athlete Takes Metropolitan Title—Wefers Is Victor in 300-Yard Special.

Long Tom Campbell of Yale again demonstrated the usefulness of a long stride in running a race. Campbell captured the 1,000-yard invitation scratch race at the Samaclar Athletic Association's fifth annual indoor meet, held last night at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory. Hal Cutbill, the Boston A. A. flying parson, and Joie Ray, the Illinois A. C. speed manufacturer, were both absent when the starter's pistol was fired.

Campbell, however, did not lack for competition. He had against him Sid Leslie, unattached, T. J. O'Brien of Yale and the formidable New York Athletic Club's star, Jack Sellers. O'Brien started out to make the pace, and it was a hot one. Campbell kept to the rear, as did Sellers. Leslie ran along evenly in the middle field with the only other starter, Al Dolder, a Mercury Foot runner, keeping him company. This order prevailed for three laps, and it appeared as if there would be nothing sensational to the race, when suddenly Campbell let his stride out another notch or two and glided to the head of the band. He was never again headed and finished two yards ahead of Leslie, with his college mate, O'Brien, some twelve yards to the rear, but ahead of Sellers. The race was for the J. F. Carney trophy. The time was 2:20 2-5.

The other invitation scratch event on the card was the 300-yard run for the Colonel B. B. McAlpin Trophy. Loren Muchison, who already owns two legs on the cup, telegraphed just before the meet that business in St. Louis would keep him out of the event. Murrey and Stevenson of Princeton, who were slated to go the route, also were absent, and a meagre field of three was all that could be mustered—Bernie Wefers Jr., New York A. C.; W. Kelly, Knights of St. Antony, and W. Downey, Fordham. Wefers ran away with the race. Early taking a fifteen-yard lead, which the other contestants could not cut down, he won in the very good time of 0:33 3-5.

Varied Program Offered.

The Samaclar Athletic Association, which is composed of employes of the hotels McAlpin, Waldorf-Astoria, the Annex, Claridge, Woodstock and Yates, Café Savarin, the Fifth Avenue Restaurant and the Aldine Club, offer a varied menu, having, besides the invitation events mentioned, interhotel contests, scholastic events, two metropolitan championships, the one-mile relay and the high jump.

The title in the jump went to A. D. Abromet, who is unattached and who cleared the bar at 5 feet 11 inches. The New York Athletic Club was the winner of the relay crown. The Winged Foot quartet, composed of the club's crack middle distancers Wefers, Sellers, Kelly and Higgins, never left the issue in doubt, and romped around the Engineers' drill shed in 3:34 2-5, with the Morningside A. C. team in second place.

The one-mile open handicap brought out some very pretty running. It was won by D. Foresman, Princeton, with 10 yards to his credit, in the fast time of 4 minutes and 31 seconds. R. McCulloch, also a wearer of the Orange and Black, who started from scratch, could not get through the field for place. The one-mile "closed" was won by J. Pantoliano of the McAlpin Hotel. The little fellow was out in front nearly all the way, being headed only once for a brief period. The time was pretty slow, however, 5 minutes and 11 seconds.

McAlpin Wins Twice.

Other inter-hotel events were a sack race, a 75-yard dash, a veterans' race, a relay race and a tug of war. McAlpin won the pulling contest, which was for the Oscar Cup, and the same hotel annexed the relay, in which there was a highly spirited contest. The Hotel Biltmore, with the team intact, which won the event last year, was obliged to trail the Thirty-fourth Street hotel at the finish. However, McAlpin had to lower its colors to the Waldorf-Astoria in the 75-yard dash, the sprint being taken by L. C. Padilla, a Filipino, in 8 3-5 seconds.

The 100-yard handicap was also an A. A. U. contest. T. H. Wood of St. Christopher, with eight yards allowance, took first, with P. Davis, also allowed eight yards, capturing second. The time was 10 1-5 seconds. First in the 220-yard, A. A. U. handicap was annexed by L. Buxbaum, Brooklyn A. A., having five yards as a gift, with J. Howay, West Side A. C., coming second. He had an allowance of five yards also. The time was 0:23 2-5.

De La Salle won the one-mile interscholastic relay, beating St. Augustine, which finished second, and De Witt Clinton, which came in third.

The last event on the program was an A. A. U. shotputting contest with the twelve-pound ball. P. Cortois, N. Y. U., with a handicap of seven feet, was first with a put of 51 feet 3¾ inches. The second man was J. Sinclair, New York A. C., who also enjoyed a seven-foot handicap. Sinclair hurled the missile 51 feet 1 inch.

Dual Track Athletic Meet Is Planned for Army and Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1.—A movement is on foot to hold a field and track meet between the Army and Navy this Spring. This is the first step toward extending athletic relations between the two service institutions further than the annual football, baseball and basketball fixtures.

It is believed here that the respective departments at Washington will approve the project.

RAIDER, 7-TO-1 SHOT, WINS IN THE SOUTH

Special to The New York Times.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 1.—The patrons at the Fair Grounds suffered one of the biggest disappointments of the current meeting this afternoon and few thrills in return when the North Shore Stable's St. Allan, which had been made a 1 to 3 favorite, was defeated by a nose in the Caddo Hotel Purse. Raider, an outsider in the four-horse race, snatched the victory in the last few strides and paid 7 to 1.

It was a stirring race from the start. St. Allan was sent into the lead of the mile and seventy yards journey soon after leaving the barrier, and in the first seven furlongs raced Dark Hill down. At the turn for home he was drawing away to a considerable lead and had nearly two lengths' advantage. But Raider, which had been trailing the field, suddenly moved up with a rush, and Wida, on the favorite, was caught napping. Raider had got abreast of St. Allan before the jockey saw the seriousness of the situation, and then it was too late. Both horses fought it out, but Raider outgamed his rival and pushed his nose over the wire for a close decision. Sir Grafter got up for third place when Dark Hill went wide turning into the stretch and lost considerable ground.

One of the easiest victories of the day was scored by Trusty, which took the measure of the consistent old gelding Back Bay, winning by six lengths in a five-and-a-half-furlong dash. Peppery Polly got up for third. Trusty was in good form and, racing into the lead, drew away steadily and was much the best. Back Bay lacked early speed and went wide turning for home, getting up in the final sixteenth to take the place.

ROSS EASILY WINS SWIMMING TITLE

Captures National 220-Yard Event by Wide Margin in Meet at New York A. C.

The National A. A. U. 220-yard swim fell easy prey to Norman Ross, the phenomenal young swimmer of the Illinois Athletic Club at the races held in the pool of the New York Athletic Club last night. The young merman who made such a record in the Olympic games was making his first appearance here since before the war and his performance was little short of sensational, although no records were broken in the victory.

Ross won with a considerable margin to spare from Leo Giebel of the New York A. C., who finished second, with D. L. Jones of the Illinois A. C. third among the half dozen who competed in the event. Ross finished in 2:22 1-5 and Giebel's time was 2:28 2-5, which indicates how easily Ross won.

A large gallery watched the event with little doubt that Ross would be the victor. Ross did not leave any room for doubt from the time he left the end of the tank until he had finished. He took a commanding lead at the start, and, despite the fact that Giebel is himself very fast in the water, the New York A. C. swimmer was never able to threaten his Western rival.

The fancy dive was won by George W. Dahm of the New York A. C., who scored 140.7 points against 130.7 for L. J. Dalbach. Rudolph Saacke was third with 124.9 points. The forward and backward dive and the front and back jack knife dives were the tests for the event.

The water polo match was won by the Nassau Club of Princeton by a score of 16 goals to 5 for the New York A. C. swimmers.

The swimmers from the Nassau Club of Princeton took the water polo match from the New York A. C. team by making a great rally in the second half when Buechner and Botting took matters into their own hands and kept the ball going toward the N. Y. A. C. goal. At the close of the first half the Winged Foot swimmers were leading by 5 to 0, but they failed to show the same aggressiveness when they came back into the pool.

In a fraction more than a minute of the second half Buechner put the Nassau club on even terms with a touch goal and followed it quickly with another. The N. Y. A. C. swimmers were being outplayed all through the period and the ball seldom got into the territory of the visitors. When it did Tait was able to return it quickly. Botting then scored two thrown goals, and with only forty-five seconds to play after the last of these goals, the N. Y. A. C. team was unable to make any headway. Ruddy made the only marker for his team early in the first period.

The score:

NASSAU CLUB (16).		N. Y. A. C. (5).
Botting	C.	Vollmer
Buechner	F.	Ruddy
Hardin	F.	McConnell
Schraluff	B.	Curren
Phillips	B.	Russell
Tait	G.	Swann

Substitutions—New York A. C.: Smith for McConnell, Duryea for Swann.

Referee—Lionel McKenzie.

220-Yard National Championship—Won by Norman Ross, Illinois A. C.; L. Geibel, N. Y. A. C., second; D. L. Jones, Illinois A. C., third. Time—2:22 1-5.

100-Yard Handicap—Won by N. Nerich, N. Y. A. C.; C. Walter, unattached, second; Paul Wacker, unattached, third. Time—1:59 1-5.

100-Yard Breast Stroke, Handicap—Won by S. A. Ruddy, N. Y. A. C.; H. Kiffe, Central Y. M. C. A., second; Paul Dezell, N. Y. A. C., third. Time—1:12 3-5.

Fancy Dive—Won by G. W. Dahm, with 40.7 points; L. J. Ralbach, second; R. Saacke, third.

O'DONNELL BOUT OFF.

Philadelphia Bantam Cannot Meet Smith for Lack of License.

Knockout Joe O'Donnell, Philadelphia bantamweight, who was scheduled to engage Midget Smith of Harlem in the stellar twelve-round bout this evening, will not be permitted to box the local bantamweight, according to an edict of the Boxing Commission yesterday. Secretary Charles White announced that O'Donnell had not secured a license to operate under the Walker law in this State, and because of this delinquency the Quaker City lad will not be permitted to meet Smith. At the Garden it was announced that efforts were being made to secure a suitable substitute for the Harlemite. Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City and Carl Tremaine, Cleveland boxer, topped the list of likely substitutes. No announcement of O'Donnell's successor was made last night.

The other three twelve-round bouts will be conducted as originally scheduled, and promise plenty of action. The interest in the battles is reflected in the heavy advance sale. Promoter Rickard has adopted a popular-price scale which has found favor with patrons of the Garden. Bantamweights, featherweights and lightweights will be participants in the other three bouts. Charley Beecher, east side lad, who graduated from the local amateur ranks, will engage Dick Loadman, sturdy Buffalo featherweight. Jimmy Kelly, Bronx lightweight, will clash with Phil Bloom, veteran Brooklyn boxer. The first of the twelve-round bouts will bring together Johnny Buff of Jersey City, the lad who a short time ago carried Midget Smith through ten sizzling rounds, and Frankie Daly of Staten Island.

CLOSE RACE IN DOG DERBY.

Indian Has Slight Lead on American Driver at 25-Mile Mark.

THE PAS, Manitoba, March 1.—Pranteau, an Indian driver, and Goyne, an American, were fighting for the leading position in the 200-mile Hudson's Bay dog derby tonight over the snow-covered trail between here and Flin Flon.

At the twenty-five-mile mark these two teams were two miles ahead of the other six contestants, with Pranteau 100 yards in the lead. The course lies from here to Flin Flon and return, the winner being expected to arrive here tomorrow.

The race started at 11 o'clock this morning under mild weather conditions, which softened the snow and made the going harder than usual at this time of the year.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

With prices more to their liking, buyers of gray goods did a pretty fair amount of trading in this market yesterday. For nearby 39-inch 80 square printcloths they paid 9½ cents, with business done in 72-76s and 68-72s at 9¼ and 8 cents, respectively. For nearby 38½-inch 60-48s, 6¼ cents was paid. Buyers held off on 38½-inch 64-60s, for which 7¼ cents was asked and 7 cents bid. Sheetings sales included 56-60 four-yard goods at 8¼ cents, five-yard cloths at 6¾ and 5.50s at 5¼ cents. Thirteen cents still was the price of 4.20 yard sateens.

Clothing Demand Improved.

Even the pronounced pessimists among wholesale clothiers have been willing to admit a distinct improvement in retail orders during the last week. The out-of-town houses, especially, through their freedom from labor trouble, have been called upon to meet a last-minute demand. New England retailers, accustomed to buy in the local market, held off placing full orders for the season until they were sure that no settlement of the New York labor controversy would take place. Now many of them have been forced to send calls to other markets. This, however, has not been the only factor in creating business. The retailers report a better response for merchandise with a more cheerful outlook.

Waist League Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of the United Waist League of America was held yesterday at the offices of the association and, besides electing officers, adopted a uniform order blank to govern transactions of members with raw material houses. It was stated that the organization now has a membership of 600 waist manufacturers and associate members in allied trades, and is representative of the industry throughout the country. The following officers were elected: Samuel A. Lerner, President; Lee Kriegsman, First Vice President; Alfred Stearn, Second Vice President; Eugene Solomon, Third Vice President; Louis Beerman, Fourth Vice President, and Monroe Frulich, Treasurer. Aaron Gros was elected Vice President, representing the Cleveland market; M. L. Strauss, representing Chicago, and H. L. Hart, Philadelphia.

Millinery Buyers Are Scarce.

Although apparently unable to give a satisfactory reason for it, men who are in close touch with the millinery trade report a scarcity of buyers of this merchandise for retail stores. It has become noticeable in the last few weeks through the increasing call on the part of retail stores for men and women capable of handling a millinery department in the modern, business-like way. One thing that might be the cause of the reported scarcity, it is asserted, is the fact that handling a millinery department profitably is becoming steadily more difficult, and that some of the less progressive buyers "may be falling by the wayside" as a result.

Interest in Silk Week.

Among local stores, silks were supposed to have their greatest display during the time of the exposition, but a canvass of the display windows indicates that like the rest of the country the city is giving strong support to Silk Week. New York is therefore partially through its second week of special silk display. It has been announced that gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded nationally for the best window displays of silk and silk products during National Silk Week. The medals are the work of Julio Kilenyi, an Argentine sculptor, who has become an American citizen. For the purpose of this contest, photographs of window displays are to be sent to the offices of the Silk Association of America, 354 Fourth Avenue, New York, not later than March 25.

Come Back to New York For It.

One of the local department stores is taking considerable, and what would appear to be justifiable, pride in the fact that a certain recent customer, after traveling through all of the principal European countries, did not purchase an overcoat for which he had been looking until he returned to this city and got it there. According to the customer, who resides in a Middle Western city, he tried on several occasions while abroad to get the kind of a coat he had in mind, but failed to find one. On his way from London to Liverpool, however, he fell in with another American, who wore exactly the kind of coat he wanted. He asked where it had been bought and was told that it came from the store in question. The rest was easy.

Ready With Men's Hats.

Price adjustments made by wholesale manufacturers of men's hats are regarded in that trade as paving the way toward promoting Spring business, which has been practically at a standstill while the problem of values remained unsettled. One of the leading lines will be represented on the road in about a week. The prices will start at aproximately half what they were a year ago for hats of the finest quality. The reductions, it is pointed out, have been made in one general cut, and not piecemeal, and for that reason values are just that much better stabilized.

BREAK PREDICTED IN OBREGON CABINET

AGITATORS ARE WARNED

American Colony Said to Have Sought Expulsion of American Reds Now Active in Labor Troubles.

VERA CRUZ, March 1.—In political quarters here it is predicted that when General P. Elias Calles, Premier and Minister of the Interior, returns to Mexico City from Yucatan shortly, several important changes will occur in the Cabinet, as President Obregon, it is said, favors a more moderate policy. It is declared the radical members of the Ministry will quit their posts. The general belief is that the Mexican political situation is approaching a crisis.

General Calles is known to be in sympathy with the labor unions and opposed to the Government in its policy toward them. Last night a steamer left Tehuantepec for Progreso to bring General Calles to the capital.

The railway men employed here on the lines managed by the Government have gone out, in sympathy with the strikers in other parts of the republic. Traffic between this city and the capital has not been suspended, owing to the fact that the necessary personnel to move trains has been found. The port workers are expected to strike, also, in conformity with the general plan of the leaders of the movement of procuring partial strikes all through the country. The Maritime Workers' League at a secret meeting decided not to strike until the workers in Tampico and Tuxpam go out.

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—American, German and Russian agitators, who have been conspicuous in every public demonstration held recently in this city, are under closest surveillance, and will be dealt with as political intriguers, said a statement issued last night by Rafael Zubaran Capmany, Secretary of Commerce and Industry.

In his statement the Secretary referred specifically to a parade held on Sunday by striking railroaders. Several foreigners in the parade carried communist banners and were vehement in their exhortations to their comrades to continue the strike and to protest more vigorously against "governmental oppression." Mexican labor laws are so liberal, the Secretary declared, that a serious labor situation "should not, and would not, exist if radicals did not overstep the bounds of mere agitation, with the intent to overthrow the present Government and set up a Soviet régime."

American agitators have been exceedingly active during the last few months, having been especially energetic in organizing the protest against the Pan American Federation of Labor during its recent congress in Mexico City. On several other occasions when public demonstrations have been held these same radicals have taken prominent rôles, and speeches made by them have been of an incendiary nature. Members of the American colony here have become much incensed over the boldness of the radicals. It is declared they contemplate not only aggression against Mexico, but also the United States, and it is asserted that Americans have approached Mexican officials with a view to arranging for their deportation across the frontier. The American Legation here has been considering the feasibility of taking energetic action.

Telegraphers and train dispatchers employed by the Mexican Railway struck yesterday in sympathy with other operatives in the employ of the company who walked out last week. This line has acceded to the demands of the strikers, but in solidarity with the men on other lines the employes of the company have refused to return to work.

The strike of the wiremen, which was discounted as being of minor importance, was the only incident of the day in connection with the strike of the men employed by railroads operated by the Government. All the lines are open and trains are running on virtually normal schedules, so far as reported. Government officials expressed confidence yesterday that the strike will be terminated by the end of the present week.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—The strike on the railways is breaking down. Workshops at Aguascalientes and San Luis Potosi are being reopened. A number of strikers are returning to work, and the railways are flooded with applications. Mail from St. Louis is arriving in five days, almost the normal time.

BRITAIN AWAITS STABILITY.

Prepared to Recognize Obregon When Assured of It.

LONDON, March 1.—Answering a question in the House of Commons today as to why Great Britain had delayed in recognizing the Mexican Government and if this non-recognition was not due to the policy of the United States, Frederick G. Kellaway, head of the Overseas Trade Department, said that Great Britain for some time had been prepared to recognize the Mexican Government as soon as she was convinced of Mexico's stability.

British policy, he added, had been guided by British interests.

TERMS TO MEXICO OUTLINED BY FALL

Written Agreement to Protect American Interests Essential Before Recognition.

CALDERON OBJECTS TO THIS

Member of Harding's Cabinet Would Give Financial Aid to Neighbor.

The National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico made public yesterday a letter received recently from United States Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, in which the Senator outlined his position with respect to American recognition of any Government in Mexico. The association proffered the letter as a document of importance in view of Senator Fall's appointment to be Secretary of the Interior in President-elect Harding's Cabinet.

In his letter, Senator Fall stands by the suggestion made by the Senate Sub-Committee on Mexican Affairs to the Senate, chief of which was the necessity that any Mexican Government which seeks to gain the stamp of American regularization must make written undertaking of the protection of American lives and American property in Mexico.

Gives Summary of Recommendations.

The Senator then told of having prepared a letter in English and Spanish for an attorney of Obregon, the State Department and others, continuing:

"Among other things, a summary of the recommendations of the committee was presented in the letter referred to, which summary is as follows:

"'Now, what are the facts with relatio nto the suggestions of the Senate Committee, concerning the settlement of all matters with Mexico, prior to the recognition of a Government there?

"'First—That an agreement should be reached for the appointment of a commission to ascertain the damage, if any, done to Americans and American property in Mexico, and, reciprocally, the damages, if any, to Mexicans or Mexican property in the United States.

"'Second—The appointment of another, or the same, commission to settle any disputes as to boundary and matters of like character between the two countries, and with particular reference to the "Chamizal Zone," at El Paso, Texas, and the Colorado River irrigation systems, &c.

"'Third—That Article 27, or any decree or law issued or enacted thereunder, should not apply to deprive American citizens of their property rights therefore legally acquired; that clause with reference to the teaching schools by ministers of the Gospel; to the preaching of Christianity by Americans, and like clauses should not be enforced against American citizens.

"'Fourth—Agreements for the protection of American citizens and their property rights in Mexico in the future.

"'Fifth—That the agreement so arrived at shall be written down in the form of a protocol or preliminary agreement, with the express declaration that same shall be embodied in a formal treaty between the two countries so soon as a Mexican Government is recognized.'

Would Extend Financial Aid.

"The further suggestions of the committee are that financial aid should be immediately extended to Mexico, prefarably through a national loan from the United States to that country, and in sufficient amount to enable it to refund all its oustanding indebtedness, to rehabilitate its railroads, &c.

"I may say to you that the latter suggestions as to finance, &c., are, of ccurse, merely in the way of suggestions offered by the committee, with the knowledge that Mexico has been seeking loans in the United States for years, and that the present Government had, when the report was made, and has continuously since that time, fiscal agents here, seeking loans through various American financial institutions and individuals.

"The last paragraph—that is, Paragraph 'Fifth'—of the foregoing recommendations is that upon which, apparently, negotiations have halted, viz.:

"Either no representative of the Mexican Government has been empowered to sign any such memorandum of settlement, or the persons now holding office in Mexico do not desire to enter into written agreements prior to recognition.

Written Agreement Essential.

"I regard such written agreement as absolutely essential as a prerequisite to recognition, particularly for the reason that it will stop Mexico from appealing to Latin America should any question of dispute thereafter arise between this Government and Mexico.

"So long as I have anything to do with the Mexican question no Government in Mexico will be recognized, with my consent, which Government does not first enter into a written agreement practically along the lines suggested.

"Should such Government, or any Government, refuse to enter into such agreement, then the question would arise as to whether the United States should simply pursue a silent policy of inaction or whether it should take immediately other action directed to the protection of Americans and their interests in Mexico, and the restoration to full property rights of all Americans who have been driven from that country.

"I have opposed, and shall continue to oppose, any recognition of any Mexican Government until all pending questions between the two countries and the people of the two countries shall be in course of settlement under the terms of a written agreement.

"I shall oppose, in other words, attempted settlement of governmental questions, future business relations, &c., between the two countries based upon private negotiations between any Mexican officials and any one or more groups of Americans interested in Mexico.

"Mexican conditions now existing are due to fundamental causes which must be understood before this country can be of any material assistance in bringing about peace conditions in the Republic of Mexico.

"It is for the Mexican people, themselves, to display a desire and to exhibit some evidence of sincerity in carrying out a policy through the establishment of a government there which will earnestly attempt, in a friendly way, to deal with the other peoples of the world as a self-respecting Government of one nation should deal with the Governments of other nations.

"Personally I am exceedingly desirous that this Government should cooperate with any such Government or proposed Government of Mexico in the most friendly, earnest and sincere manner.

"Conditions now in Mexico are such that only through the assistance of the Government of the United States, or else by this Government remaining entirely quiescent and such assistance being offered by and accepted from some other foreign Government or Governments, will general peace and order be established and maintained in Mexica.

"I think that your organization, embracing as it does all branches of industry, can be of great assistance, through publicity and otherwise, in informing the people of the United States and also the people of Mexico as to the friendship of this Government for Mexico and of our people for the Mexican people, as well as of the necessary preliminaries to be arrived at and agreed upon between this Government and any Mexican Government.

"This work cannot be done by any group within your membership, but the co-operation of the entire membership, including the individual Americans represented therein, should be solicited, as it will be necessary.

"As a matter of principle, right and justice, national honor and good faith, the interest of any American farmer or mining prospector in Mexico must be safeguarded and protected in any settlement between the two countries, just as earnestly and as firmly as must be the interests of any great mining, oil, manufacturing, railroad or any other individual group or collective interests of Americans in Mexico."

Fall's Policy Endorsed.

With Senator Fall's letter the association issued the following statement:

"The National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico can do no better than refer to the recent letter of Senator Fall as a concise and comprehensive statement of the policy for which this association stands. It is opposed to the recognition of any Government in Mexico unless and until that Government agrees in writing, as the basis for a formal treaty, that proper amends shall be made for the past and that full protection shall be afforded in the future to American lives and properties in Mexico. It is opposed to any partial settlement of the problem that does not comprehend protection for all American citizens and respect for all American property rights in Mexico.

"It endorses unqualifiedly the views expressed and the policies announced by Senator Fall."

THE SCIENTIFICALLY BUILT WATCH

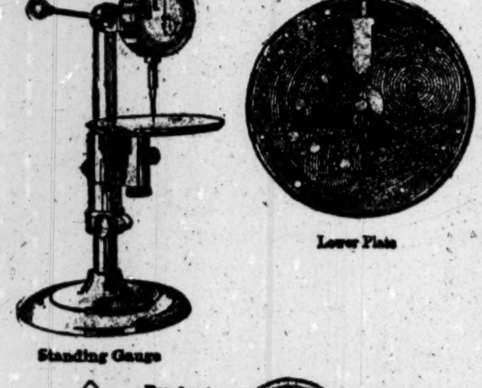
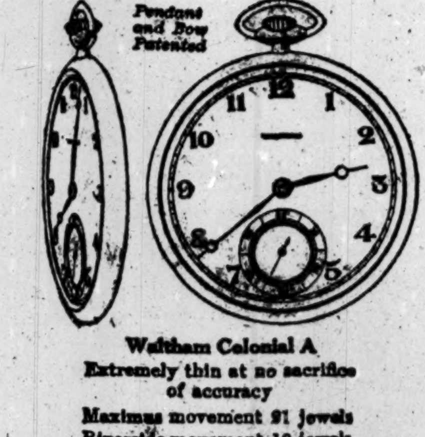
ACCURACY

The Twelfth Part of a Human Hair as a Standard of Measurement





Waltham Colonial A
Extremely thin at no sacrifice of accuracy
Maximus movement 21 jewels
Riverside movement 19 jewels
$600 to $325 or more depending upon the case

IMAGINE the twelfth part of a human hair being the difference between Waltham standardized accuracy and the variable guess work in foreign watches.

Waltham produced, by Waltham genius, methods of measurement and gauges to measure so infinitely accurate that the Waltham Watch became and is the most perfectly constructed watch in the world.

If in the lower plate (illustrated) there was a measurable difference between the location of one bearing from another, it would mean irregularity in the time-keeping performance of that watch.

Waltham has so perfected unique gauges and standardized a system of infinitesimal measurement, that such a minute error cannot occur in a Waltham Watch without discovery.

What does this Waltham accuracy and close inspection mean to you?

When you buy a Waltham you possess the world's most accurately made watch. You own a watch that can be readily, and what is most important to you, perfectly and economically repaired—at an upkeep cost at least 50 per cent lower than the repair of foreign made watches whose method of less accurate manufacture has not kept pace with Waltham genius which is American.

That is why we say truthfully—"Waltham placed America first, in watchmaking." This is one more good reason why you should own a Waltham.

This story is continued in a beautiful booklet in which you will find a liberal watch education. Sent free upon request.

Deciding an Issue of Vital Interest to All

A Really Serious Attempt to Radically Reduce Men's Clothing Prices That Is Meeting with Warm Support.

Perhaps no issue in recent years so deeply affecting the public weal in the matter of reducing men's clothing prices to bottom-rock levels has attracted greater attention and met with wider commendation, we are told, than our reply to certain presumably influential retail interests we formerly served who would deny us the right, as wholesale manufacturers, to sell direct to the public, even though that denial, if adhered to, meant the loss of thousands of dollars, the closing down of our factory and discharge of our help.

We are told, indeed, the controversy has attracted more than ordinary interest and is cited as a notable instance where public opinion has discerned so sharply and clearly between an apparent truthful statement of fact and the variegated assortment of advertisements that have since and are appearing, imitating to the letter the typography of our pronouncements.

However that may be, the wide encouragement and patronage we have received from men of every walk of life—bank presidents, brokers, judges, newspaper men, woolen merchants, down to those even engaged in the clothing trade—has emboldened us to continue dealing direct with the public—mayhap indefinitely.

Which, it is obvious, is of tremendous importance to every man who wants the best in men's clothing and at actual wholesale prices—produced, in fact, at the lowest possible prices consistent with first-class work—under exceptionally economical conditions—a low, upstairs factory rental, no expensive fixtures nor frills, and certainly greatly under the expense that retail stores must meet.

We will prove to you that you can not only buy the greatest clothing values you ever saw for the money anywhere, but that at $20, $25, $30 and $35—no higher—you are actually getting finely built pure wool suits and overcoats that we made to retail at $40, $50, $60 and $70.

An investigation will quickly prove every statement made here. In fact, you are guaranteed against every element of disappointment. If you are not convinced our values are among the best ever offered anywhere or feel dissatisfied in any respect, your money will be returned instantly and without question.

This unconditional guarantee applies to fit, materials used and every detail. We give you real custom work and woolens that are 100 per cent. pure, using only the very best turned out by the American Woolen Co., Dun's French - Rivers, Wanskuck, Etna and Wilson mills.

We ask you, in all sincerity, do we deserve yours and every man's patronage in accepting the challenge flung at us—in endeavoring to give you really extraordinary clothing values—and the fairest kind of treatment?

If you do, you are subscribing to that real Americanism that the country now demands—the abolition of the profiteer—the end of the shoddy clothing jackals. Incidentally, you are saving yourself a very substantial sum of money.

Our factory—one flight up—will be open from 8:30 A. M. to 7:30 P. M. during this sale.

OPPOSE PREFERMENT FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Policemen, Firemen and Women's Clubs in Force at Albany Hearing.

WOUNDED VETERANS APPEAR

Assemblyman McWhinney Falls in Fit During Applause and Bites Fireman's Finger.

FATHER CHIDWICK SPEAKS

Chaplain of Maine Asks Committee to Let Voters Decide at the Next Election.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 1.—Before one of the largest audiences which have gathered this year in the Senate Chamber, opponents and proponents of the Baumes-Martin Civil Service Veterans preferential bill today gave their views on the measure. Ex-service men filled the floor and galleries of the Chamber, while uniformed members of the Police and Fire Departments of many cities crowded the lobbies. Maimed veterans paraded up and down the room during the hearing.

The opposition was led by Frank J. Prial of the Civil Service Forum, an organization representing over 150,000 members.

"This is the most unmoral bill that has ever been proposed," he declared. "I can think of nothing better to call it than legalized larceny. This State gives you nothing. You are simply allowed to take whatever you consider is yours. Although I agree with all those who were behind our boys whom we sent to the front, and although I wish to place myself on record as saying that there is nothing too good for these young men who are constantly parading up and down this room, still I reiterate this measure will not help you, or any of those that are dear to you. It is simply unmoral and un-American."

Father John P. Chidwick, Chaplain of the Maine when she was sunk in Havana Harbor, led the advocates of the measure and thrilled his audience.

While the continued applause was at its height Assemblyman Thomas McWhinney of Nassau County, a member of the committee, fainted and fell into a severe fit. A fireman who was carrying the Assemblyman out of the chamber and who endeavored to loosen Mr. McWhinney's tongue from the roof of his mouth was severely bitten. Dr. Hyde of the State Health Department was called in to give treatment and the Assemblyman was later removed to a hospital.

Father Chidwick Leads Proponents.

Father Chidwick, in eulogizing the ex-service men, insisted that those who had really done things for those who remained at home should have nothing given to them but preferred service.

"I am convinced of the justice of my position here today," he said, "and, furthermore, I am convinced that there is nothing wrong in this measure. The former soldier has reflected upon his country honor and distinction which can never be repaid or even approximated by giving him a preferred chance through this bill."

"In fighting this bill are the firemen and policemen of the cities of the State ashamed to have a veteran in their posts? You argue that they crowd out men of greater intelligence. Intelligence is not the sole standard of the best. There are hundreds of intelligent men in all the prisons of the land today. If you argue on the percentage, then make the passing mark higher. Our boys who have done everything for you did it with a belief that, regardless of intelligence, you would always be willing to do everything for them. I am surprised to find the uniformed men of so many Fire and Police Departments opposed to this measure. Why are they in the wrong camp? We owe everything to our boys, and all I ask this committee is to let the people decide at the next election whether they think preferred civil service enactments are right or wrong."

Women Among Chief Opponents.

Opposition to this measure was more strongly represented by women than by the men. Among the most forceful opponents was the Woman's City Club, represented by Mrs. John Blair and Miss Upshaw.

Mrs. Helen Rogers, representing the City Federation of Women's Clubs of Buffalo, called the bill fundamentally unjust as it did not distinguish between men who had been badly wounded and those who had been temporarily inconvenienced.

Dr. Anna Hoxton, representing the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, agreed with Mrs. Rogers and said that her organization, while opposed to the measure, believed that wounded soldiers should have the preference in all business concerns. These opinions were also voiced by Mrs. Nellis F. Murchand of the Civil Service Association of New York.

The Police and Fire Departments of various cities were in force and eleven representatives of various branches of these services gave their views. Foremost among these was John H. Ayers, representing the Lieutenants of Police of New York City.

"I claim it is inequitable from every point of law to ask for preference," he said. "I can't conceive of this kind of measure coming from any real men. I believe the Government should decide, and not the people, before the bill becomes a law."

Joseph Moran, representing the firemen of New York City, declared that the bill would place the Fire Department in the same ranks as the Chinese, as it would deprive them of every chance of rising in citizenship. He asserted that any preferred class would break down equal opportunities and that would be infringing on the Constitution of the United States.

GEDDES TO QUIT CABINET.

British Minister of Transport Expects to Return to Business.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 1.—The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent understands that Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transport, will resign from the Cabinet in August, when the period of Government control of transport comes to an end, and probably also resign his seat in Parliament to return to the business world.

It was explained that Sir Eric had no political ambitions, and always regarded himself as having been merely lent to the Government during the war period.

Convicted of Manslaughter.

A jury before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions last evening found Louis Meyers, 31, of 76 Norfolk Street, guilty of manslaughter in the first degree for shooting Abraham Lewis, 28, of 2 Ridge Street, on Nov. 23 last, in front of 75 Norfolk Street. Meyers admitted that he had six previous convictions against him, on the last of which he served four years in Sing Sing for shooting a man in Queens. He was remanded for sentence.

City-Owned Bridge Service Put Off.

The operation of street cars by the city over the Williamsburg Bridge, which was to have begun yesterday, was postponed until April 1, it was announced at the office of Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures owing to delay in laying tracks from the car barn to the regular tracks.

Warns of Fake Tax Calls By 'Income Tax Collectors'

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Warning against fake income tax collectors was issued today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"Persons who approach taxpayers saying that they have come to collect the income tax are in every instance attempting to defraud the public," the bureau declared. "In the payment of the income tax the public is required to seek the Government and not the Government the public."

$1.50 GAS TO STAND TILL LAW IS CHANGED

No Contest Planned Pending Action by U. S. Supreme Court or Legislature.

BROOKLYN CO. TO ACT SOON

Increase to Be Attempted as Soon as Master's Report Is Filed in Federal Proceeding.

The Consolidated Gas Company's new tariff, fixing $1.50 as the price of gas per thousand feet in Manhattan and the Bronx, probably will stand, opponents of an increased rate said yesterday, until the Legislature has acted to empower a new commission to fix rates or until the United States Supreme Court has decided on the constitutionality of the 80-cent statutory rate.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien and others who have been fighting the company's attempt to advance the rate asserted that there was little prospect of a taxpayer's action or any other legal procedure to nullify the decree published Monday by Federal Judge Learned Hand, in which he refused to limit the rate which the Consolidated might charge after March 1. The tariff was filed with the Public Service Commission yesterday.

The Brooklyn Union Gas Company, which is charging $1.10 a thousand feet under a court order, will also attempt to raise its rate after the report of Special Master Graham is filed, probably within a few days, James H. Jourdan, President of the company, said yesterday.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien asserted that the new $1.50 rate would increase the Consolidated's revenue $9,000,000 a year over the $1.20 rate, which obtained before Judge Hand's opinion was rendered, and $21,000,000 over the statutory rate of 80 cents.

"The rate now to be inflicted by the Consolidated Gas Company on the consumers is the best illustration of the temper and mental attitude of the men controlling this powerful institution," he said.

Mr. O'Brien said that the rate case would come up in the United States Supreme Court next month. Its final ruling is not expected before June, and possibly not until next Fall. In the meantime the Consolidated, under Judge Hand's ruling, may fix any rate it pleases, unless the Legislature has taken action on the proposed new Public Service Commission with power to abrogate the 80-cent rate statute. All the excess over 80 cents will be held by Special Master Richard Welding for possible return to the consumers.

Under a plan which, according to William L. Ransom, counsel of the Consolidated, is being considered and which may be presented within a few weeks, the rate for large consumers would be cut to $1.25 a thousand feet and the rate to small consumers raised even above the $1.50 charge, by the addition of a 60-cent charge each month for each meter. The actual price of gas would be $1.25 for both large and small consumers, but the large consumer would pay the same meter charge as the small consumer. A family using 1,000 feet a month would, therefore, pay at the rate of $1.85.

NEW SOVIET AGENT TO CARRY ON RELIEF

Dr. Dubrowsky Notifies State Department of Appointment—Denies He Succeeds Martens.

Dr. D. H. Dubrowsky, representative of the All-Russian Jewish Public Committee, a private organization of 47 West Forty-second Street, yesterday gave out a letter he had sent to the State Department announcing his appointment by the Russian Soviet Government as its representative in the United States to carry on relief work. Dr. Dubrowsky was asked whether this did not mean that he had become the successor of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the so-called Soviet Ambassador recently deported. He said that it did not as he had been appointed to supervise relief work and referred to his letter to confirm this statement.

The Jewish Public Committee at one time was under scrutiny by the State Department on account of an arrangement alleged to have been made whereby relief money could be sent to that country at the rate of 250 rubles for each dollar. Dr. Dubrowsky said yesterday that no fault had been found with the organization or its work as a result of that inquiry.

MARTENS NOT DEPORTED.

Soviet Agent Left Before Execution of Warrant, Secretary Wilson Says.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, former Russian Soviet agent in the United States, was not deported from this country, but was permitted by Secretary of Labor Wilson to depart without execution of the deportation warrant against him, in order to leave the incoming Administration free to work out its own Russian policy, "unencumbered by the threat of criminal prosecution hanging over the heads of agents of the unrecognized Russian Government."

Secretary Wilson, in a memorandum submitted today to Assistant Secretary Post and the Commissioner General of Immigration, declared Martens could have prolonged his stay in this country for months by instituting habeas corpus proceedings after issuance of the deportation warrant, and that this was obviated by permitting him to return to Russia at his own expense without its execution.

Taking occasion to comment on the recent Senate resolution asking the Attorney General for an opinion as to whether cancellation of the Martens deportation warrant "through the action of Assistant Secretary Post" would operate to permit his return to this country, Secretary Wilson declared the cancellation was made at his "direct instructions" and that it would not permit Martens to return. The same reasons for which the deportation warrant was issued, the Secretary said, under the law would bar Martens from admission to the United States.

"Conditions in Russia," the Secretary continued, "are rapidly changing. Conditions in the United States are changing. A new Administration is about to take charge of affairs. The effect of the permission granted Martens to leave the country without execution of the deportation warrant is that the new Administration will be free to work out its own Russian policy in the light of changing conditions, unencumbered by the threat of criminal prosecution hanging over the heads of the agents of the unrecognized Russian Government."

SPENT $13,318,000 IN PRESIDENCY RACE

Republican and Democratic Totals Include $2,980,033 of Pre-Convention Expenses.

WINNER'S TOTAL $10,960,290

Cost of Their Campaign Was $8,100,739, Against $2,237,770 Spent by Democrats.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The campaign expenses of the two leading political parties in the 1920 campaign, lacking only a few State returns, were $10,338,509. Of this total the Republicans spent $8,100,739 and the Democrats $2,237,770.

These figures were disclosed in a report filed today by the special Senate committee which investigated expenditures. The report also gave the expenditures of candidates in the pre-convention canvasses of both parties. The total of these was $2,980,033, of which the Republican candidates spent $2,859,551 and the Democratic candidates $120,482.

The grand total of expenditures in the two parties, including those of candidates for the nominations, were thus: Republican, $10,960,290; Democratic, $2,358,252; total, $13,318,542.

Senators Kenyon of Iowa, Edge of New Jersey and Spencer of Missouri, Republicans, and Pomerene of Ohio and Reed of Missouri, Democrats, signed the report, which was unanimous. Their concluding statement was as follows:

"The resolutions under which the committee has acted do not provide for recommendations to the Senate on the part of the committee. Naturally the committee has discussed remedies to limit the amount of campaign expenditures, for they feel that the expenditure of these vast sums is a present and growing menace to the nation.

"We are of the opinion that the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the Senate should in the next Congress take up the question of remedial legislation, and if a constitutional amendment should be necessary, that the proper steps be taken to submit the same, as provided by the Constitution. The subject is of such importance that the next Congress should give early attention thereto."

The committee's compilation took into account the expenditures made by or in behalf of all candidates for the Republican and Democratic Presidential nomination, and of national, State, Congressional and Senatorial committees of both parties, neglecting amounts spent by candidates and organizations of the minor parties. There are still missing from the State reports those of the Republican expenses in Kansas and Tennessee and those for Democratic expenses in Utah and California.

Nothing was spent to advance the candidacies of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic nomination and Senator France of Maryland for the Republican nomination.

Of the total expenditure of $326,980 by the Republican Senatorial Committee the largest amount was spent in Arizona, where Senator Smith, Democrat, was defeated by Ralph Cameron. The amount was $23,000. The second largest expenditure was in Oklahoma to defeat Scott Ferris, the amount being $15,500, and the third largest was in Oregon, where $15,450 was used to defeat Senator Chamberlain.

The larger Republican State expenditures were: New York, $479,699; Indiana, $215,000; Pennsylvania, $139,000; Massachusetts, $133,000, and Washington, $116,000. Democratic State expenditures were greatest in Indiana, $74,692; New York, $63,373; Kentucky, $62,930; Ohio, $58,815; Maryland, $57,889, and Pennsylvania, $58,512.

CLASH OVER DEATHS ON ARMISTICE DAY

Majority and Minority Reports Made Public by House Investigators.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Charges of "needless slaughter" of American troops on Armistice Day are made and denied in majority and minority reports made public today by Republican and Democratic members of a House Sub-Committee, on War Expenditures. Representative Johnson, Republican, of South Dakota, himself a former soldier at the front, is Chairman of the subcommittee and prepared the majority report.

Although this report was formally adopted last week by Republican members of the Graham General Investigation Committee, with Democratic members dissenting, a big row has since developed, and a meeting has been called for tomorrow to give it further consideration. The report, to be submitted lated to the House by Chairman Graham in accordance with the custom, may be changed. Unless the section relating to Armistice Day "slaughter" is eliminated, Mr. Graham indicated that Republican members, like the Democrats, would present a minority report of their own.

The minority report was prepared by Representative Flood, Democrat, of Virginia, who called attention to the refusal of the Graham Committee to approve a report made by Chairman Johnson and Representative Bland, Republican, of Indiana. Inasmuch as the subcommittee was directed to investigate war expenditures abroad, Mr. Flood contended that it went beyond its province in attempting to criticise and condemn fighting orders of General Pershing.

A table was presented showing 3,912 total casualties on Armistice Day, including 268 killed in action and 2,769 wounded severely.

Denying that American lives had been needlessly wasted in the closing hours of the war, Mr. Flood in the minority report declared that it was an unjustified attack not only on General Pershing, but on Major Gens. Liggett and Bullard and all corps and division commanders.

First Census of the Japanese Empire Gives Its Total Population as 77,005,112

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Japanese Government has just completed the taking of the first census of Japan proper, Korea, Formosa and Saghalien. The total population for Japan proper is given as 55,961,140, but for the whole empire, embracing Korea, Formosa and Saghalien, the population is given as 77,005,112.

The population of the Japanese Empire in the past has been estimated on the basis of police and other statistics, some of which were known to represent duplications, and the real number of inhabitants was not accurately known. Now that the reports from the census officials have been returned it has been found that the population of Japan is smaller than was previously estimated. The distribution of the population is given as follows:

Japan proper	55,961,140
Korea	17,284,207
Formosa	3,654,000
Saghalien	105,765
Total	77,005,112

Tokio, the capital, was supposed to approach 3,000,000 in population, but the census shows only 2,173,162. The next largest city is Osaka, with a population of 1,252,972, followed by Kobe, with 608,268; Kioto, with 591,305; Nagoya, with 429,990, while Yokohama, which was always thought to be larger than Kobe, has only 422,942. Eight other cities have more than 100,000.

Of the whole population, males number 28,042,995 and females 27,918,154. The total number of families in the empire is 11,222,053.

Japan's first census was not easily carried out in a thoroughly modern way. A great many persons had hesitated in replying to all the questions put to them. Some were living under false names to escape feuds with those who would take revenge if they could find their victims. There were wives who had run away from their husbands and husbands hiding from their wives. The experiences of officials were both tragic and comic.

As it was the first census, a campaign of education had to be conducted, but, notwithstanding this, many were afraid to answer the questions, looking on the affair as a police inquisition. Wives who had married at a younger age than they represented did not want to offend their husbands by recording their real ages, lest they should be divorced.

URGE LANDIS INQUIRY BY NEXT CONGRESS

WANT CHARGES TAKEN UP

All Five Reported as Emphatically Opposed to the Judge Holding His Baseball Job.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Demand for a thorough investigation by the next Congress of impeachment charges against Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, was made today by five members of the House Judiciary Committee, who had been directed by the full committee to submit a preliminary report for immediate consideration.

Within two hours after it had been assigned the task, the sub-committee of five, three Republicans and two Democrats, and all lawyers, drafted a brief report recommending that charges by Representative Welty, Democrat, of Ohio, be taken up by the Judiciary Committee early in the special session.

Although the sub-committee members declined to indicate the nature of the report, it is known to be outspoken in opposition to the action of Judge Landis in accepting a salary of $42,500 a year from organized baseball to act as its supreme arbiter while serving on the bench.

Informal discussion indicated it would be impossible for the full committee to dispose of the Welty charges before Friday noon, the hour of adjournment of Congress. There was no disposition on the part of the sub-committee to defer consideration indefinitely, just as there was unanimous agreement that the proceedings could not be dismissed without further investigation of facts and law as presented by the Ohio Representative.

The report, signed by Representatives Dyer, Missouri; Husted, New York, and Boies, Iowa, Republicans, and Gard, Ohio, and Sumners, Texas, Democrats, will be presented to the full committee tomorrow. Members said it would probably be adopted without much debate, which would leave the case near the top of the docket to be called up about a month hence.

In a recent opinion Attorney General Palmer declared Judge Landis was within the law in holding his baseball and judicial job, but this, it was said, figured little in committee consideration of the charges. The report of the subcommittee will express decided and emphatic protest against this practice by a Federal Judge.

OUSTS ALASKAN DELEGATE.

House Turns Out Democrat, and Republican Will Draw $7,000 a Day

WASHINGTON, March 1.—George B. Grigsby, Democratic delegate from Alaska, was ousted from the House today by a vote of 192 to 162.

George Wickersham, Republican, was seated by a vote of 177 to 162. He was immediately sworn in, and, according to a statement made on the floor, will receive about $7,000 a day until the end of his term Friday noon.

FISHING FLEET WILL QUIT.

Boston and Gloucester Trawlers Find Wage Demands Too High.

BOSTON, March 1.—The owners of the forty-five steam trawlers operating from Boston and Gloucester announced today that with the return of the single trawler now on the fishing grounds all would be laid up for an indefinite period. Low prices for fish, high cost of coal and high wages were assigned as reasons.

The crews of the trawlers have been receiving $130 a month, with a bonus of $4 on each 1,000 pounds of fish brought in. The owners recently submitted a scale, to become effective today, which would give the men $45 a month, a 10 per cent. bonus on all earnings up to $4,500, and 5 per cent. additional on earnings above that amount.

WILSON DEFENDS BARUCH AND RYAN

EULOGIZES THEIR WORK

President, Replying to Mason's Attacks, Tells How Price Was Determined.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Wilson flatly denied today charges made in the House by Representative Mason, Republican, of Illinois, and others that Bernard M. Baruch and John D. Ryan had profited out of the Government as a result of the fixing of the price of copper during the World War.

Writing to Representative Garrett, Democrat, of Tennessee, the President characterized the charges as "irresponsible gossip" and "utterly foolish." He declared that he could not allow this occasion to pass without again expressing his "great confidence" in Mr. Baruch and Mr. Ryan.

"There was not a suggestion of scandal connected with either of these gentlemen in any of the war activities in which they played so important a part," the President wrote, "and I wish, before the closing days of this Administration, again to say how admirably they served the needs of the nation and how unselfishly they devoted their fine talents to the Government in every crisis which faced us during the critical days of the war."

As to the fixing of the price of copper the President wrote:

"As a matter of fact, Bernard M. Baruch and John D. Ryan, whose names have been linked with irresponsible gossip in connection with the fixing of the price of copper, had nothing whatever to do with the price fixing negotiations, which finally resulted in the statement I made fixing the price, either at the time the price was fixed, or subsequent thereto.

"Judge Lovett acted as Chairman of the committee which considered the first price fixing of copper, and after due consideration recommended to the President, in September, 1917, that he had fixed the price at 23½ cents per pound on condition that the wages of the employes of the copper producing companies should not be reduced below the then prevailing price, which was based on 27-cent copper.

"A year later a readjustment of the price was made necessary by an increase in the railroad rates and costs of supplies, and after negotiations which extended over many months a further increase was recommended by Robert S. Brooking, Chairman of the War Industries Board. Neither Mr. Baruch nor Mr. Ryan had any part in these negotiations, which resulted in the fixing of the price announced by me."

The President said that for six months after this country entered the war no price for copper was fixed and that the producers took the "admirable position that they would furnish all the copper necessary for war purposes and adjust their business to whatever prices the Government would consider fair and just in the circumstances."

"To state that either Mr. Baruch or Mr. Ryan," he continued, "had influenced the action of the Federal Trade Commission in ascertaining the cost of production or attempting to dictate the recommendations either of the War Industries Board or any of the price-fixing committees is utterly foolish and without foundation of any kind. The price of copper was fixed without any attempt on the part of copper producers or Mr. Baruch or Mr. Ryan to exert any pressure upon this Government."

WILSON SIGNS BIG BILLS.

Post Office and River and Harbor Appropriations Become Law.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — President Wilson today signed the $574,000,000 Post Office Appropriation bill, the $15,250,000 Rivers and Harbors bill and the First Deficiency bill, carrying $276,000,000.

Another bill approved by the President authorizes homestead settlers who entered the military service during the World War to make final proof of their entries.

HAYS WILL RESIGN, PROBABLY IN MAY

Wants to Stay at Head of National Committee Until Southern Representation Is Decided.

HINTS AT POSTAL REFORMS

He Will Preside Thursday When Committee Hears Delegations on Proposed Convention Changes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — Will H. Hays, who is to be Postmaster General in the Cabinet of President Harding, will tender his resignation as Chairman of the Republican National Committee soon after he formally takes over his new office. It is expected that the resignation will be accepted at a meeting of the committee to be held in May. Until that time Mr. Hays may remain at the helm and give advice in clearing up the muddle over the proposed changes in representation from the South. He intimated today that it was his intention to divorce the Post Office Department from politics.

Mr. Hays was entertained on his arrival at the offices of the Republican National Committee, where he met members of the National Committee who are coming to town for the inauguration and the meeting of the committee which is scheduled for Thursday. He shook hands with every one, had a cheery word for political friends and foes alike and was smiling from the time he reached Washington until he got into bed.

While he made no direct announcement as to his resignation, there isn't the slightest doubt about it. Even his friends, who were saying a few weeks ago that he would remain as Chairman of the National Committee even if he was named as Postmaster General, admitted today that "every one certainly ought to know that Hays would resign as Chairman of the National Committee if named as Postmaster General."

In speaking of the plans of the National Committee during inauguration week, Mr. Hays said the big topic to be taken up Thursday would be an effort to obtain a solution of the problem of Southern representation at the National Convention.

The "wheels will be greased" tomorrow when the sub-committee, composed of Representative Slemp of Virginia, R. B. Howell, National Committeeman from Nebraska, and Earl Kinsley, National Committeeman from Vermont, will get together with Mr. Hays and Secretary Clarence B. Miller of the National Committee. Mr. Hays will preside on Thursday. Everybody will be heard, including delegations composed of men who are not members of the committee.

The members of the Executive Committee, which include a number of women, will meet here also with the National Committee on Thursday. There will be much discussion about the future of women in politics and especially about the part they are to play in the Republican Party.

LABOR SEES GAIN IN DECISION

Woll Thinks Lever Law Ruling May End Conspiracy Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The stand taken by the American Federation of Labor for the repeal of the anti-trust laws, which it holds have been interpreted by the courts in such a manner that they are a danger to organized labor, was emphasized tonight in a statement by Matthew Woll, Vice President of the Federation.

Mr. Woll first referred to the recent decision of the Supreme Court that the Lever act was unconstitutional, holding that this only added to the cumulative evidence that any attempt to restrain and limit the operation of economic laws was fundamentally wrong. It also showed, he said, that there was a dual administration of laws in this country.

"In the miners' case, where the workers found conditions of employment intolerable and went on strike," said Mr. Woll, "we find the Government using the Lever act to compel workers to work, and in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment against involuntary servitude. We find that when a sugar combination was sought to be prosecuted under the Lever act the law was declared unconstitutional.

"This action of the Supreme Court clearly demonstrates that the Government forced the union workers to do what the workers had a constitutional right to refrain from doing.

"This decision of the Supreme Court further demonstrates the vicious practice of the injunction process in industrial disputes. The Supreme Court decision clearly demonstrates that Judge Anderson had no constitutional right to issue his mandate to the miners and compel them to go back into the mines. Under our present practice the miners even had no practical course for an appeal, because after they returned to work under the ruling of the Supreme Court, the question involved became a moot question. In addition, the decision of the Supreme Court clearly demonstrates and justifies labor's declaration not to comply with unconstitutional mandates of courts in the nature of injunction decrees.

FINDS A REAL GOLD DIGGER.

Negro Discovered by Lyceum Theatre Actress Held as Burglar.

When Miss Louise Galloway of "The Gold Diggers" at the Lyceum Theatre, in Forty-fifth Street, returned to her dressing room just before the end of the final act last night, she discovered a negro ransacking her room. Restraining her first inclination to scream, which she thought might cause a panic in the theatre, she faced the robber and said: "I suppose you are one of the employes here."

"Oh, yes," replied the negro; "I was sent up here to straighten out your things."

"Well, I'll go down to the stage until you are through," said Miss Galloway, as she closed the door of the room.

She found Edward Gletty, the property man, who ran out to Broadway and brought Policeman Mott and Ryan. The policemen burst into the dressing room with drawn pistols, but found the intruder had disappeared. An open window leading to a fire escape revealed that the robber had escaped in that manner with Miss Galloway's watch and purse.

The policemen went to the roof, where they discovered a negro climbing an iron column of the new theatre building to the west. Mott was an ironworker before he became a policeman. He had to jump across an area five feet wide, and he caught the thief on the sixth floor. The negro was held in the West Forty-seventh Street Station on a charge of burglary.

$27,500 for Loss of Woman's Leg.

Miss Lillian Maguire, 28 years old, a milliner, of 383 Cornelia Street, Brooklyn, yesterday obtained a verdict of $27,500 before Justice Lewis L. Fawcett in the Supreme Court. The judgment was against the Long Island Railroad, the result of an accident at Brentwood, L. I., in which she received injuries which caused the amputation of her right leg.

Wilson Gives 300-Page Report On Expenditure of War Funds

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Wilson transmitted to the House late today a 300-page statement showing itemized expenditures from the $150,000,000 war funds and especially amounts spent by the American Peace Mission at Paris.

The report, called for by resolution by the House, adopted last week after turbulent debate, was not made public, however. It was referred to the Appropriations Committee, which reported the resolution by Representative Gould, Republican, of New York, asking the President for the information.

Chairman Good announced it would be printed overnight and given out tomorrow.

THREAT TO HOUSTON OPENS LOAN DATA

Secretary to Submit Papers to Senators After Talk of Contempt Proceedings.

TONS OF DOCUMENTS READY

Mandatory Resolution by Committee Bars Delay for Consultation With Colby.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—In response to a resolution passed today by the Senate Judiciary Committee, Secretary of the Treasury Houston will present to the committee tomorrow morning the papers demanded by the committee, involving foreign loans.

The committee resolution was mandatory upon the Secretary to produce the papers, which he had sent word had been submitted to the State Department to ascertain if revealing their contents would be compatible with the public interest.

The committee unanimously passed a resolution written by Senator Reed "directing" the Secretary to produce tomorrow morning "all of the correspondence, papers and documents relating to the establishment of credits and commitments and loans and advances to the Governments of Belgium, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Liberia, Rumania, Russia and Serbia, under the acts of Congress of April 24, 1917, Sept. 24, 1917, April 4, 1918, and July 9, 1918, including in said papers the papers and correspondence heretofore produced before the Committee on the Judiciary of the Senate by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not examined by the committee."

Examination of this resolution shows that it asks for papers concerning loans to foreign Governments which were not demanded by the original resolution.

The resolution was adopted by the committee at a heated session, at which Senator Reed declared that Secretary Houston should be "cited for contempt" for failure to produce the documents. Committee members said that it amounted to a "quantity subpoena," and that non-compliance would render Mr. Houston liable to contempt proceedings before the bar of the Senate.

The transportation and actual presentation of the foreign loan data will be something of a problem. There are several tons of the documents and at least one truck, it is said, will be required to haul them to the Capitol.

Congress is humming with the political aspect of the situation. Republicans charge that Secretary Houston has been trying to delay presentation of the papers, so that he may go out of office on Friday and "pass the buck" to the incoming Republican Administration. Democrats take absolutely the opposite angle, and ask why the Republicans, as well as Senator Reed and Senator Shields of Tennessee, Democrats, are anxious to "embarrass" an incoming Republican Secretary of the Treasury and Secretary of State by revealing secrets of diplomacy which may offend foreign Governments. The Democrats say that Secretary Houston has nothing to hide and that his sole objection to publishing the papers to the world is the desire to avoid international friction.

CHARGES REPUBLICANS PLAN 'SPOILS SYSTEM'

Underwood Accuses Them of Intending Assault on Reform in Post Office Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The charge that the Republican Party in its administration of the Post Office Department is planning to "take the backtrack on civil service reform and go back to the spoils system" was made in the Senate today by Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader. The statement was made after Senator Lodge had referred to the Wilson Post Office civil service order as a "humbug," and as having been "cunningly drawn" to keep Democratic Postmasters in office.

"The order," declared Senator Lodge, "is very cunningly drawn. It does not place Postmasters in the civil service. It provides for examination to fill vacancies caused by death, resignation or removal, and does not include expiration of the term of office."

Senator Underwood remarked that Mr. Lodge had definitely, as it appeared to him, disclosed the Republican policy for administration of the Post Office Department.

"I was not stating a party policy; I only wanted to show the humbug of this order," Senator Lodge retorted.

"It was not cunning," said Senator Underwood, "but an attempt on the part of the President to follow the sentiment of the country on civil service as far as he could.

"It could not have been very cunningly administered, since about half of those appointed have been Republicans," interrupted Senator Glass.

RAINEY FOR TARIFF BOARD.

Wilson Nominates Retiring Ways and Means Committeeman.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democrat, of Illinois, was nominated today by President Wilson to be a member of the Federal Tariff Commission.

Mr. Rainey, whose term of office will expire Friday with the ending of this Congress, has been for many years a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which frames tariff legislation.

City Gets Queens Ferry Property.

The New York and East River Ferry Company will receive $230,750 from the city for the land, waterfront and buildings at the foot of Fulton Avenue, Astoria, which are used as the Queens terminal of the Astoria and Ninety-second Street ferry now under municipal operation. Awards to that amount were made by Justice Kapper in the Supreme Court yesterday in condemnation proceedings.

HIRSHFIELD REPORT EXONERATES LAHEY

CITES THE POLICE RECORDS

Whitman Says if Grand Jury Didn't Get Records Somebody Is in Contempt.

ALL HAD BEEN SUBPOENAED

Investigation of Four New Cases Is Begun, Three Involving Policemen—Auto Thieves Testify.

Chief Inspector William J. Lahey, indicted on the charge of accepting an unlawful gratuity of $50 for a subordinate, Detective George J. Andrews of the Automobile Squad, was exonerated yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, who reported to Mayor Hylan that the usual deductions to the Police Pension and Relief Funds were made before the reward was turned over to Andrews.

In his report, Commissioner Hirshfield, taking the case of Andrews as typical, exonerated all the other detectives of the Automobile Squad, saying that in all cases the books of the Police Department showed entries proving that deductions of 40 per cent. for the Police Relief Fund and 10 per cent. for the Pension Fund had been made before rewards were turned over to police officers.

Ex-Governor Whitman was busy presenting evidence to the Grand Jury in the case of other policemen when Commissioner Hirshfield's report was made public. Last night Mr. Whitman said that the report was at variance with the facts as brought out before the Grand Jury. The police records were subpoenaed, he said, and if they were not produced, "somebody at Police Headquarters is guilty of contempt of court."

Lahey was not accused of accepting the $50 gratuity for himself but for Andrews, with whom he was jointly indicted. It was alleged that the 10 per cent. deduction to the pension fund had not been made. The payment was made for the recovery of a touring car owned by Blanche McTrigue.

According to the report, a check for $50 was received at Police Headquarters from the Automobile Underwriters Protective Bureau on June 17, 1920, made payable to Andrews. Inspector Lahey was at that time Second Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the detective division and in due course the check was forwarded to him for his attention.

Favorable Report Made.

Lahey, said Hirshfield, referred the matter to Inspector John J. Cray for report and recommendation, and endorsed his directions on the back of the papers. Cray got Acting Detective Sergeant John Fitzpatrick to make a report on the matter. The report was favorable and Cray recommended to Lahey that the $50 reward, minus the usual deductions, be granted.

Thereupon Deputy Commissioner Lahey referred the matter to Third Deputy Commissioner Joseph A. Faurot and recommended that Andrews be permitted to accept the reward minus the usual deductions. The papers show, according to the report, that Faurot approved the recommendation and transmitted the papers with the check to a bookkeeper of the Police Department. The papers also bear the endorsement of Roger K. Walsh, chief clerk of the Police Department, to the effect that the acceptance of the reward was approved by the Commissioner on condition that the usual deductions be made.

The check, made payable to Andrews, was turned over to him, and the bookkeeper received $25 from Andrews for the relief and pension funds, and the bookkeeper made the appropriate entries in the books of the department. Reproductions of the papers were submitted with the report, which concluded by saying:

"My examination into the facts of other cases in which members of the Auto Squad received rewards has disclosed that the same procedure was followed in all as was in the hereinbefore described Andrews case."

The audit shows that for the year 1919 the police relief fund received $8,881 as its share of awards granted to members of the Police Department, said the Commissioner.

Mr. Whitman's Statement.

When Mr. Hirshfield's statement was read to Mr. Whitman last night he said:

"Subpoenas covering every record of the Police Department regarding the pension and fellow funds as affected by the pay and rewards to policemen were served, and these records were brought to my office and submitted to the Grand Jury. If all of those records have not been produced, then somebody at Police Headquarters is guilty of contempt of court. Sworn testimony of the clerical and uniformed force of the Police Department who were called before the Grand Jury indicates there is no foundation for the report said to have been made today by Mr. Hirshfield, and is at direct variance with the statements made by the Commissioner of Accounts."

The January Grand Jury began the consideration of four new cases yesterday, three of them said to involve policemen and one a former official of the Street Cleaning Department and another city official still in office.

The three cases involving policemen are said to have dealt with alleged grafting in connection with stolen automobiles. The name of a prominent detective is said to have been brought into the case.

Several automobile thieves serving sentences were called as witnesses. Harry Greatbach, who pleaded guilty to automobile thefts before Judge Mulqueen last week, saying he sold the cars to policemen, was a witness. Another was an out-of-town thief who stole a car outside the State, ran down a pedestrian in this city and afterward sold the car for $150, he said, to a policeman who responded to a call that took him to the scene of the accident.

The Judges of General Sessions met late yesterday afternoon in Judge Mulqueen's chambers and considered a suggestion that a special calendar be arranged for the early trial of all cases involving public officials under indictment. An amendment to the court rules was adopted providing that in any case in which a public employe was a defendant there might be a preference given on the calendar.

Women to Pick Candidates.

The New York City League of Women Voters announced yesterday that it had adopted a policy of active participation in the coming municipal election, as a result of a vote of its Assembly district organizations. Under the resolution adopted the league will support actively "whatever candidates may be endorsed by a three-quarters vote of its City Committee," which is composed of the officers and leaders of the organization. The league will make no nominations of its own.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Movement on Stock Exchange—Sterling Higher, Silver Bullion Lower.

Except for further recovery in sterling (which itself may have been merely a speculative turn) yesterday's financial markets gave no evidence of new impressions regarding the larger considerations which will make up this week's news. The stock market was subject to the same manipulative pressure as has been in evidence for two weeks or more, and the only development with any new interest yesterday was the hasty retreat of the speculators for the decline on signs that in one stock they had technically "oversold" their market.

It is plain enough to every one familiar with the circumstances that the "professional sellers" in this episode are the type of operators who press a market with increased recklessness in one direction, whenever the real forces moving it are ceasing to operate. This does not prove that the influences making legitimately for lower prices are no longer in the field; one or two more of the industrial companies passed their dividends today. But the methods and character, both of the speculators and the speculation, have fairly strong resemblance to those which prevailed when a similar group of adventurers, who subsequently came to grief, were conducting the final speculative rise in stocks a year ago this month.

Not much attention was paid in Wall Street to the extremely futile counter-proposition by the Germans on the amount of reparations payment, as reported in the London cables. As an introductory move on the board, something like that was in any case to have been expected. As a whole, financial judgment in the matter remained suspended. No particular resistance was presented to the renewed attacks on various industrial stocks. Their price declined sharply until the discovery that one of those stocks was becoming difficult to borrow for delivery; then a repurchasing movement by the previous sellers put up prices again.

The railway shares were rather generally weak. This was commonly ascribed to the Interstate Commerce Commission's refusal to permit the issue of bonds by the Burlington & Quincy as a dividend, through which its shareholders, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern companies, might take up their own bonds which they issued in 1901 to buy control of the Burlington. The recourse would have been convenient and the Burlington has a surplus which might legitimately be distributed. Yet a mortgage bond carries a foreclosure lien upon a property, and the issue of such securities without the obtaining of any tangible assets in return has not commended itself to conservative finance.

The Government's statement of our January foreign trade by countries of origin or destination has the interest which must attach to the change in balance of exports and imports between the different nations at a time of world-wide fall in prices, and at a time when maintenance by Europe of her exports to the United States is imperative in the settlement of trade indebtedness. The statement shows, for one thing, that whereas our total surplus of exports over imports was larger by $189,000,000 last January than in the same month of 1920, the export surplus in our trade with Europe was $90,000,000 smaller. As compared with December our total January export trade decreased $66,000,000, whereas our shipments to Europe alone decreased $63,000,000.

Our imports from all the outside world were $57,000,000 less than in December, but our imports from Europe decreased only $7,900,000. That is to say, the fall in prices and the business reaction operated favorably to Europe in her January trade with us. Another of yesterday's Washington statements showed that, out of the month's $66,000,000 decrease in exports as compared with the month before, $65,000,000 is accounted for in the agricultural products exported. In other words, January's shipment of non-agricultural goods (chiefly manufactures) was almost exactly the same in value as in December. A similar comparison shows that non-agricultural exports were actually $11,000,000 greater than in January, 1920.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling Advances 1⅛ Cents, Smaller Rise in Other European Rates.

Business on the foreign exchange market developed support for sterling at the outset. No attention appeared to be paid to dispatches from the London conference, but buying was moderately strong all day. Sterling sold at one time 1⅛ cents above Monday's closing and 2½ cents over Saturday. Most other Continental rates, including those on Central Europe, followed the movement; Paris reaching 7.24 cents per franc, as against 7.13 at last week's close, and Berlin 1.63½ cents per mark, against 1.58. Rates on Denmark and Norway were slightly lower than Monday.

Argentine and Brazilian exchange closed ⅛ cent lower. The Montreal rate was 87.7 cents, against 86.6 Monday and 87.5 Saturday.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market and the News.

There was much in the news developments yesterday which had an unfavorable influence on the stock market. The passing of dividends, poor annual statements of earnings of industrial companies, the none too favorable statement of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the latest developments at the allied conference in London, all helped the downward movement during the early part of the day. Toward the close, however, there was a partial recovery, but in general lower prices were in the majority. On the whole, the market gave a very irregular appearance, there being many cross currents visible. Crucible Steel, for instance, moved against the trend throughout, as a result of the large short interest in the stock. It was reported that the stock was 1 per cent. premium bid in the stock loan crowd. American Woolen advanced in spite of a poor annual statement of earnings. The recovery, however, was due to the declaration of the regular dividends. Consolidated Gas also was higher, as were a few specialties. The railroad list was weak, the declines in the various issues being larger than in the industrials, with the exception of General Asphalt, which broke 8¾ points.

Iron Trade Continues Stagnent.

In connection with the expected reduction in steel prices, the statement of conditions in the iron trade as viewed by the Matthew Addy Company is interesting. The review states that "a year ago there was not enough iron, coal, coke, railroad cars or labor to meet the needs of the country. Today most of the iron furnaces are shut down, coke ovens are out, half the coal mines are idle, railroad empties block the side tracks and unemployment is growing. There are as many people in the country, their needs are as great as ever and money is abundant, but confidence is lacking. People will not buy. They are awaiting ostensibly for lower prices, but when lower prices are made that does not start things. It is distinctly a waiting market—waiting for something to happen that does not show any signs of immediately coming to pass."

Consolidated Gas Advances.

Consolidated Gas was one of the few stocks which ended the day with a net advance. This was the result of the court decision yesterday, which permits the company to advance the price for its output. For several years the company has been reporting deficits from the operation of its gas plants, due to the high cost of oil, labor and other items which enter into the costs of manufacturing gas. It has been able to maintain, however, the regular dividend of 7 per cent annually due to the large income it receives from its main subsidiary, the New York Edison Company. Under the new arrangement, however, the company will be able to report much better earnings, and it was this that Wall Street took into consideration yesterday. Also, in view of the fact that the Consolidated Gas Company is receiving relief to offset mounting costs and that numerous other public utility companies throughout the country have received some measure of relief, Wall Street hopes that the day may not be far off when the local traction companies will be relieved from some of their current burdens.

Three Important Meetings.

Three important meetings of railroad executives will be held in New York this week, and it is expected that statements will be issued at their conclusion which will be of importance in helping to solve the railroad labor wage situation. Tomorrow the full Labor Committee of the Association of Railway Executives will meet, on Friday morning the Standing Committee of the association will meet, and in the afternoon there will be a member road meeting in the board room of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. No formal announcement has been made of the program to be discussed, but the belief is general that the labor situation will receive the largest share of attention.

Northern Pacific Oil Rumors.

Rumors that Northern Pacific is considering a segregation of its railroad and potential oil properties, the latter lying almost wholly in the State of Montana, persisted yesterday, and in some stock market quarters it was held that a definite announcement regarding such action would be made soon. That the proving up of various areas in Montana which are believed to contain oil would probably enhance the value of properties owned by the Northern Pacific is the general understanding. This is based on the fact that the company owns about 2,647,000 acres of land on either side of its main line, from the eastern to the western borders of the State, such property touching or nearly touching most of the points where oil development has been carried on. Some time ago it was learned officially that the company had been considering a separation of its railroad and potential oil properties. That an announcement of such action is not far off was the general opinion yesterday.

Denver Preferred Recovers Slightly.

There was a fractional recovery yesterday in the price for Denver & Rio Grand preferred shares, following publication of dispatches from St. Louis that only the appeal of the Stockholders' Committee from a decision of the lower court, which blocked their effort to intervene in the sale of the property on its order, had been denied. On March 5 a bill in equity which has been filed by the stockholders will be heard, and a later decision is expected on the question of confirmation of the sale of the property to cover the $38,000,000 judgment obtained some years ago by Western Pacific bondholders.

Burlington Plans.

Every banker in Wall Street, excepting only those who have been working on the actual business, has a plan for the solution of the Burlington financing. Also it is a bit surprising how many knew the Interstate Commerce Commission was going to refuse approval of the plan, considering that so few of them disclosed this information prior to the decision. The bankers who have the matter in hand are not so confident of finding a new scheme which will pass muster with the commission, but, of course, they are going ahead in an effort to find one and are hoping for the best. How soon a plan will be submitted is not known, probably not even to the railroad managements concerned and their bankers, but it is expected that within a reasonably short time a scheme will be forwarded to Washington. The bankers feel they must act rapidly, for after the commission spent four months in deciding to disapprove the former plan, there is no telling how long will be required to approve a plan.

Farm Loan Bonds.

The Supreme Court decision, which apparently establishes the tax-exempt features of farm loan bonds, is still a matter of speculation. Bankers here have yet to receive official copies of the decision, so that it is not known exactly what the court decided. As for the statement from the Farm Loan Bureau that something like $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be needed within the next thirty days, that is something else. New farm loan bonds, as it is understood here, may be sold on no better than a 5 per cent. basis, which is to say, 5 per cent. bonds at par, and existing issues of these securities are now quoted on about a 5¼ per cent. basis. As bankers view the situation here, either the act authorizing the issuance of the bonds will have to be changed to allow of a higher yield or the Government will have to take the bonds at the present rate.

STEEL PAPER DENIES WILLIAMS'S CHARGES

Cites Government Control of Prices During War to Refute Accusations of Profiteering.

CALLS PRICE CUT DANGEROUS

$25 a Ton Reduction Demanded by Controller Would Have Cost One Concern $19,000,000.

The first direct answer to the attacks made by Controller of the Currency Williams against the United States Steel Corporation in regard to the latter's policy in refusing to reduce steel prices at this time appears in an editorial printed in The Daily Metal Reporter headed "Controller of Currency, or Controller of Steel—Which?" This publication is looked upon as an authority in steel trade circles, and it is known to express the opinion of some of the leaders in the industry.

"When the Hon. John Skelton Williams, Controller of Currency, sent his report to Congress the early part of February and dubbed it his 'seventh and last,'" the editorial says, "the wearied public breathed a sigh of relief and believed that it was literally his last. Apparently it was not his last, and for reasons which only he himself can explain he suddenly decided to blossom forth as a 'Controller of Steel' instead of Currency.

"This is not his first attack on the corporation, and the frequency with which they have come makes one wonder what hidden motives are actuating his altruistic desire to champion the rights of the public and the downtrodden consumers."

The publication goes on to say that "As to Mr. Williams's charges of profiteering during the war, as a Government official he should know that during that period all steel prices were regulated by the War Industries Board and since the war one has but to look to the Summer of 1920 and compare prices prevailing in the open market with those quoted by the United States Steel Corporation, to account for the universal policy of Judge Gary's policy."

It is further stated that "if price changes or wage adjustments are necessary they will be quickly made as he [Judge Gary] knows better than to sacrifice the interests of the greatest corporation of its kind in the world, on the altar of high prices.

"Mr. Williams has a fixed idea that the corporation is making too much money. What he apparently would enjoy most would be to bring the iron and steel industry back to the period of cutthroat competition which he fails to realize is as dangerous from an economic standpoint as is inflated steel values.

"We hope that our newly elected President in appointing a new Controller of Currency will definitely define the scope of his duties, which, as far as we understand at present does not include the control of iron and steel. The public is getting heartily sick of attacks of this character."

Although there has been no leading official of the steel companies who has been willing to comment publicly on Mr. Williams's letter for fear their comment will be regarded as biased, there have been a few who have commented privately. One independent steel manufacturer yesterday was quoted as follows:

"The attack was an unfortunate incident, inasmuch as the influence exerted was misleading and destructive. It was destructive, because confidence is weakened when one of such prominence makes the sweeping assertion that steel prices could be reduced $25 a ton, viewed from the angle of what the Controller thought one steel company might do, without giving consideration to what would be the effect on the steel trade as a whole or on labor and transportation.

"As an illustration, take the Republic Iron and Steel Company, which is one of the low cost producers of the independent group. With a reduction of $25 in its average selling prices for the year 1920, the company would have lost over $19,000,000 instead of earning, as it did, approximately $7,600,000, or the equivalent of about 8 per cent. on its total invested capital, certainly not an unreasonable profit."

GIVE SAO PAULO LOAN DATA.

$10,000,000 Issue to Be Offered at 97½, to Yield 8.47 Per Cent.

Final details of the offering of $10,000,000 Sao Paulo fifteen-year sinking fund gold bonds were made public last night by the banking syndicate composed of Speyer & Co., the Equitable Trust Company, Blair & Co., Inc.; Ladenburg, Thalman & Co.; Cassatt & Co. of Philadelphia, and the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

The issue will be offered at 97½ and interest and will yield at least 8.47 per cent. to maturity. The $10,000,000 offering in the United States will be coincident with an offering of £2,000,000 bonds in London by Baring Brothers & Co., Ltd.; N. M. Rothschild & Sons and J. Henry Schroeder & Co., and 18,000,000 guilder bonds in Amsterdam by Lippman, Rosenthal & Co. and Rotterdamsche Bankvereeniging.

The bonds are a direct external obligation of the most important commercial State in Brazil, and will be additionally secured by a first charge on the surtax of 5 francs a bag on all coffee exported from the State subject to certain Governmental deductions operative until Aug. 1, 1924, after which the entire surtax will be available for the loan.

RUBBER DIVIDEND PASSED.

The Miller Company Fails to Make Preferred Payment for First Time.

Directors of the Miller Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, have passed the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, generally declared at this time. Three months ago the Directors ordered a dividend of $2 a share. This is the first time that the preferred dividend has been omitted. Early in January the common stock dividend was reduced from $2 to $1 a share. The company issued a statement which said in part:

"In closing the books it was deemed advisable to give full effect to and charge off entire shrinkage representing difference between cost of raw materials and market value, and also to reduction in value of goods in process and finished merchandise on hand, as well as settlement for cancellation of certain rubber contracts.

"Shrinkage in inventories on this basis aggregated $3,193,086 and payments in settlement of contracts were $215,951, a total of $3,409,037. Net profit before the charge-off amounted to $2,791,158. After all charge-offs the loss for the year, together with premiums paid on old preferred stock, resulted in a deficit of $735,016."

Total bonded debt, this issue only....................	1,500,000

Hidalgo County Water Improvement District Number Two, situated about forty-five miles northwest of Brownsville, includes 69,438 acres, of which about 80% is now improved and being cultivated. The improvements within the District evidence its prosperity. The population (including Pharr, San Juan and Alamo, located within the District but not part thereof for taxation purposes) is estimated at 10,000. The ownership is well diversified, there being approximately 1,500 landowners. The staple crops are corn, cotton, alfalfa, etc., while a variety of truck crops are raised in season. This section of the State enjoys a growing crop season of twelve months in the year and prices above the average are obtained, because the crops mature each about three weeks ahead of those in other parts of the country. Land values range from $175 to over $500 per acre, depending upon the location and type of improvements. The average value is conservatively estimated at $300 per acre for the entire District. The Gulf Coast Lines traverse the center of the District.

These Bonds, forming a portion of a total authorized issue of $1,500,000, are payable by a DIRECT UNLIMITED AD VALOREM TAX assessed against all taxable property in the District, both real and personal, and were authorized by a vote of more than two-thirds of the property-owning taxpayers residing within the District. Their purpose is to provide funds for the purchase of a water distributing system, formerly owned by private capital, and additional cash for the improvement thereof. The major part of this system has been in successful operation for ten years.

1920 SALES HIGHEST OF CHANDLER MOTOR

Total Increased 30 Per Cent. Over 1919, to $38,757,501—Net Profits $4,213,000.

CAPITAL STOCK EARNED $15

Previous Year's Profits Were $5,652,000 and Shares Paid $26.

The report of the Chandler Motor Car Company for 1920 shows gross profits of $9,440,000, as compared with $6,650,000 in 1919. Net profits after all deductions, including depreciation of inventory and reserves for taxes, amounted to $4,213,000, which was equivalent to about $15 per share on the 280,000 shares of capital stock issued at the close of last year. In 1919 the company's profits amounted to $5,652,000, which was equal to $26.92 per share on the 210,000 shares outstanding at the close of that year.

The amount reserved for taxes for 1920 was $2,428,250, while the amount written off for loss in inventory was $736,139. The company also established a loss of $165,702 last year through the sale of Liberty bonds.

In the general balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1920, inventories are carried at $6,524,000, as compared with $4,302,000 in 1919. Cash on hand increased to $940,000 from $66,541. The profit and loss surplus at the end of 1920 amounted to $5,971,000, as against $7,225,000 in 1919, but the total at the end of 1919 was figured before allowances for Federal taxes, whereas the surplus at the end of 1920 is after providing for this item.

F. C. Chandler, President of the company, in his remarks to stockholders said:

"The year of 1920 developed many unusual and abnormal conditions. During the early part of the year, production was made difficult, due to the fact that producers of raw material were generally oversold, and furthermore, the railroad companies were totally unable to furnish sufficient transportation facilities to bring raw material to our shops. Consequently, many emergency methods had to be brought into use to permit the factory to keep up operations. Regardless of these unusual conditions, your company was fortunate in having been able to increase the total sales for the year from $27,866,967.13 in 1919, which was the largest previous production year, to $38,757,501.89 in 1920, this being an increase of 39 per cent. in the total sales.

"Business prospects seem to have improved considerably since Jan. 1, 1921, and we are hopeful that this year will again be one of considerable profit to the stockholders. Our present facilities place us in a position to take immediate advantage of any improvement in trade as fast it may come, and it will not be necessary to make any further extensive improvements or extensions in the plant to properly care for a very large volume of business."

COPPER DIVIDEND PASSED.

Kennecott Corporation Reports Light Demand for Three Months.

Directors of the Kennecott Copper Corporation have passed the quarterly dividend. Three months ago they declared a dividend of $1 a share.

In connection with the passing of the dividend the Directors issued the following statement:

"Owing to the extremely light demand for copper and the consequent inability to dispose of its product, the Directors believe that the best interests of the corporation are being served by passing the disbursement for the current quarter."

FEBRUARY TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of February aggregated 10,146,705 shares, a decrease of 5,829,553 shares, as compared with the previous month, and of 11,582,899 shares, as compared with the same month last year. TAX RATE IS APPROVED BY ALDERMEN, 44 TO 10

LaGuardia Opposes It After Citing Exemption Opinion by Acting Corporation Counsel.

After the report of the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments fixing the tax rate for the city for 1921 had been received yesterday by the Finance Committee, the Aldermen, in special session, adopted it. The vote was 44 to 10, President LaGuardia, Alderman August Ferrand, leader of the Republicans, and the four Socialist members voting against it. The rate for the five boroughs is: Manhattan, 2.77; Bronx, 2.84; Brooklyn, 2.80; Queens, 2.85, and Richmond, 2.83.

The report shows that of the budget of $345,530,039.77, the amount allowed for city purposes is $251,046,938.77 and for county purposes $10,029,22.96, a total of $261,076,161.73 for city and county expenditures.

President LaGuardia called the board's attention to a letter from George P. Nicholson, Acting Corporation Counsel, that the tax exemption ordinance passed by the Aldermen and concurred in by the Board of Estimate would not become effective until Oct. 1, 1921, and consequently the exemption would not affect this year's tax rate, but the rate for next year.

President LaGuardia said he asked for the opinion to obviate the chance that the rate for this year might be erroneous.

"If the opinion of the Corporation Counsel is correct that the tax exemption of $1,000 a room up to five rooms on all dwellings constructed since April, 1920, and to continue to 1922, does not begin until October, 1921, then the tax rolls are correct," he said.

AMERICAN CIGAR EARNS LESS

Pays $12.59 on Preferred Stock, Against $15.75 Last Year.

The annual report of the American Cigar Company for 1920, as published yesterday, shows net earnings, after deductions of all charges and Federal taxes, of $2,489,869, which, after the payment of preferred dividends, amounts to $12.59 a share on the $15,000,000 common stock outstanding. In the previous year the company earned $2,175,799, equal to $15.75 a share.

The general balance sheet, as of Dec. 31, 1920, shows an inventory account valued at $19,208,608, compared to $17,288,561 the year before. Cash on hand amounted to $1,927,173, against $1,525,602. On the liabilities side there was a reduction in the profit and loss surplus from $13,218,715 in 1919 to $9,308,584 at the close of last year, due chiefly to an increase of $5,000,000 in the amount of common stock outstanding, that stock having been distributed in form of a stock dividend last year.

TOBACCO CO. EARNS 8%.

Products Corporation's Net Income Is $2,023,882, or $8.79 Per Share.

The annual report of the Tobacco Products Corporation for 1920 shows earnings of 8.8 per cent. on the common stock after providing for excess profits taxes of $200,000. The statement shows net income of $2,023,882. This includes a loss of $102,582 on Liberty bonds sold by the company, which is not chargeable as an operating expense. After provision for preferred dividends of $560,000, this would leave a balance of $8.79 a share on the 176,000 shares of common.

This does not take into consideration 12,000 shares of common issued to acquire 6,000 shares of American Tobacco "B" common. These shares were not issued until the latter part of the year and the $18,000 scrip dividend received on them is deducted in making the estimate.

Intertype Earns $402,282, a Record.

The Intertype Corporation in its report for last year shows profits after taxes of $402,282, the highest ever recorded in the history of the company. In the preceding year profits were $303,824. Profits have been computed after liberal allowances for depreciation.

AMERICAN LINSEED ISSUES STATEMENT

VOLUME OF SALES GREATER

But $3,571,790 Is Written Off on Inventories—Retiring Directors Are Re-elected.

The statement of the American Linseed Company for the fifteen months ended Dec. 31, 1920, shows profits of $13,319,045, compared with $11,025,776 in the year ended Sept. 30, 1919. The company hereafter will issue its annual report as of Dec. 31. Net profits for the fifteen months amounted to $1,764,765, or $3.53 a share on the common stock, after allowing for preferred dividends. In the year ended Sept. 30, 1919, net profits were $3,855,827, or equivalent to $16.02 a share.

	15 Mos. Ended Dec. 31, 1920.	Year Ended Sept. 30, 1919.
Expenses	7,080,448	6,696,534
Inventory adjustm't.	3,571,790	......
Interest	902,042	473,415
Net income	$1,764,765	$3,855,827

R. H. Adams, President of the company, told stockholders:

"We have not written up any paper profits and have made our inventories at replacement values which has necessitated writing off $3,571,790. In the company's food products, and particularly in the nucoa butter sales, it has shown a very substantial increase. Volume of sales for the last six months of 1920 was nearly 50 per cent. greater than the same period of the previous year."

The stockholders yesterday re-elected the retiring Directors. Mr. Adams made the following statement:

"During the last year there have been many statements in the daily papers in regard to negotiations between the American Linseed Company and Lever Brothers. While it is true that negotiations have been pending, they have never reached the stage where it was proper to present them to the stockholders; and until they reach such a stage it seems unwise to make any statement with regard to them, especially as it is still uncertain whether any final agreement will be reached."

NORTH AMERICAN CO. GAINS.

Net for Year Increased Almost $1,000,000—Surplus Larger.

The income account of the North American Company and subsidiaries for last year, as contained in a report just issued, shows a considerable improvement over the preceding year. Gross for 1920 was $39,611,162, compared with $30,343,837, and net income increased from $8,739,638 to $9,500,811. After charges and preferred dividends there was a balance available for depreciation, common dividends and surplus amounting to $5,396,288. In the preceding year this was $4,580,701. Harrison Williams, Chairman of the Executive Committee, in his report to shareholders said in part:

"Business conditions throughout the territories served by the subsidiary companies were favorable during the early part of the year, but the business depression which then ensued caused a suspension of industrial activity to a considerable extent, with resultant lessening of use of all classes of utility services. At the close of the year, however, there were indications that a gradual improvement may reasonably be expected."

CALL BETHLEHEM MOTOR AFFAIRS 'DISCOURAGING'

Stockholders' Committee Reports Liabilities Exceed Assets by $536,977.

The Bethlehem Motors Corporation Stockholders Committee, after making an investigation of the affairs of the company, has sent a statement to the shareholders which follows, in part:

"The committee has examined a 'report on examination of account' of Aug. 25, 1920, and this report and information which has been obtained from other sources is most discouraging. Assets taken over by the receiver for the company consist of total assets of $4,396,707, of which $2,685,567 are considered current assets. Total liabilities all of which are current, are $3,222,544.

"Seriousness of the situation from viewpoint of stockholders is indicated by an analysis of the statement. The corporation's liabilities amounted to $3,322,548, against which is had only $620,963 of readily liquid assets. Value of inventory (which under recent and present condition of automobile industry must be regarded as far from readily liquid) was $2,064,003. Accepting the inventory at that figure and assuming it to be readily liquid, current liabilities exceed current assets by $536,977.

"The committee frankly states that in face of the figures the situation is discouraging, but it is not without hope that if conditions in the industry change for the better and proper management and adequate working capital can be obtained, a reorganization or adjustment can be had which will materially improve the present situation of the stockholders."

Third Avenue System Shows Deficit

The comparative statement of income of the Third Avenue Railway system for January shows a deficit of $120,628 after total deductions from gross income, as compared with a deficit of $74,766 in January, 1920. In the month total operating revenues increased $135,454 over the preceding year, but this was more than offset by an increase in total operating expenses of $163,231 over January, 1920.

Cut Prices on Yorkshire Pig Iron.

LONDON, March 1.—The pig iron producers of the Cleveland district of Yorkshire, in order to make a bold bid for a revival of the industry, which is in a state of stagnation, have made a record cut in prices of all Cleveland pig iron amounting to 45 shillings a ton. East coast hematite has been reduced 40 shillings and steel prices are expected to follow.

ADVISES C., B. & Q. HOLDERS.

Objector to Bond Issue Says They Need Not Suffer by I. C. C. Decision.

Robert J. Frank, a minority stockholder of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway Company, who opposed the proposed issue by the road of bonds to be distributed as a dividend, commenting on the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission against such issue, said yesterday:

"In event that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway Companies are now unable to perfect plans for refunding so-called C., B. & Q. joint 4s when they become due, without the aid of the Burlington company, holders of these bonds need not necessarily suffer any loss in consequence of the I. C. C. decision. On the contrary, if these bondholders act collectively they may avail themselves of the provision in collateral trust agreements whereby C., B. & Q. stock pledged thereunder can be appropriated by holders of joint bonds. Such course would avoid any financial disturbance, and not unnecessarily embarrass either of the northern lines.

"It is my opinion that a merger or consolidation of Great Northern with the Burlington system should now be undertaken."

Walter S. McLucas, for the last four years President of the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City, Mo., has been elected as a Vice President of the National City Bank, according to an announcement made yesterday.

FUNDAMENTAL RESOURCES

America is endowed by nature with many soils, and many resources. She is fundamentally sound in her institutions and firmly entrenched in her possession of the basic essentials of life and happiness. From her mountains and plains, her forests and seacoasts, spring those things that are needed by the world.

Prosperity, like the tide, rises and ebbs, but the wealth of this country is the wealth that endures and cannot be long depreciated by surface influences. This bank has dealt for 65 years with those engaged in developing the fundamental resources of the nation, and has confidence in the strength of the land and the enterprise of her people.

Have You Sold Any Capital Assets?

DURING the taxable year, did you sell any land, buildings, machinery, investments, or other capital assets? If so, what precautions are you taking in preparing your income tax return, pending the Supreme Court's decision as to the taxability of profits from such sales?

The Treasury Department's instructions, as you know—both on the return form and in Regulations 45—require such profits to be included in taxable income. No intimation is given of any other possibility.

Two Federal District Courts, however, have held that such profits are not income taxable as such. What are you doing to safeguard your rights?

As you reach this question in preparing your return, would it not be a convenience—to say the least—to find the court cases cited, the points at issue summarized, and definite suggestions given as to what may be done?

To supply such information at the time when it is of most value—the critical moment of filling out the line or schedule of the return—is the purpose of the Sinclair-Murray "Explanatory Income Tax Returns," the preparation of which has just been completed under the direction of Judge T. T. Ansberry, of Washington, D. C.

Specimen returns are shown, filled out for Corporations, Partnerships, Individuals, and Banks; and on these returns as a basis, the almost innumerable points that must be considered in preparing each return are systematized, summarized, and explained. At the same time, a most convenient method is given for the technical process of filling out the return.

Questions of inventories, improvements on leased land, salary deductions, invested capital—and all other questions that are likely to arise—are brought to attention in proper sequence and settled in accordance with the latest regulations and decisions.

Take, for example, the question mentioned above—that of profits from the sale of capital assets. In our analysis of Line 22 of Form 1120 you will find the following suggestions:

". . . The taxpayer may adopt one of two methods in treating such profits in his return. First, he may include such profits in Line 22, Schedule A, attaching to his return a protest against such inclusion. Such protest will preserve the right of the taxpayer to bring suit against the Government in case the Supreme Court subsequently holds that such profits are not income. . . .

"Second, the taxpayer may exclude such profits from income, attaching to the return an explanation setting forth the amount of such profits and stating that he is excluding such profits from income on authority of the Federal District Court of Connecticut in the case of Brewster vs. Walsh. Such an explanation will protect the taxpayer from the penalty for negligence in case the Supreme Court holds that such profits are income. . . . If the decisions are against the Government, profits on sales of capital assets will not need to be reported as income. In addition, claims for refund may be filed if such profits were reported as income in any prior year."

Market Position Of the Motor and Tire Stocks

We have prepared a special bulletin touching on the present position of the automobile industry and making comparison between the stock market decline of the motor and tire stocks in 1917 and the drastic setback of last year.

The recovery from the 1917 low level was sharp and decisive. The present situation may be an exact parallel.

To those interested we shall be glad to send a copy of Bulletin T-44 just for the asking.

Three Days at St. Louis Auction Show, Each, More Than $1,000,000 in Bids.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—The International Fur Exchange sales today totaled $1,300,000. This made the third successive day to run over a million dollars in receipts, and brought the total for the entire period close to the $8,000,000 mark.

The day's selling opened with a leftover lot of 79,579 red fox. These sold at 25 per cent. decline from May's prices, the highest figure reached being $31. At the afternoon session 641 thibet skins sold at prices ranging from $1.70 to $1.80, and 166,356 dog mats, at from 20 cents to $1.05. The decline in the prices of dog mats since May was announced as 70 per cent.

All the thibet robes and the china dog robes listed in the order of sale were withdrawn. The largest item in the muskrat sale was the brown rats, to the number of 646,096, which brought prices 50 per cent. below those of May. Extra large Spring rats were sold at $2.25.

At tomorrow's session the offerings will be of 31,742 black muskrats, 338,303 Southern muskrats, 109,901 seal dyed muskrats, 2,102 seal dyed plates and 23,159 beaver. This will complete the Tuesday schedule.

OIL COMPANIES ACTIVE.

Big Concerns Enter Market for Output Again, According to the West.

The large oil companies have again come into the market to buy up output, according to statements coming from the West. The Magnolia Petroleum Company has resumed taking 100 per cent. of the oil produced from the properties along its pipe lines, it is reported, and the Gulf Pipe Line, a subsidiary of the Gulf Oil Company, is said to have taken similar action.

It was stated that much of the new financing undertaken by some of the big oil refineries was to add to the supplies of oil on hand, on the theory that as Spring begins there will be a renewed demand for oil products, especially gasoline. Only a few weeks ago an entirely new company was formed by one of the biggest producers in the mid-continent field for buying and storing oil, the organizers being of the opinion that before the end of the year there would be an oil shortage and that prices would again advance.

Gross revenues for the month increased $152,956 as compared with January, 1920, and expenses of operation and taxes increased $59,236.

READING SEGREGATION PLAN IS ATTACKED

Counsel for Holders of Some Common Stock Makes Objection to Proposal.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Counsel for committee representing holders of common stock of the Reading Company presented today at a hearing before Judges Buffington, Davis and Woolley of the Federal Circuit Court petitions for leave to intervene, and suggestions for modification of the plan recently presented for segregation of the corporations controlled by the Reading.

The Reading Company has been ordered by the United States Supreme Court to divert itself of all interest in the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, Central Railroad of New Jersey and Lehigh Valley and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company.

J. D. White, appearing for one group of holders of common stock, said that the effect of carrying out the dissolution plan would be to distribute to the preferred stockholders ratably per share with the common stockholders, a surplus of more than $33,000,000 accumulated by the Reading Company for undivided net profits, whereas under the contract between holders of the first and second preferred stocks and those holding common stock all such surplus, with the exception of a small part which might be claimed for dividends during years when money was earned but not fully paid, belonged to holders of the common stock.

He held that, as the Reading company under the decree must divest itself of assets, and under the dissolution plan will receive considerations which fall short of the value of these assets by an amount approximating the surplus, it appeared necessary to eliminate the surplus or reduce the capital stock. He asked a modification of the dissolution plan providing that the company reduce its capital stock.

Thomas Raeburn, White, appearing for Mr. and Mrs. William B. Kurtz, owners of a large block of stock, asked permission to file a petition to intervene.

C. C. Leffingwell of New York, appearing for the railroad, and A. F. Myers, representing the Federal Attorney General, agreed in general to the segregation plan.

N. Y. C. TO MEET LABORERS.

Will Confer March 8 on Question of Cut in Pay.

It was stated officially for the New York Central Lines yesterday that reports that the company had arranged a conference March 8 with representatives of their 30,000 unskilled laborers at which the question of a reduction in pay would be discussed were correct.

The appeal of W. W. Atterbury, Chairman of the Labor Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, before the Labor Board in Chicago last month was for the abrogation of national agreements and an immediate reduction in the basic wages paid to unskilled labor. This rate has been established as the result of Federal control at 48½ cents an hour and does not correspond with rates paid by industries outside of the roads in some territories.

The conference announced by the New York Central is in compliance with the Transportation act.

FILE LARGE MORTGAGE.

Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation Registers $500,000,000 Deed.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 1.—Representing a lien on the various parcels of real estate owned by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, a $500,000,000 mortgage and deed of trust was filed with Register Edward Bauer at the Union County Courthouse, yesterday.

Attorneys connected with the loan said this afternoon that the mortgage is merely one of financing which was begun two and a half years ago, when the consolidated mortgage for the shipbuilding and other companies concerned, was taken out. That mortgage was taken out under the authorization of a $500,000,000 loan, but so far has involved bonds to the extent of about $600,000. It was said at the office of the attorneys that it was probable that nothing would be done further in the matter until 1925, and that the filing of the copy of the mortgage at Elizabeth was of no significance or public interest. It was filed because copies of such mortgages must be filed in every county in which the real estate is located.

Chamber to Report on Packers.

Reports on the Federal regulation of industries, and the packing industry particularly, will be presented tomorrow by Eugenius H. Outerbridge at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. Other reports also will be submitted.

COTTON MARKET UP HERE AND ABROAD

Liverpool Advances 28-39, Home 61-75 in Overdue Recovery.

The cotton market turned upward yesterday, and during the rise there was a good deal said about the improved situation, the probability of an early settlement of the reparations, better demand from the trade, and so forth, and some of the trade tried to make themselves believe that all of these things were having an influence on the higher prices. But, giving due regard to these considerations, it must be admitted that the market was long overdue for an advance. And this is considering merely the technical position and the fact that it had been going down steadily since Feb. 15.

Thus, it may be questioned how much the news budget had to do with yesterday's recovery. The improvement started at Liverpool, and this gave color to the "better reparations outlook" theory. But Liverpool had lost 205 to more than 240 points since the middle of last month for futures, and 214 points for spots.

As for our own market, future prices here had gone down, beginning with Feb. 15, 302 to 325 points to Monday low levels. At the high points yesterday Liverpool was up 28 to 39 points, and our market was up 61 to 75 points from the extreme lows. So it would seem that the recovery yesterday was a technical matter. It may have been something more, but evidence that it was is entirely lacking, and certainly no observer could be convinced that it was anything more than that which yesterday's market disclosed.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

SENTIMENT BULLISH IN CHICAGO WHEAT

Failure of Decline, in the Face of Bearish News, May Be Symptomatic of Reaction.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Bullish sentiment prevailed among a majority of operators on the Curb after the close, the failure of the wheat market to maintain declines in the face of the bearish news being a factor. The private reports on farm reserves of 192,500,000 bushels, when analyzed, indicated that, at the outside, there remain only 50,000,000 bushels for export during the last four months of the crop year, after allowing 70,000,000 bushels for carryover. Around 20,000,000 bushels are estimated as already sold for export and still unshipped, and there is more or less export business passing all the time, the quantities sold today being reported at 800,000 bushels, including 400,000 on the Pacific Coast to Germany at $1.80 c. i. f. Italy took 400,00 bushels via the Gulf.

Nothing is being heard regarding bug damage in the Southwest, although weather conditions were favorable for their development. Hessian fly exists in the soft Winter wheat States; but taken as a whole, the general run of crop reports is distinctly favorable. The statistical position, however, is coming in for more and more attention, and several of the leading commission houses, which have been on the bear side for some time, have changed their position. As yet the public is out o fthe market and sharp reactions are witnessed every few days. As an over-bought condition develops quickly, the bears are unable to hold the declines for the same reason.

Wheat prices fluctuated rapidly within a range of 2⅛ cents and closed with March unchanged and May 1⅛ cents higher, the spread at the last being 8⅝ cents, against 11⅛ at one time yesterday. Houses with seaboard connections bought the March, while the leading holders sold. There were also selling of March and buying of May by commission houses. Kansas City offered cash wheat to come to Chicago, at 2½ cents over March, with March price bid. Minneapolis dark, No. 3 Northern, was offered at 8 cents under March on a full delivery basis. Deliveries on March contracts today were 55,000 bushels wheat and 15,000 bushels of corn.

Total from reserves of corn on March 1 were 1,456,000,000 bushels, or 385,000,000 bushels more than last year; of oats 600,000,000, or 178,000,000 bushels in excess of a year ago. While these reports were bearish, the disappearance of corn during the last four months has been 1,906,000,000 bushels, the largest on record and 20,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1912-13 season, when the previous record crop was raised. Corn closed ⅝@⅞ cents and oats ⅛@⅜ cents higher, with a much more favorable feeling toward the buying side, due mainly to the fact that the markets had failed to decline despite large receipts. Country offerings of all grains are light, with field work progressing rapidly. Seeding of oats is on in Illinois and Nebraska, and some Spring wheat is being seeded in Southern Minnesota.

Primary points received 737,000 bushels wheat, against 656,000 last year; a week ago was a holiday. Shipments were 414,000; last year, 446,000.

Corn receipts were 1,770,000; year ago, 1,179,000, and shipments, 1,052,000; year ago, 566,000.

Today's Chicago prices for the principal commodities were as follows:

2 SHOT AND DYING AFTER A WEDDING

Battle in Street Believed to Have Been Sequel to Quarrel at Celebration.

YOUTH SHOT BY WATCHMAN

Bath Beach Resident Surprises Burglar, Who Wounds Him After He Throws Up Hands.

Two men were shot and probably will die as the result of a fight at 10 o'clock last night in East Thirty-ninth Street between First and Second Avenues. The police believe the shooting was the outcome of a quarrel a short time before at a wedding in a tenement near by.

John Mulcahey, proprietor of a garage in East Thirty-ninth Street near Second Avenue, told detectives that he was in his garage when he heard six pistol shots. He ran into the street and found Michael Ciccotto, 44 years old, of 317 East Thirty-ninth Street, and an unidentified Italian lying on the sidewalk in front of the tenement at 316 East Thirty-ninth Street.

The unidentified man was dying from two bullet wounds in his head, and Ciccotto, who was barely conscious, had a wound in the right temple. Mulcahey said he telephoned from his office to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station for detectives, and when he returned to the wounded men Ciccotto had lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mulcahey said he saw half a dozen men running toward First Avenue when he ran out of his garage, and he believed they were concerned in the shooting. The detectives summoned an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. Dr. Folks said the men would die, and hurried them to the hospital.

John Keenan, 60 years old, of 1,859 Second Avenue, a watchman, in the yard of the Farrell Coal Company, East River and Ninety-fourth Street, shortly after 8 o'clock last night shot and dangerously wounded Bernard McGuire, 23 years old, of 789 Columbus Avenue. The watchman said McGuire was one of four men he had discovered attempting to steal coal in the yard.

The watchman said that when he encountered the men McGuire struck him in the face with his first, and in the scuffle that followed he shot McGuire in the side. Policeman O'Donnell heard the shot and ran to the coal yard in time to see three men disappear over a fence.

McGuire was taken to the Metropolitan Hospital. Keenan, who had a permit to carry a pistol, was locked up in the East Eighty-eighth Street station on a charge of felonious assault.

About the time McGinn was shot a citizen informed Policeman O'Hara that two men were acting in a suspicious manner on the roof of the tenement at 1,399 Third Avenue. When the policeman reached the roof he saw two men trying to hide behind a chimney. The men fled downstairs, with the policeman in pursuit. At the third floor one of the men reached into his coat pocket, the policeman said, as though to draw a pistol, and O'Hara shot the man in the right side. The shot stopped both men.

The wounded man, who said he was Phillip Goldberg, 25 years old, of 215 East Seventy-eighth Street, was taken to Bellevue Hospital, a prisoner on a charge of having burglar's tools in his possession. The policeman said Goldberg was trying to dispose of a jimmy when he shot him.

The second man said he was James Kely, 18 years old, of 349 East Eighty-seventh Street. He was locked up as a suspicious person.

Although he obeyed the command of a burglar to throw up his hands Samuel Greenman, 24 years old, a dry goods merchant, with an office in Manhattan, was shot and slightly wounded in the forehead at his home, 102 Bay Thirty-second Street, Bath Beach, Brooklyn, last night.

Greenman and his mother had returned from a visit to the home of a friend in the vicinity, and he had thrown on the electric light in the hall when he saw a man coming down the stairs from the second floor.

The intruder pointed a pistol at him, Greenman later told the police, shouting: "Throw up your hands!" Greenman obeyed, but the man advanced toward him and fired at his head. The bullet plowed along his forehead and Greenman fell. The intruder fled through a rear door.

Mrs. Greenman summoned a doctor, who dressed her son's wound, and then notified the police at the Bath Beach Station. Investigation revealed that the robber had forced the rear door of the house and was ransacking the sleeping rooms upstairs when the Greenmans returned.

James G. Blaine Jr., Chairman of the stockholders' committee of Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, issued a statement yesterday that he knew nothing about assessment paid stock of the company reported to have been dealt in on the Curb Market. Mr. Blaine's statement follows:

"I do not know anything about the assessment paid stock as reported to have been traded in yesterday. Plans for future financing and organization of Gaston, Williams & Wigmore are still being discussed, consequently no one is authorized to make any statements that there will be a new issue of stock. The present stock is non-assessable. This committee will not approve any plan which does not permit the present stockholders of Gaston, Williams & Wigmore to participate in that plan without putting up further money unless they so desire."

SAY RAIL AGREEMENTS MAKE WORKERS FREE

Clerks Tell Labor Board Abrogation Means Slavery and Renewed Industrial War.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Perpetuation of the national agreements between the railroads and their employes will prevent a return to what amounts to civil war among industrial workers, according to arguments made before the Railroad Labor Board by representatives of the clerks who opposed the carriers' objections to the agreements.

R. P. Dee, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes, declared that to abrogate the national agreements "would be equivalent to re-establishing old conditions of armored trains, private detective agencies and all the evils for which they stand.

"Through the national agreements," he said, "a new spirit has been born in the breasts of the workers, and we will not peacefully bow down to conditions which prevailed prior to Jan. 1, 1918. The worker has sipped the true meaning of liberty and will not submit to the shackles of industrial slavery being fastened upon him."

Mr. Dee declared the national agreements provided for an orderly process of handling disputes without interruption to traffic in contrast to "continuous strife" prior to Jan. 1, 1918.

E. H. Fitzgerald, President of the organization, presented these arguments for continuing the rules:

To secure a higher state of efficiency.

To avoid loss of time and wages of employes.

To avoid unwarranted dismissal of employes.

To establish in the service a feeling of security in the confidence that faithful service will be recognized and rewarded.

To raise the self-respect of employes and unite them more closely to the carriers by removing the element of force.

To avoid interruption of transportation and inconvenience to the public.

EXPLAINS CIVIC REPORT.

E. P. Wheeler Says National Federation Commends Religious Work.

Everett P. Wheeler yesterday requested publication of his statement that the report of the National Civic Federation on "Socialism in the Churches," which had been criticised by Dr. Coffin and Professor Brown, did not relate to religious meetings at the Labor Temple. The religious work of the American International Church, he said, his organization commended, as it was much needed and of great importance.

"As to the evening forum and lecture our information is different from that which our critics have received," he added. "In the nature of the case their opinions must also be largely based upon information and upon their judgment as to the character of the teaching for which a Christian church should make itself responsible. Here, also, our judgment differs in some respects from theirs, as fully stated in the report. We had no intention of criticising the good faith or Christian spirit of the committee who have the general charge of these evening meetings, on the contrary, we admire the Christian purpose expressed by Professor Brown in his letters on the subject.

"The object of our report was to call attention to what we believed was an abuse, and to secure careful personal investigation by those charged with the general responsibility of the work at the Labor Temple."

NO CURB ON HOSPITAL.

Community Institution Not Affected by Medical College Action.

Dr. William H. Dieffenbach of 50 Central Park West denied yesterday that the action of the Board of Regents in removing the Trustees of the old New York Medical College and Hospital for Women would have any effect upon the Community Hospital, which occupies the building formerly used by the college at 19 West 105th Street.

Referring to an article in THE SUNDAY TIMES that the Alumnae Association of the college contemplated taking legal action to obtain control of the building, Dr. Dieffenbach said:

"The Community Hospital is incorporated under the State Board of Charities and has no connection whatever with the Regents of the State of New York. The Community Hospital has no connection whatever with the unincorporated Alumnae Association nor with the New York Medical College and Hospital for Women. This college has been closed since 1918, and the charter was surrendered in 1920, and if the Regents by removing the former Trustees see fit to revive the charter and a group of supporters can be found to finance the college it is a source of much gratification to all concerned."

FLYNN TO KEEP HIS POST.

Head of Secret Service Practically Assured of Present Job.

William J. Flynn, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, is to be retained under President Harding, according to reports in Republican circles yesterday. Mr. Flynn is in Washington, where he went on Monday for a conference with H. M. Daugherty, the next Attorney General.

Several men had been mentioned for Mr. Flynn's place, including William J. Burns, but because of Mr. Flynn's record in the service of almost twenty-five years and the unanimous indorsement of the New York State Republican organization, led by Senators Wadsworth and Calder, his retention has been practically decided upon. Mr. Flynn entered the United States Secret Service as an agent in 1897. He has been a life long Republican and is a charter member of the Riverside Republican Club, the oldest Republican club in the city.

HOLD 3 IN FAKE STOCK SALES

"Salesman" and Alleged Confederates Charged With Grand Larceny.

Charged with grand larceny of stock manipulations, William J. Hazard, 62 years old, of Richmond Hill, and two of his alleged confederates were arrested last night by detectives at Broadway and Barclay Street. The men arrested with Hazard were John Harrison, a broker, of Brooklyn, and John J. McAuley, a salesman, of 510 West 177th Street.

The three men, it is alleged, have defrauded several persons through a scheme by which one would obtain a job as stock salesman for a firm having stock for sale and introduce his confederates as prospects. The prospects would buy stock on worthless paper, it is alleged, and later the "salesman" representing that he wanted to go a distant part of the country to make a sale, would collect his commissions on the "sales" to his partners.

McAuley will be arraigned in General Sessions today on a previous indictment of grand larceny.

Charles E. Hughes, who will be Secretary of State in the Harding Administration, ended his connection with the law firm of Hughes, Rounds, Schurman & Dwight, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Hughes's legal associates will continue in partnership under the firm name of Rounds, Schurman & Dwight.

DRY RAIDERS HUNT 40 WHO ESCAPED

Transfer of Waiters and Bartenders Makes Identification Difficult, Says Agent.

TO INVESTIGATE BREWERIES

Boston Agents Hear That Beer With a Pre-War "Kick" Is Being Sold Here.

Forty persons, most of them bartenders or waiters, are still being sought by prohibition agents in connection with the dry raids Saturday night. Richard A. Kelly, chief of the Boston agents who made the raids here, said there was no doubt but that most of these men, under an interchange system adopted by proprietors, had been transferred to other saloons and restaurants. Identification of men selling whisky is made exceedingly difficult through this system, Mr. Kelly said.

It became known yesterday that the Boston agents, who expect to be here for some time, propose an investigation of breweries that are alleged to be supplying dealers in this city with beer containing an alcoholic content equal to that of pre-war days.

About thirty-five cases growing out of the raids Saturday night were disposed of by Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday, the defendants giving bail either for hearing on March 14, or for the Federal Grand Jury.

Federal Judge Edwin L. Garvin, in Brooklyn, yesterday sentenced Mrs. Helinor Van Niewvenburg to fifteen days in jail on a charge of selling whisky to prohibition agents at the hotel she and her husband have conducted for the last three years at Richmond and Lincoln Roads, Grant City, Staten Island.

Andrie Perollo, clerk in a delicatessen store at 5,713 Second Avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to twenty days in jail for selling whisky.

Pleading guilty to charges of padding hotel expenses to defraud the Government, Fred E. Boardway and David McManus, former Prohibition Inspectors on the staff of Director O'Connor, were sentenced by Federal Judge Mayer to one day's imprisonment each in the custody of the United States Marshal.

ASSAILS 18TH AMENDMENT.

Beck Says It Strikes at the Basic Idea of the Constitution.

James M. Beck, speaking at the Town Hall last night, declared that the Eighteenth Amendment, in seeking to regulate the habits of men, shows that its effect is to destroy the symmetry of the Federal Constitution and its basic idea of home rule.

"The Eighteenth Amendment," he said, "as well as the Fifteenth Amendment, strike at the very basic idea of the Federal Constitution, which was home rule for the States in all matters as to which there was not an imperative necessity for a uniform rule.

"The Nineteenth Amendment, by enormously augmenting the electorate, puts a further strain upon popular government. So far as the great experiment of women's suffrage has been tried it has disappointed those who prophesied disaster. It may prove the salvation of popular government in introducing into the electorate an element who presumably will uphold the ideal in the life of the nation."

SAYS DEAD CHINESE WAS TYPHUS VICTIM

Dr. Norris Decides Park Row Lodger Had the Disease, Dr. Somerset Is Not Positive.

Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner, reported a probable typhus death in the city to Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, yesterday. This is the second typhus fatality, the first having been that of James Halligan, 18-year-old Brooklynite, who died in St. Mary's Hospital.

The death reported by Dr. Norris was that of Ah Chin, 25 years old, a Chinese sailor. He was found in what appeared to be a stupor in a bunk in a Chinese boarding house at 149 Park Row on Monday when other Chinese called in a policeman. A physician from St. Vincent's Hospital said the man was dead, and yesterday an autopsy performed by Dr. Norris and his chief assistant, Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, decided that it was a probable typhus death.

Dr. William L. Somerset, Chief Diagnostician of the Department of Health, reported that the conditions indicated typhus, but that it was impossible to make a positive statement to that effect. Dr. Copeland said that the sanitary conditions in the Park Row lodging house were very bad. He reported that his men had sterilized the other occupants of the place and thoroughly cleaned the house.

Dr. Copeland said that for the first time the "cootie" was being found in the city's schools. He said the insects were the same as those found on returning soldiers.

EMIGRANTS HELD AT DANZIG.

Delousing Process Fails to Meet Our Quarantine Requirements.

DANZIG, March 1.—Local officers in charge of the disinfection of emigrants have failed to comply with American quarantine regulations, and bills of health are being withheld from vessels carrying second and third class passengers. It was found that many individuals who had gone through the delousing process instituted by the Danzig municipality, which holds a contract with steamship companies to carry on that work, still had vermin on their persons.

HAMBURG, March 1.—Shipping companies sending emigrants from Hamburg have established delousing plants in the emigrant hall of the Hamburg-American Line, where persons leaving port are placed under the supervision of an American physician. Emigrants are not allowed to find lodgings in town, but are required to stay in the emigrant hall.

KILLED IN GAMBLING ROW.

Man's Alleged Slayer Caught in Chase in Which Magistrate Joins.

Magistrate Francis X. Mancuso was walking in Third Avenue and three detectives were eating in a coffee house early this morning when the sound of shots from a tenement at No. 2,133, near 117th Street, sent them all chasing after two fleeing men.

They caught them after the detectives had fired a number of shots and brought them back to the tenement, where a young man named Shannon lay dead with a bullet in his body. George McCormick of 238 East Ninety-fifth Street, who, the detectives said, admitted doing the shooting as the result of a row over a gambling debt, was held on a charge of homicide and the other captive was detained for further questioning.

QUEENS HAS FIRST WOMAN SHERIFF

Mrs. Ebba Winslow, Well-Known Republican, Honored by Sheriff Wagner.

Mrs. Ebba Winslow of Rosedale was yesterday appointed by Sheriff John Wagner of Queens to be a Deputy Sheriff. She is the first woman to receive such recognition. The Sheriff is considering the appointment of a number of women as special deputies, but their appointment is largely honorary. Mrs. Winslow has a real job and is entitled to draw a salary of $1,800 a year. After her appointment she was presented by Sheriff Wagner with a handsome gold shield.

Mrs. Winslow is known as one of the most aggressive woman Republicans in Queens. She is Vice Chairman of the Queens County Republican Committee and head of the women's bureau. It was as a result of her work in this capacity that the women voters in Queens in the Republican registration tripled their enrolment.

She was a delegate from Queens to the Republican National Convention which nominated President Harding, and also to the Republican State Convention which nominated Governor Miller. She has been in politics for years, and was one of five women whom the late President Roosevelt selected to assist in the management of his campaign for re-election.

MICHIGAN ROAD TAKES BLAME FOR THE WRECK

President Schearer Says Inquiry Showed His Engine Crew Failed to Obey Signal.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Henry Schearer, general manager of the Michigan Central lines, announced tonight that the road's investigation had proved that the engineer and fireman of the Michigan Central train were to blame for the wreck at Porter, Ind., Sunday night in which thirty-seven persons were killed.

"In the matter of the unfortunate collision at the crossing of the New York Central and Michigan Central Railroads at Porter, Ind. Sunday, Feb. 27, of New York Central Train 151 and Michigan Central 20," said Mr. Schearer's statement, "after careful investigation of the facts with all interested employes and conference with officials just completed, it has been determined that Engineer W. S. Long and Fireman George F. Block on Engine 8,306, Train 20, violated rules and regulations in failing to observe and properly obey signal indications, and will be forthwith dismissed from the service."

Mr. Schearer's statement was telegraphed from Kalamazoo, Mich., to The Associated Press Chicago office.

It was the final finding of the Michigan Central Road, as a result of a complete investigation, Mr. Schearer said.

Its contents conformed with the contention of the New York Central road that the Michigan Central crew were to blame for the disaster and bore out the statements of the towermen at the Porter intersection, Joe Cook, that only the New York Central train had been given the signal to proceed.

Cook had maintained that the signals were set against the Michigan Central train, but that the engine crew of the latter disregarded them.

One Spot That Everyone Knows

ASK almost any New Yorker—or the visitor from out-of-town—where Times Square and the Times Building are.

They know at once that it is in the centre of the hotel and theatre district, and close to the retail shopping section—that surface and subway lines focus there—that its appearance and situation are familiar to all.

Count these advantages in considering a location for your offices.

The entire twenty-second floor is now available in The Times Building—2100 square feet; daylight on all four sides; all night elevator service.

Store space of 500 square feet in the subway basement; three sides of glass afford opportunity for display to passing subway thousands.

Reasonable rents; immediate possession.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The weather chart of Tuesday night showed areas of high barometer in the Atlantic States and the far Northwest and an extensive area of low barometer over the Mississippi Valley and the Plains States, with the centre of minimum pressure over Northern Minnesota.

This pressure distribution has been attended by unusually warm weather over practically all parts of the country, and particularly so over the great Central Valleys and the Plains States. The weather has become considerably colder, however, over the Eastern Canadian provinces.

Within the last twenty-four hours there were rains in Eastern Texas and light local rains over the Northern States from New England westward to the Pacific Coast. Fair weather continued in other regions.

The disturbance that was central Tuesday night over Northern Minnesota will advance eastward, and be attended by unsettled weather and rains Wednesday in the region of the Great Lakes and possibly the Upper Ohio Valley and Wednesday night and Thursday in the North Atlantic States. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Tennessee and the Lower Ohio Valley the weather will be fair Wednesday and probably Thursday.

Mild temperature will prevail Wednesday east of the Mississippi River. The weather will become cooler Wednesday night and Thursday in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee, and Thursday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States.

FORECAST TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Cloudy in south and rain in north portion Wednesday. Thursday clearing and cooler.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy and warm Wednesday, followed by showers Wednesday night. Thursday clearing and cooler.

Northern New England—Cloudy Wednesday, followed by rain Wednesday night and Thursday; moderate temperature.

Southern New England—Cloudy Wednesday, followed by rain Wednesday night or Thursday; cooler Thursday.

Western New York—Cloudy, with light rain Wednesday. Thursday cloudy and colder.

Business Getter in Construction Company

The advertiser is a building company which has been specializing in high-class remodelling and reconstruction operations and has made a notable success in that field. It feels a human pride in the distinction of its clients and in the esteem in which it is held by them.

Somewhere in this city there is a young man of good personality, of high business ideals, presumably technically trained—either in architecture or engineering—who feels that his wide social acquaintance would warrant the belief that he could influence a good class of business were he connected with a firm which, by its ideals and achievements and its aim at conservative expansion, would stimulate his best qualities.

This advertisement is written in the hope it will reach the eye of such a man. His reply will be treated confidentially, but we would like to have it contain the fullest details. Terms will be easily arranged with the right man. V 321 Times.

K. OF C. TO COMBAT ATTACKS ON JEWS

Head of Organization Denounces Any Attempt to Arouse Racial or Religious Prejudice.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Denouncing an alleged anti-Jewish movement in southern parts of the United States, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of the Knights of Columbus announced at his home here tonight that he had called upon 2,200 Knights of Columbus lecturers in the United States and Canada to combat anti-Semitism.

"An attack on one religion or race may easily develop into an attack on any religion or race," his message to the lecturers read.

"The Knights of Columbus will oppose the anti-Semitic movement because it is un-American. There are undesirables of every race in this country, but that does not justify proscription of any race. So long as there is notoriety and profit in the practice of prejudice we shall be plagued with the anti-Jewish and other movements. It is our concern to oppose these powers of suspicion and hatred, who are simply Bolshevist bigots meriting deportation more than the Reds shipped away last year."

FREES 2 MINERS FROM TRIAL

Prosecution Asks Discharge of Albert Burgraff and William Star.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., March 1.—Seventeen defendants were standing trial in the Matewan battle case this afternoon instead of nineteen after the State had rested its case and asked the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty against "Ab" (Albert) Burgraff and William Star. It was said by the State that it had failed to establish sufficient evidence to warrant continued prosecution of the two men, who were indicted on charges in connection with the killing of Albert C. Felts, who met death, with six other Baldwin-Felts detectives, in the Matewan gun fight last May.

The men were formally discharged in this specific case, but still are under indictment on other counts arising from the deaths of the remaining detectives.

The defense placed two witnesses on the stand this afternoon—Tony Webb, formerly chief deputy for ex-Sheriff G. T. Blankenship, and Jack Gallion, a barber of Huntington, but formerly of Matewan. After Webb's examination, J. J. Coniff, an attorney for the defendants, announced that the defense would rely upon a plea of not guilty based on self-defense.

SHOP ROBBED FOURTH TIME.

Thieves Busy in One Block on 125th Street—Seven Recent Burglaries.

Sometime between 10 o'clock on Monday night and 8 o'clock yesterday morning burglars again broke into the lingerie store of Liberman Brothers, 130 West 125th Street, and stole more than $1,000 worth of women's silk underwear. This was the fourth time that Liberman Brothers have been robbed, and the store was the seventh in the same block to be entered by thieves within four to six weeks, apparently by the same band. The block is bounded by Lenox and Seventh Avenues, and all of the stores are on the south side of 125th Street. Thousands of dollars in merchandise have been taken.

DEBS GETS USE OF MAILS

But Suspension on Privilege of Receiving Visitors Is Still in Effect.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The privilege of receiving and sending mail has been restored to Eugene V. Debs, who is a prisoner in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, it was announced today at the Department of Justice.

This privilege, as well as the privilege of receiving visitors, was suspended because of an interview given by Debs in which President Wilson was criticized.

Suspension of the privilege of receiving visitors is still in effect.

SCHWILL HEARING PUT OFF.

Man Arrested in Ritz Carlton to Produce Chicago Witnesses.

Magistrate Edgar V. Frothingham yesterday in the Tombs Court adjourned until next Wednesday the examination of Julius Schwill, the Chicago malt manufacturer, who was arrested recently in the Ritz Carlton for having part of the money orders stolen from the International General Electric Company, 120 Broadway, on Oct. 10. The delay was to enable several witnesses to come here from Chicago.

Assistant District Attorney Peter Sabbatino told the Magistrate that he had had a conference with William M. Chadbourne, the third counsel retained by Mr. Schwill since his arrest, and that he would consent to an adjournment to allow Mr. Schwill to produce the witnesses.

2 ARRESTS HERE GIVE MAIL THEFT CLUE

Men Held Sold Bonds With Numbers Missing in $1,000,000 Toledo Robbery.

Through the arrest of two men late yesterday afternoon Inspector Coughlin, head of the Detective Bureau, and Post Office Inspectors Vick and Troemscgard expect to obtain clues to the identity of the men who robbed a post office in Toledo, Ohio, on Feb. 16 of six sacks of mail containing about $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds and negotiable securities.

Frank Miller, 44 years old, a salesman, who said he lived at 1,883 Madison Street, Ridgewood, Queens, and Joseph Fisher, 35 years old, 410 East Sixth Street, were arrested. Miller had offered for sale at the President Institute, a brokerage house, 232 East Sixty-ninth Street, two $1,000 Liberty bonds which were identified from their numbers as part of the loot obtained in the Detroit robbery.

The detectives saw the two men leaving the brokerage house on Monday afternoon, and after questioning one of the clerks, learned that Fisher had just disposed of the bond, and after warning the bond dealers not to dispose of it, went to the Federal Reserve Bank to verify the number.

The bond dealers had told the detectives that Fisher promised to return the next day with another bond. Soon after 2 o'clock, said the detectives, Miller entered the brokerage office and Fisher waited on the corner.

Detective Skelly walked in as Miller was offering two $1,000 Liberty bonds for sale. Skelly asked Miller where he received the bonds and he replied that "the fellow standing on the corner gave them to me." Detective Deishley in the meantime had stationed himself near Fisher, and when Detective Skelly motioned to him he grabbed Fisher and brought him into the store. There Fisher, according to the detectives, declared he found eleven $1,000 Liberty bonds near Brooklyn Bridge several days ago.

BOND THEFT WITNESS GIVES HIMSELF UP

Wanted in $466,000 Robbery, Philadelphian Is Put in $35,000 Bail.

Daniel B. Stebbins, 39 years old, of 6,047 Nassau Street, Philadelphia, was held in $35,000 bail as a material witness in the theft of $466,000 in Liberty bonds from two mesengers employed by Kean, Taylor & Co., bankers, when arraigned yesterday before Judge Martin in the Kings County Court. Stebbins, who declared he was a salesman, accompanied by his lawyer, William J. Fallon, walked into Inspector Coughlin's office at Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon, and said he understood the police were looking for him.

As soon as he revealed his identity Inspector Coughlin said: "I should say we do want you; we want you very badly in connection with that Kean, Taylor & Co. hold-up in Brooklyn."

Meat
—then and now

The meat peddler of the old days, who killed his own live stock and then sold the meat from the tail of a cart, is gone from our larger towns and cities. He was a pioneer and did good service but he couldn't keep up with his job. Crude methods had to give way to new ideas in sanitation and distribution.

Concentration of population drove the peddler and his wagon out and brought the modern packing industry and the neighborhood retailer in his place.

And the modern packing business means this:

That near the farms and ranches, the centers of live stock production, are packing plants that assemble and manufacture the meat products you use.

That swift and sanitary refrigerator cars carry your meat from these packing plants to every part of the country.

Dealers in towns and villages are supplied directly and regularly from these refrigerator cars.

And in cities the refrigerator car is unloaded into branch houses, chilled and sanitary, from which deliveries are made to your meat shop. And all the time the meat is kept so chilled that deterioration is prevented.

Swift & Company's plants and branches are co-ordinated, interchanging supply and supporting each other, when necessary, so that no section of the country may ever lack its daily meat.
